Bipartisan Policy Split Is Possible

Taft Hints GOP Presidential Candidates May Make Things Hot For Truman, Says Foreign Moves Not Actually Two-Party

ANNANDALE-ON-HUDSON, N. Y., May 22.—(AP)—Senator Robert A. Taft said tonight that "as we approach election" it is the right and duty of Republicans "to point t the fallacies" of the Truman foreign policy.

In a speech at Bard college, he said there has "only been a bipartisan policy in a few limited fields. In most matters the President makes the policy and asks us to agree to it.

"We have usually done so in order that the prestige of America may not be destroyed because of conflicting voices in high authority."

But, added the Ohio Republican, an aspirant for his party's presidential nomination:

"As we approach an election, however, it is certainly our right and our duty to point out the fallicies of the policies which have been pursued, and present the policies of our party which will guide us if the people elect a Republican president."

The U. S. foreign policy, he said, should, in part, be based on "consistent opposition to the spread of communism in this country and throughout the world."

The spread of communism is the direct result of our own policies, he

SENATE MAY STRIP 18-YEAR-OLD CALL FROM DRAFT PLANS

BOTH PARTIES PROMISE FIGHT AGAINST LOW AGE

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(AP)—All Congressional plans for drafting 18 year old youths were reported junked today.

A member of the Senate Armed Services committee said 12 of its 13 members have agreed to revise its selective service bill to strip out the section calling for one year of compulsory military training for 161,000 of the 18 year olds.

The member asked not to be quoted by name. Chairman Gurney (R-SD) refused to comment, but it was learned that he has been checking the committee members on this point.

Under the new proposal 18 year olds would be allowed to volunteer for one year of service. After that they would have to serve four years as members of the national guard or other reserve units with regular drill periods and summer training camps or cruises.

Men from 19 through 25 would be subject to drafting for two years.

Army, navy and air force leaders have estimated that they will get 250,000 volunteers for the one-year training program, far more than the 161,000 who were to have been drafted.

House Speaker Martin (R-Mass) last week announced that the House would not accept any scheme for drafting 18-year-olds as provided in the Senate bill.

Senators Taft (-Ohio), Byrd (D-Va), Wilson (R-Iowa) and others in that body also had promised a vigorous Senate fight against drafting of the 18 year olds.

The latest Senate move, as reported, brings its bill closer in line with a House measure which calls for drafting men 19 through 25 years with registration of those 18 through 30 years. The Senate bill limits registration to 18 through 25.

The House bill still lacks clearance from the Rules committee and that is not expected until early next month.

The revised Senate bill may be taken up during the next week. It is listed for consideration as soon as the Senate acts on a pending farm money bill and a measure to admit 100,000 European displaced persons.

Gurney said that if the displaced persons bill is not cleared by midweek he will ask Senate leaders to put it aside to act on the draft measure.

The one-year training plan for 18-year-olds was worked out by senators as a substitute for the original ad-

Baccalaureate Exercise Will Be Held In Brown Hall At 4:30 Today

Commencement activities for the 92 candidates for the diploma at Northeast Junior College will begin Sunday at 4:30 p. m. with the baccalaureate exercises conducted in Brown Hall auditorium. The public is invited through this medium to attend.

The processional, Handel's "March from the Overture to Occasional Oratorio," with Mrs. Florence Ziegler Allbritton at the organ, will open the program. The invocation will be given by Rev. C. S. Cadwallader, Jr., pastor of the College Place Baptist Church in Monroe.

The audience will then sing "Come Thou Almighty King" by Felix Cirardini. This is to be followed by a piano solo, Chopin's "Fantasie Impromptu," Opus 56, which will be played by Ethel Rose Rogers, a freshman major in music from Columbia.

Other music numbers will include two vocal selections, "Blessed Is He That Cometh" by Martin Luvaas and "Emitte Spiritum Tumm" by Joseph Schiatky, both sung by the mixed chorus under direction of Miss Gertrude Sandrock, and accompanied by James F. Monroe.

Dr. Guy Hicks, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Alexandria, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon. At the conclusion of the sermon, the doxology, "Old Hundred," will be sung, then Rev. Cadwallader will pronounce the benediction. The recessional, DeKoven's "Recessional," played by Mrs. Allbritton, will conclude the service.

Climaxing the graduating seniors' activities will be the commencement exercises in Brown Hall auditorium

AVIATRIX CLAIMS NEW SPEED RECORD

PALM SPRINGS, Calif., May 22.—(AP)—Jacqueline Cochran landed her special P-51 plane safely today after streaking from here to Santa Fe, N. M., and return and claimed a new world's speed record of 446 miles an hour over a 2,000-kilometer closed course.

The old mark was 440.

Miss Cochran's flight, during which she experienced oxygen trouble over Arizona on the outward leg, was clocked by H. Dudley Wright, representative of the National Aeronautical association. The time was 2 hours, 46 minutes, 38 seconds.

PROVIDENCE GIRL KILLED BY TRUCK

6-Year-Old First Grade Student Crushed By Hay-Laden Machine

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., May 22.—(Special)—A 6-year-old first grade student at the Catholic school died late this afternoon from injuries received when she walked from behind a parked automobile and into the path of a truck in front of the Courthouse square here.

The girl, Helen Olivia Butler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Clarence Butler, was reported to have left home with her cousin and neighbor to get bubble gum. She walked from behind a parked automobile and was struck down by a truck ladened with hay and driven by a Negro, Mack Thompson.

Witness to the accident was Chief Deputy Charles Muirhead, who termed the incident unavoidable on the part of the truck driver.

According to the deputy, he took the girl to the hospital where the attending physician attributed death to a crushed abdomen.

Besides her parents, the young girl

NEW 5 MILLION DOLLAR PLANT SHIPS METHANOL

Production of methanol has begun at a new unit of Commercial Solvents Corporation at the Dixie Plant, Sterlington. The company was the first to produce and market synthetic methanol in this country back in 1926 at its Peoria plant which will continue to make methanol at capacity.

The first tank car of methanol from the new plant was shipped last week. The product is reported to be of the highest quality. Output will help to alleviate the continuing shortage of this widely-used chemical.

The new plant, constructed at a cost of $5,000,000, is expected to reach a production rate of 45,000 gallons a day. Additional power plant facilities are being provided to meet the requirements of capacity production.

A portion of the output will be used in the making of the company's methanol anti-freeze, sold by the Specialties Division under the brand name of Nor'way. A new plant, costing a quarter of a million dollars, is being completed at Dixie to package Nor'way anti-freeze and also Peak (glycol) anti-freeze for distribution to western and southern states.

The methanol will also be used for producing formaldehyde, amines and other chemical products of the company, as well as increasing the amount available for marketing by CSC's Industrial Chemical Division.

Monroe Vet Groups Reverse Bonus Plea

Two Largest Veteran Organizations Say Plan Not Wanted If It Entails Raising Of Tax Rates, Withdraw Resolutions

Members of Monroe's two largest veterans organizations were in agreement yesterday against the $50-$250 bonus proposed by Gov. Earl K. Long.

The Rodney J. Hobbs Post No. 1809 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars made public a resolution condemning the bonus because the tax increase necessary to finance it is not in the best interests of our state."

At the same time Gilbert Faulk, commander of the L. B. Faulk American Legion post, reported members of that organization had expressed their opposition in an informal vote at their last week's meeting.

The possibility of opposition by other veterans groups was indicated by Clarence Cash, past commander of the West Monroe V. F. W. and a mem-

Jes' Ramblin'

Dear "Jes Ramblin":

Two church leaders in the twin-cities deserve mention. Mrs. C. E. Gibson of First Methodist Church, Monroe, for many years secretary of the Woman's Society of Christian Service in the Monroe district, and missionary leadership in her own church has been honored for her recent leadership in the organization of a new church on the Gourd's Bayou Road, south of the city. The new church has been officially named "Gibson's Chapel."

R. L. Roberts, Pear St., W. Monroe as chairman of the building committee of Brownville Methodist Church, has given much time and labor, and inspired others to give liberally of money and labor towards the completion of a new church and parsonage in that community.

"A Friend"

On this mundane sphere the best laid plans of mice and men oft gang aglee. Right here in Monroe, a man, S. B. Taylor enlisted at the Monroe U. S. army and U. S. air force recruiting station for assignment at Fort Bliss, Texas. Somehow through clerical error he was sent to Camp Stoneman, Calif., for overseas shipment.

The commanding general at Camp Stoneman sent a wire back to Monroe asking for clarification of the man's assignment. And then statements, telegrams and letters were sent showing that he did actually enlist for Fort Bliss, Tex.

A letter from Mr. Taylor shows the action taken by the commanding general at Camp Stoneman. This shows

2 DROWN, 32 TAKEN FROM CAPSIZED BOAT

MANASQUAN, N. J., May 22.—(AP)—Two men were drowned and 32 persons rescued today from a 40-foot party fishing boat which capsized in heavy swells a mile out in the Atlantic ocean.

The survivors, picked up by nearby fishing craft, included one woman.

The coast guard announced an investigation was underway.

The Squirt, a 40-foot vessel owned and captained by John Bauer, 56, of Westfield, overturned off Manasquan inlet early this morning, 15 minutes after leaving Kens Landing with a procession of other fishing boats.

All 34 persons aboard were thrown into the windswept water. Nearby fishing boats went to the rescue, picking up the bobbing survivors.

Bauer told police the Squirt ran into a heavy swell, rolled and took water on the starboard side. Many of the passengers, he said, rushed port side and lay there. "Then men started sliding into the water," he said, "that made it worse."

RUSSIAN PEACE OFFENSIVE DIES

Moscow May Make Offers Of Minor Concessions To Prove Good Faith

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(AP)—American officials said today that Russia's "peace offensive" appears to be playing out without serious damage to this country's foreign policy of its prestige abroad.

Two further Soviet moves were regarded here as entirely possible, however:

1. An offer of minor concessions on any of a number of outstanding issues in the United Nations or elsewhere, as though to prove Moscow's good faith in seeking settlements.

2. A full-blown propaganda campaign to show that Premier Stalin and Foreign Minister Molotov sought to negotiate an end to the "cold war" but President Truman and Secretary Marshall blocked their efforts.

An indication that the latter course may be followed came this week in a Tass news agency dispatch charging that the Russian-American exchanges showed up an "aggressive attitude"

FARMER IS PINNED BENEATH TRACTOR

WINNSBORO, La., May 22.—(Special)—Arthur Smith, 51-year-old farmer of near Jigger, four miles west of Gilbert in Franklin parish, was seriously injured shortly after noon today when a tractor which he was operating, turned over, pinning him beneath the machine.

Smith and a neighbor, J. W. Linder, 41, were using two tractors in ditching when Smith's tractor turned over and pinned him to the ground. Linder used his machine in pulling the overturned tractor off of Smith.

Taken to the Winnsboro Sanitarium by a Mulhearn ambulance, Smith was reported by his physician to have suffered a compound fracture of his left leg, a fracture of two right ribs, shock and possible internal injuries.

OREGON LOSS TO CAUSE STASSEN STOCK TO DROP

Dewey May Have Halted Minnesotan's Last Drive For GOP Nomination

LOSER WILL CONTINUE EFFORTS IN ILLINOIS

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(AP)—The victory by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey in the Oregon primary threatened today to apply the brakes abruptly to Harold E. Stassen's drive for the GOP presidential nomination.

With the votes from yesterday's primary counted in 1196 of the state's 1851 precincts, Dewey had 58,383 and Stassen 51,781, a lead of more than 6,600. Stassen announced he had wired congratulations to Dewey.

Dewey himself said he was "happy" over the return but delayed victory claims.

Most politicians here said Stassen lost in Oregon what he needed to start again the bandwagon that rolled out of the Wisconsin and Nebraska primaries but which slowed in Ohio.

Nevertheless, Stassen announced plans to campaign in Illinois, Missouri, Massachusetts and the south before convention time. "We will re-

LEWIS PUBLISHES PENSION REPORT

Expert Says Miner's Retirement Pay Can Be Made From Fund For 10 Years

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(AP)—John L. Lewis made public today a pension expert's report which concluded that the present 10-cents-a-ton royalty on coal could pay 60-year-old miners $100 a month and still leave a $210,000,000 fund at the end of 10 years.

The report was prepared by Murray W. Latimer, former chairman of the U. S. railroad retirement board, who was asked by the United Mine Workers Union to make a study. It attached a study in the same field by a firm of Philadelphia actuaries hired by Ezra Van Horn, the soft coal operators' trustee.

For that reason the report was useful to Lewis as part of his word battle with the operators. But it could hardly be used to bolster any move for an increase in the 10-cent royalty in forthcoming contract negotiations.

On the other hand, the operators' report painted a much darker picture of what could be done with 10 cents a ton. The Philadelphia firm (Towers, Perrin, Forster and Crosby) said that $35,000,000 would have to be set aside annually just to finance a $50 monthly pension for miners over 65 years old.

Lewis has served notice that pen-

MIHAI STRIPPED OF ROMANIAN WEALTH

BUCHAREST, Romania, May 22.—(AP)—The Romanian government announced today it had deprived Former Mihai and four members of his family of Romanian citizenship and confiscated their vast property holdings—including 143 castles with 3,060 rooms.

The four were Mihai's mother, Queen Helen; his uncle Nicolai; two aunts, Queen Elizabeth, divorced wife of the late King George II of Greece, and the Archduchess Ileana of Austria.

In addition the government seized as national property 16 hunting castles and cottages with 88 rooms, more than 400,000 acres of land, and jewels, securities and art treasures valued at millions of dollars.

Airfield Hit By 3 Attacks

Cairo Sources Say Raids Against Evacuation Airport Is All Mistake, Were Aiming At Jewish Strip, 4 Britishers Dead

TEL AVIV, Israel, May 22.—(AP)—The British said today that RAF fighter pilots shot down four Egyptian Spitfires in engagements over a British airfield near Haifa.

(An Egyptian communique said five of their planes were lost and that the attacks were a mistake. The Egyptian fliers, aiming at Jewish airport southwest of Nazareth, were confused by bad weather, the communique said).

The Egyptians made three bombing and strafing attacks on the Ramit David Airfield, 14 miles southeast of Haifa, the British said.

Four members of the British ground crew were killed and three were seriously wounded, British military headquarters in Haifa reported. Two British planes, a Dakota and a Spitfire, were destroyed in the runway.

(The Cairo communique said that Egyptian airforce planes began carrying out a planned attack on the Jewish airport at Megiddo, south of Nazareth, at 5:30 a. m., local time.

("But bad weather conditions," it explained, "made the planes mistake the British airport at Ramit David

U. S. CONSUL HIT BY SNIPER FIRE

Thomas Wasson, Head American Embassy In Embattled City, Wounded

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(AP)—Thomas C. Wasson, United States consul general at Jerusalem, and a member of his staff were wounded today in the first major incident of the battle for the Holy City to involve Americans.

The top U. S. representative in Palestine, Wasson, 52, was wounded "gravely" by a sniper as he braved gunfire in the streets in trying to arrange a cease fire agreement between Arabs and Jewis, the state department reported.

This official account was given:

A member of the three-man United Nations security council truce commission, Wasson was returning on foot from a meeting of the group at the French consulate.

Just outside the American consulate, a .30 caliber bullet from an unidentified sniper felled him.

After first aid treatment, he was taken in an armored ambulance to the Hadassah English Mission Hospital. There doctors gave him better than an even chance to recover. The bullet passed through his right arm and chest.

Herbert M. Walker, member of a naval communications unit which maintains a radio link between Jerusalem and Washington, was hit by machine gun bullets near the consulate general. Dispatches indicated this was a separate incident.

Walker, 27, is a navy chief engineer. A native of Mountainsburg, Ark., he lists his next of kin as a brother, L. C. Walker, of (205 Poydras St.) Dallas, Texas.

MEAT STRIKE IS LARGELY AT END

CIO Unions Go Back To Work In Majority Of Former Picketed Plants

CHICAGO, May 22. —(AP)—The C. I. O. meat handlers strike was over at most plants throughout the country today and industry sources forecast this good news for housewives:

1. Meat supplies probably will start spurting next week as some livestock believed held back on farms is shipped to market.

2.—The additional supplies may result in lower retail prices.

There are some "ifs" in the price outlook—the principal one being how strong a demand for meat develops. Even if receipts at livestock markets boom Monday, it will be a week or 10 days before these additional meat supplies reach the nation's butcher shops in volume.

The prices of meat on the hoof and on the butcher's shelves have been heading in opposite directions since

SERVICE STATIONS PROTESTING TAXES

Labor Organization Fight Beer Revenue Hike, Gas Retailers To Close

NEW ORLEANS, May 22.—(AP)—Service station and labor groups started organizing today to oppose increased taxes on gasoline and beer proposed by the administration of Gov. Earl K. Long.

Joining in also is the Louisiana division of the American Automobile Association, whose Manager J .Y. Koch, called a meeting in Baton Rouge tomorrow to consider the proposed two-cents-a-gallon increase in the state tax on gasoline.

C. J. Dufau of New Orleans, president of the Service Station Association of Louisiana, has asked service stations in the entire state to close on Monday, in protest against any hike in the present state tax of seven cents a gallon.

Dufau also said a mass meeting of service station operators had been called for 9 a. m. Monday in the New Orleans municipal auditorium to protest the tax increase.

A similar meeting for North Louisiana was called at Shreveport for 8 p. m. tonight by John Clyde Foster, president of the Caddo-Bossier Parish Service Station Association.

Dufau asked automobile and truck drivers to fill up their gasoline tanks over the week-end in preparation for the anticipated one-day shutdown.

At Shreveport, Foster said the proposed two-cent increase would place Louisiana "out of line with other states."

Chris Stovall, past president of the Caddo-Bossier Association, commented that the tax increase on gasoline would adversely affect dealers near state lines because of a cheaper price in adjoining states.

Gas service station operators in at least two cities, Lafayette and Lake Charles, decided not to observe the suggested Monday closing, but to enter protest against increases.

On the proposed five-cents a bottle tax on beer, Fred C. Pieper, state director of the CIO, said:

"The working man positively cannot afford to pay five cents more for beer."

Pieper, speaking on behalf of the legislative committee of the Louisiana State Industrial Union Council (CIO), said it favored "a well-balanced and equitable tax program."

He suggested that the legislature

OFFERS RENEWAL OF OPERATOR CONTRACT

ATLANTA, May 22. —(AP)—The Southern Bell Telephone company announced today it had offered to renew the present contract with the communications workers of America for two years, with a provision for reopening wage negotiations after six months.

Earlier the union rejected a company proposal for a one year contract.

The union representing 42,000 workers, in a statement before the company made its offer, said Southern Bell had made no offer to adjust basic wages. The union statement added:

"The company's offer to renew the contract would perpetuate the present wage inequities for at least another year."

Southern Bell said it would continue bargaining with the union on Monday, May 24.—(AP)—under auspices of the U. S. conciliation service. The latter has been taking part in the negotiations during the week.

IC 'OLD RELUCTANT' DROPS RACE WITH 'MULE EXPRESS'

GREENVILLE, Miss., May 22.—(AP)—Delta Mississippi's "mule express" finished a 35-mile race ahead of the Illinois Central's "Old Reluctant" today but there were rumors the old, old "Fix" was in.

Nature boy, the last of four mules ridden in relays from Cleveland, Miss., to Greenville, a 35 mile trip, walked into Greenville a scant three minutes ahead of "Old Reluctant," as Deltans had dubbed it train No. 23.

The race was staged by Delta leaders as a publicity stunt to point up their complaints of poor train service.

The Illinois Central refused to go along with the gag but, with tongue in cheek, Deltans were predicting today the railroad would protest to the interstate commerce commission that the race was fixed—that the mules traveled only part of the 35 mile route.

The race started at Cleveland when "Old Reluctant" arrived there on time to the dot at 11:52 a. m. John Fletcher, Hodding Carter, editor of the Greenville Delta Democrat-Times, revealed the truth about the mules' participation in the race.

Actually, he said, a mule would be ridden posthaste out of town and would be met a mile outside by a police car which would rush mail, saddle-bags and the rider to within a mile of the next town. Here the rider would board another mule and tear into town at a furious pace, carrying the saddle bags.

Cleveland funeral director, rode the first mule. To protect himself against

SHERIFF COVERDALE RETIRING AFTER MANY YEARS' SERVICE

Will Step Out Of Office After Total Of More Than 35 Years

By Margaret Gambrell

After serving as sheriff of Ouachita parish for 24 years, Milton Coverdale is retiring from public office. The slightly grey-haired sheriff was elected to office six consecutive terms and was unopposed in the campaign of 1940.

He has served in public offices for more than 35 years. This winter he will be 56, though he seems no older than 45.

It was to talk of his two-and-a-half decades in office as sheriff that the call by the reporter was made.

Twenty-four years seems a long time to work in one town, at one job, but soon the question arose: "Why not?" For Mr. Coverdale is one of iron blood, a man of ambition and determination. He never meets a stranger and has enjoyed welcoming the public to his office. He once worked at a sawmill and studied at night to finish high school. Later he took shorthand and studied under the oak trees in the present courthouse square. After he was appointed chief deputy, by the late Sheriff T. A. Grant, he began studying law under the late Judge J. C. Theus. Why shouldn't he last in public office?

Mr. Coverdale was born on a farm in Vernon parish, near Leesville and was one of five children. His father, George Coverdale, was superintendent of the board of education and did clerical work. He was also part owner and editor of a two-man newspaper, "The Toiler," where the sheriff learned to set type.

It was September 23, 1913, that the Coverdale family moved to 110 Linderman Avenue, in West Monroe, the sheriff recalled, and his father was made court stenographer.

Later in the fall of the same year the sheriff took his first public job in the clerk of court's office, at the age of 21.

With a smile, the sheriff commented, "I absolutely have no regrets for serving in public office."

For three years he worked in the clerk's office, until Sheriff Grant and his advisors asked him to be chief deputy, which he was for eight years.

When questioned as to how he ever got into politics, Mr. Coverdale exclaimed, "There's not any way for me to explain to the public and no reason other than I wanted to serve the people of the parish." "I never was a politician," the sheriff pointed out.

In an assured tone of voice, he said: "The only personal motive I had was to make as good a record for myself as Tom Hughes, of Caddo parish, and Andrew Sevier, of Madison parish."

When questioned about his political tactics, Mr. Coverdale said he always relied on personal solicitation and never resorted to villification of any of his opponents, remaining on the defensive and answering their charges.

Coverdale was first elected to the office of sheriff in 1924, as an independent candidate and was elected by 76 votes over his opponent. These were the days when the sheriff's department used T model Fords and the Ku Klux Klan was in full operation.

In the campaigns of 1932 and 1936 Coverdale was reelected in the first primary. Then in 1940 he was unopposed.

It was only a few days before the last election in which Mr. Coverdale was a candidate, that his oldest son, Milton Coverdale, Jr., was killed in the war and at that time the sheriff decided that would be his last political campaign.

During the past campaign Sheriff Coverdale declined to run and announced he was retiring from public life.

Mr. Coverdale has eliminated eight candidates all told in his campaigns.

Since the time Mr. Coverdale first took office, there have been more than 1,000 criminal cases solved. Murder cases, he said, have declined to a minimum in the last four years.

During Mr. Coverdale's administration, there have been outstanding criminal cases of which he was questioned and replied, "We've handled several outstanding cases that required a great deal time and hard work to solve and secure convictions of the individuals involved, but due to the fact that most of them have relatives in and near Ouachita parish, I would prefer not to mention the names of those involved in order to avoid embarrassing innocent relatives."

When questioned about his criminal work, Mr. Coverdale pointed out: "I have enjoyed it and solved numerous mysterious cases. Quite often," he said, "the Almighty seems to have a hand in solving those things, but it has been a pleasure working with the people.

"I've gotten a great deal of pleasure from keeping people out of trouble and helping those who needed it.

"I've never gotten tired of serving the public," he explained.

Mr. Coverdale was one of the active organizers of the Louisiana Sheriff's Association and has filled every office in the association at one time. He was president of the organization for two years, at which time the pension fund was passed.

The accomplishments and progress of this department, as compared with the other sheriff departments throughout the state has only been achieved through the hard work and cooperation of all the deputies and employes of the department, Mr. Coverdale pointed out.

He explained only three men had been discharged from the sheriff's department during his administrations and commented, "there was no pleasure attached to this."

When he first took office there were five persons employed in the sheriff's department in addition to the sheriff. There are now 12 regular employees including deputies and the employes in the tax collector's division, criminal and civil departments.

Mr. Coverdale has witnessed the construction of the new court house and has seen the department grow from a two-room office in the Central Savings Bank building to its present capacity, two modern offices and a jury room, on the second floor of the court house, and two downstairs offices.

The increase in criminal work during the late twenties required the enlargement in office space, Mr. Coverdale pointed out.

Prior to 1927, when the sheriff's department was moved to the court house all prisoners involved in crime were held in the parish jail in Shreveport.

During these many years, the sheriff explained, a complete active finger print file composed of thousands of prints, alphabetically arranged, criminal files, including confessions, statements and photographs has been established.

The offices have been supplied with typewriters, adding machines, calculators, automobiles and various other modern equipment.

The jail, Mr. Coverdale pointed out, is no more secure than any other jail in the state of larger parishes, but during the 24 years in office we have never had a prisoner escape by breaking the jail.

A few prisoners have escaped due to carelessness of some of the jailers, he pointed out, but none have escaped in recent years.

While serving as sheriff, Mr. Coverdale has taken two vacations, one to the world's fair in Chicago and the other in Hot Springs, Ark.

Reluctantly, the six foot sheriff exclaimed, "naturally I will miss the activities I've engaged in during my criminal work, but I won't be able to remain inactive long."

Football, baseball and fishing are among Mr. Coverdale's favorite sports, but he remarked, "it has almost been impossible to concentrate on catching a fish or watching a touchdown visualizing anxious people waiting outside the office. No, I have only been fishing five times during my term, but I intend to get my fishing pole out immediately."

The sheriff explained, he had no immediate plans for the future and hopes to relax for a few months anyway.

Mr. Coverdale remarked, "I have gotten my biggest pleasure out of doing good for people who couldn't help themselves. I've done a great deal of charity while serving as sheriff and it has paid good dividends."

MESSAGE TO THE VOTERS

"For the past thirty-five years I have served you as a public official in various capacities. From 1913 to June, 1916, I was employed as a deputy clerk. From June, 1916, to June, 1924, I was connected with the sheriff's office in the capacity of chief deputy, at which time I was elected sheriff, and have served you continuously as such for twenty-four years. Serving you in these capacities for this length of time has afforded me a good deal of pleasure. Some of the duties that I have been required to perform as Sheriff have not been pleasant but it has been a source of satisfaction for me to have served you at times when I could render unto you a most helpful service. I have performed a great many duties that are not required under the law of the sheriff, some of which have been composed of charitable deeds and others along the line of accommodation and assisting those who were unable from a physical and financial standpoint of helping themselves. I have worked hard in connection with the sheriff's department and have at all times given you value received.

"During these many years we have established a department that is second to none in the state, taking into consideration the population and the property assessed valuation of the parish. Your department is composed of modern equipment in every respect.

"I have been through many campaigns, especially during the last thirty-two years, but I have never at any time resorted to any means or methods that would cast any reflection upon the reputation of any opponent or individual opposing me for political reasons; consequently, I am in a position to voluntarily retire from public service without entertaining any malice or ill will against anyone whomsoever. I have been successful in seven (7) hard-fought campaigns but I have never used my political influence in order to persecute anyone or to prevent any individual from securing employment through or by any political subdivision. I have never rejoiced too much over victory nor grieved at defeat because neither is permanent.

"My future plans with reference to a livelihood are incomplete and very indefinite at this time. For the next sixty days my time will be occupied in attending to my personal affairs and getting accustomed, after thirty-five years, to being a private citizen.

"If I can assist you with any of your problems I will welcome your call. May God bless you.

"MILTON COVERDALE."

POLICEMEN'S FUND STOLEN FROM SAFE

BECKLEY, W. Va., May 22.—(AP)—The $1,250 policemen's fund was missing today from a safe in the chief's office.

Mayor G. C. Hedrick said he is "sure it was an inside job."

The money was missed the day after Anthony Scalise succeeded Millard E. Tyree as chief of police. Mayor Hedrick said that because of the switchover the combination on the safe had been set so only a twist was needed to unlock it.

MOUSE RECESSES DAMAGE SUIT CASE

BALTIMORE, May 22.—(AP)—A mouse broke up trial of a damage suit in circuit court yesterday.

There were four housewives on the jury but it was Bailiff David O'Dunne who let out the biggest yip.

The mouse ran up his sleeve as he was trying to chase it out from under Judge Michael Manley's desk.

The judge called a recess when the mouse ran under the jury box.

The Friends of

HERBERT E. DICKARD

Respectfully ask that you consider the following before you make your decision in the selection of your next Commissioner of Finance and Public Utilities.

Practically all of the problems on which your new Commissioner will be called upon to make decisions will be involved in some phase of Engineering. It is reasonable to assume that NO ONE can make a success in the management and the extension of our utilities without a background of technical training and engineering experience. Herbert Dickard has had many years experience in plant design, construction and operation and sincerely believes that our utilities, if operated on a business basis, will pay all of the costs of every department of the City of Monroe and eliminate general fund property taxes.

Herbert Dickard will place the responsibility of the operation of the utilities in the hands OF THE SUPERINTENDENTS OF EACH DEPARTMENT.

He will completely eliminate politics from the operation of these utilites, and will require each employe to give the city A FULL DAY'S WORK, and pay craftsmen the same salary that he could earn working for a private corporation.

Herbert Dickard believes in paying a living wage to any employe and intends to do that. He well knows that many men, working for the city, are trying to support families ON LESS MONEY THAN YOU PAY YOUR YARD MAN FOR CUTTING GRASS. This is a condition that will be corrected and must be corrected if we expect first class work from these men.

Herbert Dickard will begin, immediately, to obtain a PURE and a PERMANENT WATER SUPPLY that will be acceptable to all health authorities, both state and national. He believes that this supply MUST COME FROM UNCONTAMINATED DEEP WELLS IN THE HILLS west of Ouachita River.

He can and will put the Bus Lines on dependable schedules, with extra busses for the peak loads AT THE RIGHT TIME AND PLACE.

Herbert Dickard is the Engineer that can and will get the sewerage program under construction and CONNECT EVERY HOME IN THE CITY WITH SEWERAGE DISPOSAL LINES.

Herbert Dickard knows how and will make a business institution of our Utilities and he will be available to you during business hours. He is ready and willing to cooperate with the Mayor and the Commissioner of Streets TO BUILD MONROE.

If you want a man with experience and ability who has made a success of his own business, then cast your vote for

HERBERT E. DICKARD

'DOUBLE IDENTITY' IS FOUND IN LITTLE THEATRE COMEDY

Findlay Makes Easy Job Of Two Tough Roles In Play 'Front Page'

"Man with a double life" is the g hung on Gilbert Findlay, local nstruction engineer, who will play o roles in Monday night's produc- on of "Front Page" for the Little neater.

Findlay, rapidly rounding into one the mainstays of the local play oup, first found the thrill of the otlights last fall when "Hay Fever" outs were held. He hasn't missed show since.

From the masculine lead of that oduction he turned to the smaller le of Judge Alexander for "State the Union."

But he didn't waste his spare mo- nts when not on the stage. He de- ned and helped construct the cen- l stage for "Stage of the Union" hich incidentally contributed to a ief downfall for Findlay.

He crashed from a ladder while re- oving lights from the ceiling of the orgia Tucker auditorium to the or, breaking his leg. He was actu- y forced to miss the next Little eater production.

With the "Missing Witness" read- s started, Findlay returned, leg ll in the cast and carrying a cane balance. Again he donned the ju- ial robes to carry the play.

And now, with the "Front Page," ndlay is going to town with two of e hardest roles written into the wspaper comedy, with every prom- of pulling the best characteriza- ns of the year.

As Woodenshoes Eichenhorn, a ne-too-bright cop with a mind that rks at a snail's pace but insists on rking continually, he puts light nches of comedy into the show. ime concern of Woodenshoes' mind ring the day portrayed in the ront Page" is his theories of crime evention. His attempts to explain em to eight reporters who are in- ested only in the escape of a con- mned murder pay off in laughs. has his ideas on how the catch e fugitive too, but all fail to be of lp. The reporters use him to run er hamburgers.

n complete opposition is the top e of Walter Burns, the bombastic, ranical, ruthless publisher of the icago Examiner. Walter Burns is important part to the play and oves the destiny of the play in the ection he wants as often as he n. With his powerful determination sways the others to his will, mak- him a central figure of action.

DUAL ROLE

GILBERT FINDLAY

IN MOVIELAND

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD, May 22.—(AP)—Orson Welles, visiting here briefly from his current base in Rome, paused long enough to declare he is "the most attacked figure in theatrical history."

The show business Jack-of-all-trades flew into town to dub music and various screams and wind noises into his film version of "MacBeth." He looks unlike the traditional Welles, appearing slimmer than usual and wearing a neat tweed suit, a clipped mustache and a well-trimmed haircut. But he is as busy as ever with various projects, including retakes here for the Roman-made "Cagliostro."

Finding him in an expansive mood, I asked if he would ever be able to shake the title of "self-styled genius."

"Isn't that amazing?" he reflected. "I have never termed myself a genius, nor has anyone else. I can show you books of clippings, none of which says I am a genius. And yet I have reams of articles aiming to deny that I am a genius."

Welles then made his assertion he is the most attacked man in theatrical history. "And I don't know why," he said.

"The pendulum is swinging back in England," he remarked. "They used to hate me over there. But now I am one of the biggest box-office stars. The funny thing about it is that I have become popular there not for my good pictures, but for some of the claptrap I have been in."

The situation is different in the U. S., where Welles says his popularity ranks with that of Johnny Weismuller. "I never expect to be acclaimed in my own country," he said.

"I'm not suffering any persecution complex." he sighed, "but some day I would dearly love to have a critical hit."

Welles leaves any moment for Rome, which will continue to be his base of operations. His next film will be an original story based on a Pirandello idea, which he'll write, direct and star in for Sir Alexander Korda. After that comes "Cyrano de Bergerac."

Orson said he enjoys making films in Italy, because of the freedom . . . Far removed from the desk-borne generals of Hollywood, he can create as he pleases. He is bothered neither by columnists nor crowds.

"Only two of my pictures have played Italy, for three days apiece in three cities," he said, "I'm really Joe Anonymous."

SEAMANS' PLANS VARIED PROGRAM

West Carroll Man Wants Taxes On Everything From Papers To Chain Finance

BATON ROUGE, May 22.—(Special)—Legislation to do away with special rates for newspaper and radio political advertising is slated for introduction Monday in the state House of Representatives.

Author of the bill is Dudley Seamans, 39-year old Oak Grove Solon, who is serving his first term in the House. Seaman's is the sponsor of another bill affecting newspaper and radio advertising.

During the past week Seamans introduced in the House a bill to levy a 10 percent tax on all newspaper and radio advertising.

The bill to be introduced Monday. Seamans said, would force newspapers and radio station to sell political advertising at the same rate as regular advertisements. He claims political advertising rates are far above regular advertising.

The bill to tax newspaper and radio advertising was slated to call for levy of two percent, but last minute changes made the proposed tax 10 percent. Capitol sources believe the advertising tax has little chance of gaining final passage, but on the other hand some have expressed the opinion that the bill affecting political advertising might be adopted.

Seamans has introduced several other bills, which he said are "people's bills"—yet not administration bills. Bills already placed in the hopper by Seamans are:

Election of parish school superintendents.

Forced used car and new car dealers to sell cars at factory list prices.

Prohibit the operation of passenger busses with more passengers than can be seated.

Require theaters to charge only half price for tickets sold after last show starts.

Placing parking lots under the jurisdiction of the Louisiana public service commission and giving the commission authority to fix rates.

Another bill by Seamans which is scheduled for introduction at the Monday night session is a proposed tax on chain finance companies. Seamans said the bill would place a tax on out-of-state finance companies operating offices within the state. He said the amount of the tax has not yet been determined.

PRIEST TO SING FIRST HIGH MASS FOR FATHER

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 22.—(AP)—The Rev. Everett F. Finley of Rome, N. Y., will sing his first high mass at the funeral of his father.

Francis J. Finley, 64, died yesterday. Father Finley was ordained today in St. Joseph's New Cathedral, Buffalo.

The priest's father was found dead at his home in Rome by friends who were to bring him to Buffalo for his son's ordination.

Edward Finley, brother of the new priest, said Father Finley probably would celebrate a low mass in Rome tomorrow for members of the family and sing the funeral mass for his father on Monday.

FIRE IS ROLLED UP TO WAITING FIREMEN

PHILADELPHIA, May 22.—(AP)—Firemen, answering a telephone alarm today rushed to a northeast Philadelphia intersection.

They found no fire.

Then three railroad men walked up.

"Don't get impatient, fellows," one of the railroaders said. "Your fire will be along in a minute."

The firemen waited. A Pennsylvania Railroad locomotive came along, pushing a blazing boxcar onto a siding. The firemen went to work.

Political Shenanigans

We have it on good authority that the present city administration, which was so thoroughly repudiated by the voters on May 11, has cooked up a coup which, if it works, will place a close second to Mr. Stalin in his tactics in Eastern Europe.

We are told that a deal has been made between some of our officials and two candidates for commissioner in the June runoff primary for support and in return these commissioners, if elected, have agreed to block George Breece, our new mayor, in his efforts to adopt his program for the advancement of the city. This, of course, would be diametrically in opposition to the will of the people, who voted so overwhelmingly for Mr. Breece, an expression which can be construed as almost complete disapproval of the present regime.

The people are entitled to know just where all four of the candidates for commissioners stand on this matter. We therefore invite and urge an expression from each of them so that this issue can be clarified. We offer the columns of The World and The News-Star, without charge, for this purpose.

Mr. Breece, as well as some of the candidates in the coming runoff primary, have publicly proposed several plans which undoubtedly would be a step forward in the progress of the community, which all of us have been promised for the past twelve years.

Much has been said and written about adequate sewerage; every candidate promised a baseball park and recreational facilities which a city of this size should have had years ago. Now, the incumbents who have been repudiated at the polls apparently are bent upon a "fix" which will assure us of another four years of "do-nothing."

Years ago, when Mr. Roosevelt was doling out millions of dollars in PWA, WPA and other funds, Monroe should and could have obtained money for these things which we hear so much about today—sewerage, ball parks, a municipal auditorium, etc., etc., at a fraction of the present cost. But the apparent indifference, apathy or whatever you wish to call it on the part of those who were supposed to have been administering the affairs of our city resulted in our drawing a blank on these important projects.

Further, in connection with the present campaign, the vicious rumors which are being circulated about two of the candidates and several other persons who are not seeking office or any tangible benefits from those whom they are supporting is an indication of the depths to which some politicians will stoop in an effort to prejudice persons who are gullible enough to believe them.

The first primary was conducted on a comparatively high plane. The runoff primary, as far as public statements of the candidates is concerned, likewise has been conducted on a dignified basis, but the mudslinging which has been voiced by certain candidates and their supporters in private conversations gives a true conception of the character of those who purposely spread such malicious gossip.

AN HONOR DESERVED

We are sure the entire community will join The World in extending sincere congratulations to S. L. Digby upon his selection as head of the Department of Conservation. Again Governor Long has selected a North Louisiana man for an important post in the state government and again he has made a wise choice.

Before coming to Monroe, Mr. Digby was a district attorney in the Union-Lincoln district and later he served as judge of the same circuit. Since his residence here, he has taken an active part in civic affairs and has served his fellow citizens with distinction.

Mr. Digby is sincere, honest and intelligent, three virtues which more of our public figures would do well to acquire. We are confident that he will be a credit to our parish and the state as a whole in his new duties, and we know he carries with him the assurance that his neighbors, the people who know him best, are proud that he has been selected for a position which he will fill with the faithfulness to duty which he has always shown.

AVIATION NEED

Those who have wondered if aircraft construction aims will persuade more and more Americans to fly will be interested in the point made by Major Al Williams, aviation writer. Williams says that for commercial and private flight purposes the accent on more and more speed is wrong.

Low landing speeds especially are needed to give the average flier a sense of safety and to reduce congestion at airports. An airport can accommodate more planes landing at 35 or 40 miles an hour than it can craft flashing in at 75 or 100 miles an hour.

Williams asserts that America must become the great air power just as Britain once was the leading sea power. At that time the British were sea conscious and were sea-faring people. To create a comparable position for America in the air, more and more Americans must not only be interested in flight but must fly.

That can come about through provision of planes that the average citizen thinks he can manage with safety. A sense of safety is promoted by low landing speeds.

This has nothing to do with the military drive for supersonic speeds. But in the military field there is also need for planes that can land at relatively low speeds. Boeing has already built for the ground forces a plane that will land at 25 miles an hour. Chief advantage of the helicopter has always been its landing without forward speed.

A dozen Marshall plans without the aid of private business will never solve the real problem of European recovery.—Eric Johnston, president, Motion Picture Producers' Assn.

HOLLYWOOD, May 22—The John Irelands, estranged for several months, have reconciled . . . Buddy Rogers and Mary Pickford take off next week for their two-months tour of Europe; they'll spend most of their time in Switzerland, visiting a relative of Mary's . . . John Carroll and Lucille Rymer, secretly married months ago in Mexico, are planning a repeat performance in Hollywood . . . Wotzis about Artie Shaw, now separated from Kathleen Winsor, trying to rekindle romance with his third ex, Ava Gardner?

Jack Beutel, sidelined ever since he made "The Outlaw" five years ago, has finally been given permission by Howard Hughes, the man who owns his contract, to work in pictures for other producers . . . It's by orders of the Johnston Office that Universal-International is refilming a sequence in "Mr. Peabody and the Mermaid;" the original version had Andrea King costumed in black lace lingerie and not much else . . . Richard Widmark's dissatisfaction with tough guy roles (20th has handed him three in a row) has him on the verge of rebellion; one more and he'll try to break his contract.

SO-SO: Republic's "I, Jane Doe" (Ruth Hussey-John Carroll-Vera Ralston). Courtroom drama with a good premiere but so many confusing developments that you, the jury, will be left at sea. . . . Film Classics (Robert Paige-Leslie Brooks). Crime drama, exciting enough to hold audience interest . . . BEST PERFORMANCE: Joel McCrea in "Four Faces West."

The "March of Time" has just released a new feature entitled "Life With Junior." Produced in cooperation with the Child Study Association of America, it emphasizes the importance of the child's daily environment and shows how the so-called "difficult" child is often the product of inept handling by its parents. In my opinion, "Life With Junior" is one of the most informative, most intelligently produced pictures ever made. I urge every mother and father to see it and harvest a bumper crop of ideas about what they can do to help prevent juvenile delinquency.

After reading a representative batch of Roy Rogers' fan mail, I can readily understand why he's battling to retain Dale Evans (now Mrs. Rogers) as his leading lady. But I'll be darned if I can understand why the Republic Studio's big boss, Herbert Yates, is stubbornly opposed to that idea. The letters shown to me were selected at random from an accumulation received over a period of three weeks. Eighty per cent of them were from fans who seemed to be burned to a crisp by Dale's replacement. Some went so far as to vow that they would boycott all Republic pictures in the future unless she is re-established as Roy's teammate. If there's anything in the theory that the customers should be given what they want, it seems to me that Republic is making a costly mistake.

With every major studio in the business re-issuing pictures made years ago, there's a good chance for Lady Luck to play strange pranks. For instance, I hear that Paramount is about to re-release the 13-year-old epic, "The Crusades." The star of that picture was Henry Wilcoxon, an actor with more than the usual allotment of good looks, magnetism and acting ability. Wilcoxon went down the Hollywood skids, not through any fault of his own, but because Paramount, after he's scored a hit in "The Crusades," assigned him some of the poorest roles that ever were handed to a star. What will happen, I wonder, if audiences, seeing him again in the De Mille colossal, decide that he should again be a star?

Virginia Mayo, according to publicity, will model at the Coat and Suit Manufacturers convention, and one of the numbers she'll wear will be a dress especially designed for actresses. Each time it's owner plays in a new picture, she adds a new stripe on the sleeves. It might make more sense if our glamour girls paraded a new stripe for each new divorce.

DOWN SOUTH

WHO ARE THE OWNERS?

In industry's fight against unsound laws, confiscatory taxation, government regulation and union domination, it has been emphasized entirely too much that this is a fight being waged by management. The emphasis should be placed where it belongs, namely, that this is a fight being waged in behalf of the 18,000,000 stockholders who own the enterprises of this nation and whose properties are being attacked and destroyed.

It may well be believed that this misdirected emphasis accounts for the relatively unsympathetic attitude of many of our public officials, members of our legislatures, and members of the National Congress. When representatives of industry or industrialists themselves appeal to members of the House or Senate or appear easily "brushed off" and their arguments given little weight. Once it is made clear to these congressmen, however, that they are appearing in behalf of thousands of stockholders—voters, if you please—then we might be sure that the congressional attitude would markedly change.

After all, it is only natural — and right, for that matter—that a politician should be impressed mainly by one factor involved; that is, how many votes are represented on each side of the argument?

Some months ago figures were published showing that our 72 largest industrial concerns had a total of 2,925,449 workers. Let us suppose, for illustration, that all these workers were unionized and that some question on legislation came up between the unions and the management of these concerns. When the union representative tells the congressional committee that he represents approximately three million voters, while the management representative only tells the committee that he represents the management of 72 concerns, we can well imagine who would receive the most attention. But if the management representative should change his tactics, and advise the committee that he is there in behalf of, and representing, the 4,082,805 stockholders (voters) of 72 concerns, we can easily believe that the picture might change considerably.

It is high time that these owners of American business receive some consideration. They are a representative rank and file of the American public—doctors, farmers, school teachers, housewives, preachers, businessmen, laborers, widows, orphans. After all, it is their money that established the industries in the first place. Their position should be made clear.

If the 225,822 investors in the United States Steel Corporation could speak collectively, for instance, we might well imagine them saying:

"We have saved up our hard earned money, totaling $1,189,000,000, to build steel-producing plants. Our main object in so investing our money was that it might yield us an income, and we expect you 279,274 employees to help the officers of the company, who are our direct representatives, to see that it does. If no income is received, we shall soon withdraw our capital, and the only alternative would be for the government to take over the steel-making industry—which would mean in the long run all industry. None of us who are real Americans want this to come to pass. It would mean the end of the free constitutional republic under which this nation has grown great and under which its people have prospered. Let's work together on these things. It is to our mutual interest to do so."

It should be clearly understood by all that American business is owned by the American people, and that whatever helps or harms this business affects favorably or adversely the general welfare of the American people in like degree. We should never forget that America is an enterprise of the people.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

"I have lost my hold on God," said a woman recently, speaking out of a deep sense of frustration and sadness.

She was the victim of an incurable disease, not fatal, but subject to control and very strict regimen. In addition she was denied the outlet and means of relief that mean much to many sufferers. Her eyes were bad, and she could not read to any extent. She was shut out from the worlds of romance, adventure, and beauty through which most ill persons find relaxation and escape.

Everything combined to induce a condition of physical and nervous breakdown, in which her religion and faith in God, that should have been her stay and support, had become blacked out. And the consciousness of this seemed to be troubling her more than her physical disabilities. For she had lost the power and will to conquer with the loss of her sense of God.

Manifestly, her case called for something more than the skill of medical doctors. But what could I, as a professed physician of souls, say to help her restore her belief in God, which she needed if she was to go on living with any joy of life?

Certainly I could not speak to her in pleasant and honeyed words, out of my own comparatively good health and untried faith. One who would help his fellowmen in need and distress must ever bear in mind the parable in those four famous lines:

"The toad beneath the harrow knows
Just where each tooth-point goes;
The butterfly upon the road
Preaches contentment to that toad.

One must meet such a situation as if it were his own, not minimizing in any way its depth of tragedy or attempting to make light of what is really dark and serious.

What, then, can one say and do? It seems to me that if help is to come, it must be from those who have been in a similar situation but have not lost their faith. Help must come from those who, even under the deepest sufferings and trials, have given the richest and truest witness concerning the reality of God, and His abiding presence.

Who are these, and how did they conquer? First of all, I think, the Master Himself. And prayer was His greatest resource and power. "In those days," we are told, "He went into the mountain, and continued all night in prayer to God." If He needed prayer, how much more do we!

And is there not inspiration and help in the lives of those who, following in the Master's footsteps, through prayer and consecration have similarly conquered in every situation? Read what Paul has said in the closing verses of Romans 8. Here is the greatest help that one can get.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

WRESTLING CHAMPION OF THE WORLD FOR 40 YEARS—Milo of Croton, in ancient Greece, was wrestling champion of the world for 4 decades. Within that time he carried away the highest honors in wrestling in six Olympic games, seven Pythian, ten Isthmian, and nine Nemean. He was a man of almost legendary strength and the feats credited to him tax belief. He finally found his master in a shepherd named Titormes who bested him in an encounter on the banks of the river Fidari.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

FLANAGAN AND WEST

Within a day last week died two Americans, whose names will long be remembered as friends of boys, Father Edward Joseph Flanagan of Boys Town and James Edward West of the Boy Scouts. Both served the adage that there are no bad boys, no unredeemable boys; both realized that in American there could be no underprivileged boys, for to be born an American boy is a privilege.

Increased urbanization brings serious problems to the boy, particularly to the imaginative, active, sensitive boy, who on the farm would have free play for his talents, fishing in the stream, helping at chores, watching by his father's side through the night as the calf is born. The farm boy lives through the thrills of the seasonal cycle as life moves in its annual crescendo of renewal and death and resurrection.

The city boy has only the sidewalks. There was a time, and I suppose it still exists in many places, when the sandlot was the sinecure of a young boy's hopes. But too often that sandlot has become a parking lot and the boy can only "hang around" with a gang that thinks up things to do—and maybe the imagination runs away and prudence does not restrain and the boy is in trouble.

Father Flanagan had lots to do with boys in trouble, understood how to get under the defensive thin-skin of a boy in trouble whose pretense at toughness only proved hi being scared to death—scared not only of himself but of all the world. But no one was ever afraid of Father Flanagan—no boy was. For he soon discovered that at Boys Town he was taken at his own valuation and given a chance to make something of himself. What he made of himself was his own doing; Father Flanagan and his associates were only there, on the lot outside of Omaha, Neb., to help on the way.

There have been many attempts in the past to create free environments for so-called bad boys, but they rarely achieved their purposes, because they were utterly secular. When physical discipline is deserted, only moral discipline can take its place. For discipline there must be. Human beings, even as dogs and horses and rosebushes are cultivated, can turn into ugly creatures without either self or externally imposed moral restraints. The state treats the boy who gets into trouble by the external discipline of the reform school or the jail; in Boys Town, the self-discipline of moral restraints accomplishes greater results by building character.

And that, too, and on an even greater scale, is the achievement of the Boy Scouts, who have become so full a part of American life. For the genius of the Boy Scouts is not that they know how to hike or build a fire or to fry a fish, but rather that character is built in every Scout troop, from the cubs upward through all the degrees of scouthood. The boy learns to live in a cooperative society where there is equal opportunity for any boy, rich or poor, from the slums or from Park Avenue, of any religion, any color, any ancestry, to rise in the ranks by personal achievement.

Boys are particularly sensitive about fairness. The other day, I attended an Americanization program of the New York Athletic Club Post of the American Legion, and a Boy Scout addressed the audience. This Boy Scout was a refugee from Hitler's oppression. His father had escaped from fear and the torture of the spirit and had found sanctuary in America. But the son had found something even more wonderful here; he had discovered equality of opportunity. And as he spoke for the Boy Scouts to that audience, a lump that was hard to swallow rose in every throat. For there in the uniform of an American Boy Scout stood this refugee boy—an American.

We bid Father Edward Joseph Flanagan and James Edward West farewell and tel lthem that their glorious work will not be forgotten or abandoned by the millions of boys they served—boys who are now or will soon be American men.

Our Children

COMPETITION

Your adolescent boy or girl is pulling away from home and parental guidance; and you are not at all sure that the new associations are good ones, that the way they are heading is the best way. That is the common state of affairs, a natural one.

As soon as children arrive at an age where they feel themselves to be people in their own right, usually during the later teens, home and parents are up against stiff competition. First, there are the companions. No two children are alike, no two homes have the same standards so at once there is conflict somewhere along the line of association. The children pool forces, but the parents oppose the children's association and each other's ways.

"My boy is going regularly with a girl we do not like at all. She is of a different social level, religion, culture. Nothing we can say seems to influence the boy in any way. We have pointed out her loudness, vulgarity, cheapness—all to no avail. What can we do to save our boy? He is 17, the girl 16."

Why did home lose its hold on this boy? Why did he elect to cast his lot with a girl so different from anybody he had known up to this time? What did the boy want that she supplied? Fun? Give him plenty of it. Freedom from restraint? Loosen the reins. Variety in his associations: Bring that into the home. Entertainment? Supply it. You are in competition with a child, and you can't meet it? Of course you can. Go one better every move until you win.

Parents take adolescent children too much for granted. They have not noticed that the child they have is gone and a young stranger, a guest in the house, has come in his stead. That is what has happened.

The startled parents must study the young person, learn who he is, what he requires of them, and adjust themselves and home accordingly. They must compete with others for his attention and interest. His loyalty and affection are never in question. But his growing personality must be acknowledged and met with courtesy and understanding and, above all, friendliness.

Once this relationship is established, home and father and mother can meet any competition and win hands down.

Unhappy is the child who does not get along well with his playmates. Helping your child to adjust happily to others is the purpose of Mr. Patri's booklet No. 304, obtainable by sending 10 cents (coin preferred) and a 3-cent stamp to him; c/o thi paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

FILLING STATIONS TO CLOSE MONDAY

Filling stations throughout the Monroe area, as well as the rest of the state of Louisiana, will be closed Monday in protest against the protest against the proposed two-cent increase in the state gasoline tax, it was announced Saturday.

The following communication was received by filling station operators from Jimmie R. Major, secretary of the Louisiana Petroleum Industry Committee:

"It has been decided that Monday, May 24, all service stations will close throughout the state in protest against two-cent gasoline tax increase. Each station should have on display sign indicating 'closing in protest 10 1/2 cent per gallon gasoline tax on you, my customer, proposed by house bill 109.'

"Committees should be formed and Monday spent contacting representatives and senators urging defeat of bill. Handbills will be sent for distribution through all service station outlets in your parish. Contact all outlets immediately and local press, notifying public, so your customers will fill their tanks in advance."

SUSPECTED OF LARCENY

Sylvia Mack, Negro, 20, of 108 north Eleventh street, was arrested shortly after 9 a. m. Saturday by Monroe police and booked as a suspect of grand larceny. She was transferred to the parish jail and placed under a $500 bond.

Pitching Horseshoes

By Billy Rose

Billy Rose

"Too good is no good." So goes a old saying on the East Side of Ne York, and from the same East Sid comes the story of Chicago, the pinochle player.

Chicago probably has the best pinochle mind between Avenue A and the Golden Gate. At a single sitting, he once won $16,000 for a backer named Schermerhorn, for which he got the usual 10 per cent. But that was in the days when Chicago was a newcomer to the coffe and stuss houses of the East Sid As of now, no man in his right min will play him.

It isn't that Chicago is dishones He doesn't have to be. In fact, h scrupulousness is an East Side legen and one of the reasons he is we liked by an army of loyal booster

But as a member of the klabiasc set once remarked, what does it prof a man if he gains a whole world recognition and can't make a buck And Chicago has been buckless fo quite a while now. There have bee weeks when his only nourishmen was the coffee and strudel some ad mirer bought him.

Not long ago, he approached Scher merhorn for a small loan. Instead refusing like a gentleman, the Dutch man began to bellow, "Why shoul I give ya dough? Whadam I, mudda? Go to da Morris Plan—de lend dough."

Embarrassed, Chicago reminded: won sixteen thousand dollas for once, rememba?"

"Ya got what was comin', dincha yelled Schermerhorn. "I don' ow ya nuttin'. Take a walk, ya bum."

Chicago's face turned the colo of a Goldwyn ballet. He had nev asked for money before, and to humiliated by a man who couldn remember two plays back was bitt tea. As the expert walked awa the Dutchman taunted, "If ya nee dough, dig up a player. I'll st back ya."

This was supposed to be a jok but nobody laughed. Jackie Fin one of Chicago's admirers, came u to Schermerhorn. "If I'm Chicago he informed him, "I spit right in y eye."

That night Chicago didn't have roo money, and Jackie took him hom with him. "Ya can bunk in my pla as long as ya wants ter," he to him. "Somebody should straight out that fat Dutchman."

"Somebody probably will," said Ch cago.

A few nights later, Big Tony an one of his toughies walked into th coffee house. "Don't get nervous he said to the proprietor. "This is friendly visit. Anybody want to pla a little pinochle?"

"I'll play ya," said Chicago, " someone'll back me."

"I'll back 'im fer five hunnerd said Schmerhorn, "or five thousan if ya feel like spreadin' yaself."

"Okay," said Tony, "Get up th five grand. I can't put up fer both us."

"Ya get yer regular ten per cent Schermerhorn said to Chicago.

The other players laid down the hands and crowded around the tabl "I got fifty bucks says Chicago win," said Jackie Fine.

"Yer faded," said Tony, "an' if an other chicken-feed bettor wants get down, I'll fade them too."

Chicago looked worried. "Take easy," he said to his boosters. "Y never can tell when th' card's g cold."

His fans paid no attention to th warning, and pooled $130 which Ton covered. "Like candy from a baby said Jackie. "That fifty'll buy m missus the coat she's been belly achin' about."

Chicago lit a cigarette. He seeme nervous. He looked at the faces his friends. What he saw in the was complete trust and confidenc Suddenly he seemed to make up h mind about something and picked u the cards. From then on, he playe like a machine—fluidly, flawlessly. H never once looked at his opponen It was the old Chicago.

For a while, Big Tony seemed puz zled. As Chicago's points mounte a look came over his face whic wasn't pretty to see. When the gam was over he said, "I pack in." The he looked at Chicago and said, "To good is no good—no good at all."

As Tony and his bodyguard walke out, Schermerhorn handed Chicag three fifty-dollar bills.

"I get three hunnerd an' fifty more, Chicago objected.

"Ya get what I give ya," said th Dutchman. "Ain't a hunnerd an fifty a good night's pay for a bu like you?"

For some reason, Chicago didn think it worth arguing about. H pocketed his money and left.

It was raining outside. As Chicag opened the door leading to the stree his skinny figure was silhouetted b the drop-light in the hallway. H heard a car start up down the block and ducked back. As he did, he col lided with Schermerhorn.

"Wait a minute," yelled Chicag grabbing the Dutchman's arm.

His backer shook him off. "Take walk, ya bum. Ya got what wa comin' to ya."

As Schermerhorn stepped outsid Chicago flattened himself against th wall. A car whizzed by and a Tomm gun sputtered.

Chicago went outside and bent ove the Dutchman. From the inside pocket of the dead man's coat, h withdrew a blood-soaked wallet wit $12,000 in it. He carefully counte off $350 and replaced the wallet. The he called the cops.

Jackie Fine told his wife about th murder when he got home. "I couldn't have happened to a nice fella," he said.

MISS L. J. FAULK SUCCUMBS HERE

Funeral For Member Of Well Known Family To Be Held Today

Miss Lucy Jane Faulk, member of one of the oldest and best known families of Northeast Louisiana, died following a lingering illness at her home, 2719 South Grand street, Saturday at 1 a. m.

The funeral will be held in the Tulhearn Funeral Home this afternoon at 2 o'clock, with Rev. A. M. Morex, pastor of the First Methodist church, of which she was a member, officiating. Interment will be in the family plot in Riverview Burial Park. Pallbearers will be: W. L. Ethridge, Jr., Ben Downing, Dick Pritchard, R. E. Thompson, Harry Outman, and Douglas Page. Honorary pallbearers will be all friends of the family.

Miss Faulk was born in Monroe, to parents being the late Lamy Francis Faulk and Fannie Louise Trippet Faulk. Her mother was a native of England and her grandfather, Rev. Reynolds Trippit, preached in both England and here in Northeast Louisiana. Faulk's Chapel, south of Monroe, still bears his name. She was educated in Doncaster, England and in the United States. She made four trips back and forth to England and travelled extensively on the European continent.

Miss Faulk is survived by her mother, R. T. Faulk, Sr., Monroe; two nieces, Mrs. Harry W. Page, River Edge, N. J.; and Mrs. Herbert Munholland, Monroe, besides other relatives in Monroe and in Texas.

There are 98 kinds of plants pictured on various postage stamps.

YOUTHFUL CHARLES VENABLE PROFITS FROM 4-H VENTURE

Owner Of 49 Prize Ribbons, And Nice Herd Of Dairy Stock After 5 Years

By James V. Mathis

Thirty-one bright colored ribbons from Louisiana livestock shows hang in a prominent spot near the entrance to the Ouachita Parish Agriculture building in West Monroe.

Owner of these 4-H awards and eighteen others "somewhere around home"—plus a well-padded bank account—is soft-spoken Charles Venable, 17-year-old Ouachita high school senior, farmer by choice. He is a veteran of five years of club effort, scheduled to end this month.

Charles lives with his parents in an attractive six-room stone house five miles north of Monroe on the Sterlington road. Constructed entirely of Oklahoma lava stone, the house was built entirely by Charles' father, a brickmason and former dairyman.

The medium-built blackhaired youth assists in farming 45 acres of cotton, corn and hay. Mr. Venable is currently employed on a night construction job in Bastrop, leaving many of the managerial duties to Charles. But cattle raising claims his greatest interest.

Young Venable's interest in cattle showing started at the age of 13, in the fall of 1943. He loaded his only calf, a white-face beef heifer, into a trailer with the help of well-wishers, and shoved off for the Delhi Livestock show, determined to capture honors.

He arrived on the grounds the day the heifer's class was scheduled to show, happily oblivious of preliminary entrance red tape or any of the niceties of preparing an animal to go before tough judges. Officials came out to his trailer, took one look at its captive, advised the eager youngster to go back home and come again next year.

He did, taking first prize with the same heifer. And he hasn't stopped winning yet.

That same spring he strengthened his hand by the addition of a $250 bull and a $125 heifer, bought from a nationally known breeder in Missouri. 'Pet', the heifer, paid for herself in the first year with prize money. The bull established the Venable's position as a breeder of top cattle in Ouachita and surrounding parishes. Grandson of a National Reserve Champion, the bull became a mainstay in local dairy herds.

'Pet' became a certain winner or place at Delhi, Shreveport, and Baton Rouge exhibitions.

She traveled so much her admiring owner swears she could go from Monroe to the capital alone.

The beef animals, top-flight Herefords, more than paid their way along. Charles admits he never kept a close check on winnings but they more than equaled any expenses involved in transporting the cattle from show to show.

Back of all the winning, however, was the steady plugging work required to place high in any arena. Three months of careful work before shows turned the trick for the dairy cattle. They were placed under blankets to enhance the sheen of their hair. Special coverings come off during the three months only for a brushing each morning and night, requiring two hours on two animals daily.

Even more strenuous than the dairy stock is the big, patient beef animals. Like women, they need constant grooming. Careful, precise hair curling adds or detracts from judging points. Hoofs must be trimmed, horns clipped, and a special diet fed the year round to keep the well-rounded look. They go inside a barn before daylight, run loose only at night.

All this with high school studies and grinding workouts for the Ouachita football squad, on which Charles starred for three years as a guard. He worked nights after school with his animals to attain the perfection necessary.

Out of the five years, however, Charles has brought tangible evidence of the value of youthful agriculture training.

Safely packed away in a savings account he has $500. At home he has a herd valued well above $1,000. He still has 'Pet'. Recently he turned down an offer of $250 for her.

He has established an enviable reputation as showman and handler of high-bred livestock, particularly in Northeast Louisiana where he has virtually monopolized showmanship prizes. He has built a first-class regard for Venable livestock, returnable in long run profits.

Perhaps the greatest compliment came from his father: "With Charles' training I wouldn't be afraid to trust him with $5,000 to build a herd for me any time. That boy knows cattle."

Charles attractive mother had a big hand in his showing success, he is quick to say. "She was always around, filling in the rough spots, always managing to get work done when I couldn't make time stretch."

Like many 17-year-olds today, young Venable isn't sure of his future course. He may attend college. Where, he hasn't decided.

Regardless of what the future holds, Charles Venable has a well-carved niche in the cattlemen's world.

PRIZE STOCK

Charles Venable stands amidst part of his herd of sleek, well-fed Jerseys. In the right foreground is "Pet," winner of several prizes. Mackenzie's Column

By DeWitt MacKenzie

(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Great hopes of Hindu-Moslem peace in the Indian subcontinent are attached to the appointment of Chakravarthi Rajagopalachari as successor to Lord Mountbatten when the latter retires from the governor generalship of the Dominion of India in June.

Rajagopalachari is generally credited by his countrymen with being one of the most notable personalities India has produced. He is wise; he is possessed of great leadership; he is a humanitarian and a friend of all mankind; he has the the knack of bringing warring factions together.

In short, "C. R." or "Rajaji"—to give the terms of affection to which the public has reduced his rather awesome name—is generally regarded in India as being a paragon of all the virtues.

Small wonder then that his appointment to the high position of governor general should immediately give rise to the thought that he might be the one chosen by destiny to bring an end to the age-old and bloody strife between Moslems and Hindus. Many of the more hopeful even are envisaging the ultimate union of the now two distince dominions of India (Hindu) and Pakistan (Moslem). That "C. R." himself is thinking along the lines of peace was clearly demonstrated the other day when he made a speech in which he referred to the partition of the peninsula into the two dominions in these terms:

"If you will look at both sides of it you will maintain silence and accept the present conditions.

"These partitions are temporary play. Society will become one and indivisible though the governments may be divided for all time—the division of governments may be there but the peoples will soon become one all over India and be a great people of the world."

I have spent much time in India, studying the complicated relationships between Hindus and Moslems, and believe that Rajagopalachari's prophesy will come true. And some day the two dominions will be united in a federal government, if for no other reason than that the laws of economics will intervene—though that will be after peace has been made between the two great religions.

"C. R." is 69 years old—a distinguished lawyer, with wide experience in politics and statesmanship. You get a gauge of the calibre of the man when you learn that he is a Brahmin—the highest rank in the Hindu caste—and yet has long been the outstanding champion of Moslew-Hindu goodwill. Indeed, in 1942 he resigned from the working committee of the all India Congress (preponderantly Hindu) because he believed it was too intolerant towards the demands of the Moslem League for a separate government (Pakistan).

"C. R." gave a further striking display of broad-mindedness when, despite his proud position as a Brahmin, he violated the rules of caste and allowed his daughter to marry into a lower class. She became the wife of Devadas Gandhi, son of the Mahatma. The Gandhis belong to the third or tradesman class.

BROWNVILLE IS TO CELEBRATE

Methodist Church To Have First Birthday; Has Had Rapid Growth

Brownville Methodist Church celebrates its first birthday today, with a full program. One year ago today the congregation of this new church was officially organized by Rev. W. H. Giles, district superintendent. Since that time the new organization has gradually grown in numbers. Today the church membership is 95, with 110 enrolled in the Sunday School.

A brick building has been completed with adequate classrooms and a modern kitchenette for social occasions. A new frame structure parsonage for the pastor was completed this week on the lot with the church.

The Rev. C. K. Brooks, pastor, announces a great celebration today, to which all friends are invited to participate. Lawson Smith, superintendent of the Sunday School, urges every member enrolled in the school to be present Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock, that a record attendance might be recorded.

Rev. Morris Lee, retired pastor, residing in Atlanta, Tex., known and loved by many of the Brownville people, will be the preacher of the day—11:00 o'clock a.m. and 7:00 o'clock p.m. Rev. Brooks states that an "old-time dinner on the ground" will be served at the noon hour and a singspiration will be featured during the afternoon.

At 4 o'clock p.m. a reception of members will be celebrated with baptism in the new baptistry of the church.

WOMEN'S LEAGUE RAISING BUDGET

Members Urging Supporters Of Democracy To Lend Aid

The League of Women Voters of Monroe and West Monroe is at this time interested in promoting its yearly budget and raising funds to accommodate expenses totalling $1,000.

Monday, May 24, will start the drive and for three weeks the league members will be working toward the goal for $1,000. Like every organization the league has a well-rounded program. A budget is prepared, a goal is set and members work to achieve it. Every dollar invested has a high yield, because the major part of the work is done by volunteers. The League of Women Voters of the U. S. expends approximately half a million dollars annually. The funds are supplied by members and other public spirited men and women who consider the work important to the success of democracy in the U. S.

The Washington Post had an editorial on the league stating in part. "For 25 years the League of Women Voters has been a laboratory of research to find the most effective means of awakening the average American to his political responsibilities . . . In the next 25 years the American form of government will need desperately the kind of grass roots work the league is doing."

Mrs. John Fox, 1400 Riverside drive, finance chairman, will receive funds contributed. Her phone is 1473 and a call will bring someone to make a personal collection if so desired.

The league stands for better schools, high standards for welfare, health and recreation services, city manager charters and city planning. This city league of Monroe is affiliated with the State League which supports such measures as state aid for education, health and housing, equitable tax laws. The State League is affiliated with the National League of Women Voters. Together they work on such issues as international cooperation, an improved federal merit system, the control of inflation and the reorganization of Congress. The league is non-partisan. It neither supports nor opposes candidates for public office. Its action is in no way influenced by political parties. League members belong to various parties and hold differing points of views on many problems, but are bound together by a common desire to improve democracy.

SWIMMING CLASS TO START

Free Red Cross advanced swimming class at Swayze Natatorium starting Monday, May 24, 6:30 p. m. Anyone interested report to Mrs. Pat Johnson, instructor.

To Men of the High School CLASS OF '48

THERE'S a big day coming soon—the day when you get your diploma. At your graduation exercises you'll hear two things mentioned often—the opportunities and the obligations of manhood. Those aren't just words. They deserve the serious thinking of every high school graduate.

As an American citizen your opportunities are greater than in any other country on earth. And for that very reason you have an obligation to defend America and its freedoms—to make this way of life secure.

By enlisting in the Army or Air Force you will be discharging your debt to your country. And at the same time you can take full advantage of one of the finest opportunities ever offered a young man.

CHOOSE YOUR FIELD OF SPECIAL TRAINING BEFORE YOU ENLIST!

If you are 18 to 34 (17 with parents' consent) and a high school graduate, you can select your course of training in the Army or the Air Force before enlisting.

Under the Army Technical School Plan you can specify two different courses that appeal to you in each of two fields. The Army will check to make sure there is an opening in one of the four courses you have selected, and a place will be reserved for you in that course. Then you enlist for 3, 4 or 5 years, and after passing the physical and mental examinations and completing basic training you will be guaranteed training in your chosen field.

The Air Force offers a similar opportunity in its Aviation Career Plan, giving you a pre-enlistment choice of 3 among the more than 40 USAF Specialist Schools. There is no better way to get a start in the great and growing field of aviation.

Either plan gives you good pay, excellent training and a splendid chance for advancement in a real career. Full information, including lists of available Specialist Schools and Technical Courses, at your nearest Army and Air Force Recruiting Station.

ARMY MAY LEAD TO OPPORTUNITY

Young Men Able To Qualify Will Find Many Openings

Young men of Ouachita parish who can meet the new high qualifications for enlistment in the army's combat arms will find valuable career opportunities as well as immediate benefits in the infantry, the artillery, or the armored cavalry, Lieutenant Richard Duke, public information officer, explains.

The regular army infantryman, Lieutenant Duke pointed out, is the hardest-hitting, most versatile soldier in the world. He travels like the wind—by truck, jeep, glider, plane, assault boat, or transport—in the air, on the land and on the sea.

Artillerymen are a second vital element of the army's fighting team, he said, and they may choose between service in the field artillery, coast artillery and anti-aircraft artillery, They operate monster field pieces, rapid-firing anti-aircraft weapons, rockets, guided missiles and radar.

Lieutenant Duke explained that the armored cavalry combines the firepower of the artillery, the mobility of the horse cavalry, the knockout punch of the "tankers," and the dogged spirit and determination of the infantry. Its men are experts in motors and vehicles as well as in gunnery and combat.

Men between the ages of 18 and 34 (17 with parents' consent) who enlist in the army for service in one of these three combat arms, are eligible to qualify within a few months for assignment to the potential leaders' courses where the army's enlisted leaders are now trained, Lieutenant Duke said.

Soldiers aere enrolled for this six-week leadership training program only after they have demonstrated their intelligence, character and physical capacity during a period of basic military training, he said. Young men interested in specialist training, however, may qualify before enlisting for one of several technical courses given at schools operated by the combat arms.

He explained that qualified young men may apply, before actually enlisting, for enrollment in any four of the more than 60 specialist courses given at army schools. If they are accepted for assignment in one of the four courses they have indicated, they may enlist in the regular army for three or more years with positive assurance they will be assigned to that course.

NEGRO IS ARRESTED

Andrew Carter, Negro, 62, of 1217 DeSiard street, was arrested by Monroe police Friday night and charged with carrying a concealed weapon, to-wit a knife. He was placed in the city jail under a $200 bond.

Mistletoe was known to the Druids as "all-heal." They regarded the parasite as a cure for all diseases.

What To Do For That Sluggish, Down-and-Out Feeling

Remember the time when you could eat like a horse, bubbled-over with energy, felt happy as a lark? Was it not because you liked to eat—didn't know what indigestion was, felt strong as an ox? As age advances the "old stomach and the ever-changing blood" need help. Now you may again receive vibrant energy to every muscle, fibre, cell.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

NORTH MONROE LIONS OBSERVE CHARTER NIGHT

The North Monroe Lions club, recently organized here, celebrated "Charter Night" at a banquet attended by 250 persons. In the top photo, J. Norman Coon, international counselor is presenting the charter to Fran Brennan, president of the new club. With those two are: top, Merle Padgett, president of the Monroe Lions Club, Caye Nelson, director of Lions International, and P. E. Massey, district governor of District 8-A; standing in front are E. C. Gibson and A. B. Clarkson, both past district governors. In the lower photo, officers of the club are reading the new charter. They are, left to right, Wilmer E. Lawson, first vice president; Stanley E. Hodges, a director; Brennan, Massey, H. P. Durrett, secretary-treasurer, and George W. Guerriero.

The banquet was attended by visiting Lions from Ruston, Rayville, Winnsboro and other towns in this area. Mr. Nelson was the principal speaker. Others on the program included Simon A. Johnson, M. G. Moore, R. W. Germany and the Northeast Junior College double male quartet.

The North Monroe club was organized because of the growth of Lionism in Monroe and also to permit attendance of members who could not leave their businesses during the noon hour, it was explained. The new club holds its meetings in the evening.

BELL LEADS TALKS BEFORE POST MEET

Williams Stresses Importance Of All Labor Organizing To Aid Others

The Louisiana State Federation of Post Office Clerks opened its first session at 9 a. m. Saturday on the Francis Hotel roof.

Opening addresses were made by C. C. Bell, Jr., mayor of West Monroe; R. E. Ellington, assistant postmaster of the Monroe post office; O. W. Boyd, Jr., postmaster at West Monroe; H. G. Bailey, Jr., secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; T. O. Dowdy, president, Central Trades and Labor Council, D. R. Niblack, assistant superintendent, Third Division of the Division of Post Office Service, Washington, D. C.; J. F. Bowen, national vice-president, N. F. P. O. C. of New Orleans, and J. M. Torka, assistant secretary-treasurer of the N. F. P. O. C. of Washington, D. C.

Other visitors included Pat Welch of the Houston, Tex. post office giving greetings from Texas and R. A. Garrison, a former member of the local clerk's union, now a post office inspector domiciled in Mississippi.

During the noon hour, all delegates and visitors of the Ladies' Auxiliary were served a luncheon in the Mirror Room of Hotel Frances by the local auxiliary.

The afternoon session was opened by Convention Chairman J. E. Kincade of the Monroe office at 2 p. m. in the form of an open forum. At the speaker's table, Bowen, Torka, and Niblack supplied the answers to questions and problems presented them at random by members of the convention.

During the open forum, Lige Williams, state president, Louisiana Federation of Labor who had been scheduled to speak during the morning session, gave an address pointing out the advantages of all laborers properly organizing and becoming affiliated with national labor organizations.

On tap for entertainment during the remainder of the day and evening, a cocktail hour, banquet and dance had been arranged. The Sunday morning session which opens at 9:30 a. m. will consist of election of officers and other routine business matters.

The general theme of the 1948 convention is the matter of the pay raise now pending in Congress. Plans to make renewed efforts to speed the passage of pay increase legislation as well as plans to educate the general public concerning the needs of the postal workers in this regard will be formulated.

Deafened Now Hear Whispers 5 Feet Away

Tests by the American Medical Association's Council on Physical Medicine show that science has now enabled deafened people to hear faint sounds, to easily understand whispers from 5 feet away, aided by a tiny hearing device so light you hardly know you are wearing it. With it thousands now enjoy music, sermons and friendly companionship. Finger-tip controls let you adjust it instantly to changing sound conditions. No separate battery pack, wires or harness bulge to weigh you down. The makers of Beltone, Dept. 25 145 W. 19th St., Chicago 8, Ill., are so proud of their achievement that they will gladly send you a free descriptive booklet and explain how you may test this remarkable device in your own home without risking a penny. Write Beltone today. (Adv.)

The convention will be attended by approximately 10,000 business and professional leaders from all parts of the country, Hawaii and Canada.

Club officers said that Parnell and Weil will leave for Los Angeles probably Saturday, May 29.

The convention will open Sunday evening, June 6, at Shrine auditorium, with Dr. C. Oscar Johnson, a member of the Kiwanis Club of St. Louis and president of the World Baptist Alliance, as the principal speaker. Long recognized as one of the nation's outstanding pastors, Dr. Johnson is the spiritual leader of millions of Baptists throughout the world.

Dr. Charles W. Armstrong, Salisbury, N. C., president of Kiwanis International, will share speaking honors Monday morning, June 7, with Wayne Guthrie, assistant managing editor of the Indianapolis News, who witnessed the atomic bomb test at Bikini. Dr. Armstrong will consider national and international issues, while Guthrie will discuss the atomic bomb, its control, and future possibilities.

A celebrated authority on foreign affairs will address delegates to the Kiwanis convention Monday evening, June 7, in Hollywood Bowl. Some 18,000 persons are expected to attend this particular session inasmuch as a selected group of Los Angeles civic leaders will be invited to participate in the meeting.

Other speakers scheduled to appear on the program include Justin Miller, president of the National Association of Broadcasters; Lester B. Pearson, under secretary of foreign affairs for the Dominion of Canada; Roe Fulkerson, editorial writer of The Kiwanis Magazine, and Cecil B. deMille, noted motion picture producer, who is widely known for his outspoken opinions on labor-management problems.

Notables of stage, screen and radio will be on hand to entertain delegates, their wives and junior guests at the the "Main Feature Entertainment" Wednesday evening, June 9, at Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum. Thousands of boys and girls especially invited, also will attend this session.

New officers of Kiwanis International, elected by the convention to serve during the administrative year of 1948-49, will be presented officially for the first time Thursday morning, June 10.

I SINCERELY SOLICIT YOUR CONTINUED SUPPORT

My sincere thanks and wholehearted appreciation for the wonderful vote given me in the first primary.

I also wish to thank my opponents who were eliminated for their promises of support in the second primary.

To the many good people of Monroe that voted for the fine men that opposed me in the first primary, I now invite you to join and assist me in making my election possible.

I shall conduct an active campaign and request that you join with me in building a greater Monroe. I shall cooperate with any and all elected officials.

NEGRO SCHOOL IS OPEN ON W. SIDE

Catholics Dedicate West Monroe Building For Betterment Of Colored

Almost five years ago, starting from practically nothing, Fr. Berchmans opened the first Catholic School for the Colored in West Monroe.

It was October 1943 when 17 pupils registered for school. The first school was conducted in the two front rooms of the Sisters' convent, which then housed two Franciscan Sisters of Our Lady of Perpetual Help from St. Louis.

The following year, the number doubled. In 1945 there were 58 children enrolled and in 1946, 90 jammed the two small rooms. In the meantime, Fr. Berchmans Serre, OFM, an energetic, ambitios and popular priest was raising money for his new school. In the spring of the same year, he was able to let the contract and construction began immediately.

Fr. Berchmans worked with the men and found a way to purchase materials.

October 21, 1946 was the first day of school in the imposing, new brick school. In September 1947, 120 children enrolled in the new, modern school. A new Sister was added, in order that all eight grades could be taught. A cook Sister, Sr. Apollonia, prepared the meals for the teaching Sisters and kept house, just as she does today. Sr. Mary Xavier, the Superior, teaches the sixth, seventh and eighth grades; while Sr. Faustina teaches the third, fourth and fifth grades grades and Sr. Florian, the first and second grades.

Charles P. Greco, D.D., Bishop of Alexandria complimented Fr. Berchmans for his new school and work among the colored. Though it was a joyous occasion, it was somewhat saddened by the fact that the builder himself was not present. Due to ill health, he was sent to Ashland, Wisc. last October Fr. Fumilis Soland, OFM, was his successor.

PUBLIC FORUM

May 21, 1948

To the Editor:

I know that all the Beauticians in the state with one spark of interest in the profession is shocked at the contents of House bill no. 223. This bill provides that no member of the profession can serve on the Board of Control of Cosmetic Therapy unless she is a resident of Alexandria, Baton Rouge, New Orleans, Lake Charles or Shreveport. Now what about the thousands of beauticians in other areas of the state—Winnsboro, Rayville, Tallulah, Bunkie, Lafayette, Bastrop and many others that might like to serve on the board?

The beauticians of Monroe made a desperate stand for the present administration and yet they were left out of this bill altogether. What about this?

I am of the opinion that the representatives and senators of the different sections of the state were very proud of the support given them by the beauticians, and can't be made to believe that they will vote for any such bill. I feel that this is a move toward communism telling a profession what town their board members can come from and writing it in a law.

Beauticians I know you won't stand for such action. I know, too, that you will ask your representatives and senators to vote against such legislative measures.

The beauticians represent one of the finest professions in the state. A profession composed mostly of women—good women. "The hand that rocks the cradle also beautifies and lifts morale." They aren't a group of law breakers, but good honest women trying to get along, but I think I am safe in saying that they have less peace of mind than any group belonging to any other profession in the state. Now just why do certain politicians find it necessary to keep these women up-set? Why can't they be left alone to work at their profession, to make an 'honest living without being trampled on?

SCHUCK HEAD OF U. S. BOY SCOUTS

Los Angeles Executive Elected President Of National Council

Arthur A. Schuck, scout executive of the Los Angeles area council, Boy Scouts of America, Los Angeles, Calif., was unanimously elected chief scout executive of the Boy Scouts of America, according to an announcement made by Amory Houghton, president of the national council.

Mr. Schuck will take office Sept. 1, and will succeed Dr. Elbert K. Fretwell. The action was taken at the regular meeting of the national council's executive board held at Seattle, Wash., prior to the opening of the 38th annual meeting of the Boy Scouts of America.

Mr. Schuck has had a long and active career in scouting. As a volunteer he served as a scoutmaster, district commissioner, scout commissioner, troop committee member, member of a local council and member of its executive board.

Having determined to make scouting his life's work and career he entered the movement professionally as a local scout executive. After a successful experience in local work he served as regional executive of region three, being responsible for the organization and supervision of scouting in Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia.

In 1922 he joined the national council staff in the field department and served as a specialist in the fields of finance and organization. He contributed much to the development of councils throughout the country so that any boy, anywhere in America, could have the advantage of supervised scouting.

In January 1931 he became director of the division of operations of the national council and for thirteen years gave general supervision and direction to the operating program of the Boy Scouts of America throughout the country.

In May 1944 he resigned from the national staff to become the scout executive of the Los Angeles area council with headquarters in Los Angeles and there conducted a demonstration of organized service to youth through scouting that became recognized for its outstanding accomplishments.

Cuba is larger than most people think, being almost as large as Pennsylvania.

AIRFIELD HIT

for Megiddo as it is situated also the same distance southwest of Nazareth and in the same latitude.

("In view of the similarity of locations, the planes caused damage and casualties to the British airport and we lost five planes.").

A single Egyptian plane made the first raid, the British said. British Spitfires took to the air and knocked down two of the four Egyptian planes which participated in the second attack. Two Egyptian planes took part in the third attack and both were shot down by the British pilots. The Egyptian planes dropped 100-pound bombs. A Jewish report said the Egyptian attacks caused large fires.

(A British foreign office spokesman in London said "we very much regret the incident, but we must emphasize that the air field is well within the 20-miles radius which we laid down as being our evacuation area.").

Israel's air force struck again in support of Jewish ground troops making a last-ditch stand in Jerusalem against Trans-Jordan's Arab legion, a Jewish announcement said.

For the second night in a row the Jewish planes concentrated last night on Arab infantry, vehicle and gun concentrations in Shu'fat, a northern suburb of Jerusalem. The Jews said Shut'fat is an Arab operational base for the attack on Jerusalem.

Tel Aviv, Israel's temporary capital, was under air attack today for the eighth consecutive day. There were four or five alerts during the night, and at daybreak the sirens began sounding at almost hourly intervals. Several distant explosions were heard.

Jewish military leaders, reviewing the situation as a whole, said Israel's army entered the second week of its war against the armed forces of five Arab powers with the new Jewish state's partition-drawn frontiers virtually undented.

On one of these fronts, the informants said, the Jewish army is fighting its fiercest battle well beyond those frontiers and on a second its troops are operating more in Arab territory than on Israel's own land.

A high Jewish staff officer described the Jerusalem situation as serious but said that only in Jerusalem could the fighting be regarded as having come to its crisis. The outcome in the Holy City where the Jews are fighting a Bataan-like battle, could not be predicted from here, he added.

Jewish Charges Fail

At Zion gate in Jerusalem, May 22.—(AP)—Waves of Jewish soldiers charged Arab legion positions in the Zion gate early today but failed to reach their comrades hemmed into a corner of Jerusalem's old walled city.

(A communique issued in Cairo tonight said the Egyptian mobile forces had entered Bethlehem, five miles from Jerusalem, and Majdal, prime military objective on the Mediterranean coast.

(The northern advance from Beersheba, 40 miles away, to Bethlehem put these Egyptians in a position to join the Arab legions battering assault in Jerusalem.

(Along the seacoast another push by the Egyptians brought them 12 miles from Gaza to Majdal. In telling of this the communique said "our forces by clever maneuvering in a night advance by moonlight entered Majdal which is not only important from a military viewpoint but because of its known religious relics.")

In the Jerusalem fighting the Legionnaires from Trans-Jordan and 600 troops of Israel came to grips at close quarters with grenades and tommy guns on a battlefield lit by flares and a bright spring moon.

Several times the Jews swept up to the walls on the south side of the old city only to be thrown back. Some of them attempted to climb over the wall from the top of an armored bus which was used like an ancient assault tower.

A legion commander said the Jewish attack was inspired by a wireless SOS in which the hard-pressed Jewish garrison inside the walls appealed for help. He described the action as the fiercest in the five-day battle for Jerusalem.

After daylight the legion's battle against the Jewish troops inside the walls was resumed. Dynamite squads again blasted weatherbeaten stone tenements packed around Beit Yaacov Synagogue, otherwise known as the Hurva (ruin). That synagogue is the chief remaining Jewish fortress inside the walls.

Giant holes gaped in all four walls of Tiferet Synagogue to the east where Jewish snipers had kept on firing even after the legionnaires entered.

Heavy Arab firing also was heard in the Jewish districts of modern Jerusalem.

With Legionnaires before and behind them, the Jews inside the walls crept through underground passages and caverns to bring their maximum strength to bear against Arab attacks and to avoid bombardments. Many of the passages date from Roman times and are as much as 70 feet deep.

The possibility was seen that the Jewish garrison eventually might tunnel through the Turkish wall of the old city and attempt to withdraw under cover of darkness up the eastern slope of Mount Zion to the safety of Jewish forward posts at Dormition church.

Such a tunnel also could be used to bring supplies and ammunition to the garrison which has reduced its fire sharply apparently because it is running short of bullets.

(Cairo press reports said a mobile Egyptian army force had reached Bethlehem within sight of Jerusalem after traveling nearly 40 miles from Beersheba. The highway through Hebron along which this Egyptian column was said to have traveled was believed controlled throughout its length by Arab legion or Palestine Arab units.

(The Egyptians may be attempting to join in the legion's attempt to take Jerusalem. The Egyptian advance linked up with the legion at Hebron. A Jewish officer in Tel Aviv said yesterday, however, that the Egyptians had not even reached Beersheba, south of Hebron, although the legion is there.

(Jewish staff officers claimed that the boundaries of Israel as outlined in the United Nations partition scheme were virtually undented and in some places Jewis troops are operting more in Arab territory than on their own land.

(Jewish planes returned last night to the support of Israel's ground troops in Jerusalem striking a second time at Arab troop and weapon concentrations in Shu'fat, an Arab operational base in the northern part of the holy city. Tel Aviv, Israel's temporary capital, was under air attack today for the eighth consecutive day).

A Jewish observation plane twice droned over Jerusalem while the fighting before the old walls was in progress.

The Jews made their bid to breach the Zion gate in the south wall after launching diversionary thrusts at new gate, at the northwestern corner of the Old City, at Jaffa Gate on the west and Damascus Gate on the north.

Although the firing at the Zion gate lasted for three and a half hours, legion casualties were reported to be light because of the protection the walls afforded them. The Jews carried away their dead and wounded.

Jewish gun posts in the Hebrew university area on Mount Scopus north of Jerusalem's old city opened up again on the Arabs today, although a Trans-Jordan communique yesterday said they had been silenced by artillery.

A Trans-Jordan communique said a successful legion assault was launched in Ramat Rehel, half way between Jerusalem and Bethlehem. A legion patrol destroyed a Jewish armored car and took some prisoners in the Beit Nabala area, 11 miles southeast of Tel Aviv.

Before dawn legion armored cars cruised outside the old city on Suleiman street between New and Jaffa gates pounding makeshift Jewish pillboxes. Then the cars sprayed the Jews in Notre Dame hospice with automatic fire. The Jews apparently got back into the hospice two days ago after abandoning it once.

Some legion infantrymen at Zion gate said a small number of Jews attempted to escape over the south wall of the old city while the moonlight fighting was at its hottest, but were scattered.

The Legion's commander in the old city said Jewish authorities tried to bargain with him last night to agree to permit the evacuation of approximately 30 patients from Hadassah hospital on Mount Scopus where there is a maze of Haganah machinegun and mortar positions.

"I replied we would permit the patients to evacuate the hospital whenever Haganah surrendered," the commander said. "But we have no intention of giving the Jews a chance to repeat their old trick of sending up more guns and ammunition in ambulances."

The commander said the Jews had not answered his terms, transmitted previously through the American consul, in which he promised the delivery of non-combatants at the hospital and Hebrew university to the international red cross and the treatment of combatants as prisoners of war.

I accompanied the Legion commander on an afternoon inspection of most of the 2 1/2 mile-long old city wall dating from the 16th century.

From a sandbagged peephole in the vicinity of New Gate we saw the fire-blackened walls of the convent of the sisters of Marie reparatrice, which the Jews were said to have hurriedly burned.

A few yards farther rose the shrpnel-chipped roof of Notre Dame hospice, just out of sight of Allenby Square, the jump-off point for Jewish attacks against New Gate.

Legion infantrymen yesterday engaged in street fighting in an attempt to clear Allenby Square.

In the shadow of the citadel flanking Jaffa Gate, we stared due west at the distant fortress profile of the Jewish agency building. Its face appeared to bear no shell damage. Terra Sancta college also appeared unscatched.

From Jaffa gate into the Armenian Quarter, from which the legion is drawing tighter the siege ring around the old city, the pavement was pitted by mortar shells, and the evidence of Jewish bombardment was everywhere.

Armenian mothers carrying babes in arms, fathers toting furniture on their backs, older children bearing household odds and ends streamed past us. A legion commander said he was assisting Armenian civilians to move from their homes which were now in the front line.

In the basement of what had been an Armenian school we saw legion wounded being treated by an Arab physician and a girl nurse.

MEAT

the strike started March 16. Live cattle and hog prices have been tending downward because the strike reduced the capacity for slaughtering and butchering the animals. This decreased the demand, men in the industry say. In the retail markets, prices have edged generally ahead because demand was strong for the smaller than normal meat supplies.

Although the strike never caused any important meat shortages throughout the country, weekly meat production was only from 75 to 85 per cent of normal.

However, the longer term outlook for meat supplies is not so bright. Meat production normally slumps during the summer months. The meat packers say the backlog of farm supplies that was dammed up by the strike could keep them running at high capacity for two or three weeks.

The C. I. O. United Packinghouse Workers Union called off its strike yesterday against Swift, Armour and Cudahy, but continued it against Wilson & Co. The strikers accepted the nine cents an hour wage boost they rejected before leaving their jobs.

The strike settlement spread today to the Kingan and Company plant at Indianapolis, where some 2,300 production workers accepted the nine cents boost.

A union spokesman in New York said 50 Wilson workers would return to some of the company's branch houses there Monday despite the strike. These workers are covered by contracts different than those of the Packinghouse workers.

However, the union continued its strike against the Rath Packing plant in Waterloo, Ia., and against the Morrell packing plant at Ottumwa, Ia. The national guard still is on duty at the Rath plant where a picket was slain Wednesday.

National guardsmen were withdrawn from South St. Paul, Minn., scene of picket disorders.

Wilson & Co., one of the "big four" packers which employs about 8,000 this time a year, charged the union today with fraud and misrepresentation in polling Wilson employes on the question of ending the strike.

The company challenged the union to sound out sentiment among Wilson workers in a back-to-work poll to be conducted by some government agency. Richard C. Winkler, Wilson's labor relations attorney, made the proposal in a letter to Ralph Helstein, union president. Winkler said the company had evidence Wilson employes were "overwhelmingly in favor of returning to work" and that the company proposal never was submitted to the workers.

Winkler charged that in Albert Lea, Minn., "What purported to be the result of the election was announced two hours before the voting ended." In Cedar Rapids, Ia., he added, newspapers said the ballots were counted at the home of a striker who was free on bail for an alleged crime and who is a union official.

Helstein replied to Winkler charging Wilson with "misrepresentation, half-truths and completely erroneous statements of fact."

The union leader's letter charged the company had violated "your written and signed commitments, and until you are prepared to cleanse yourself of dishonorable conduct of that character, there is no purpose served in further correspondence."

The brief letter did not elaborate on its charges.

The union charged that Wilson reserved the right to refuse to rehire strikers involved in alleged unlawful acts during the strike, but that the other packers would decide this issue by arbitration.

said, adding that for years "we seem to have been dominated by a friendly attitude toward communism, and a complete inferiority complex to Russia.

"Whatever they asked, they received, and gave nothing in return. This failure in foreign policy was not chance. It resulted from the character of the whole administration.

"Men like Henry Wallace, the vice president and secretary of commerce, considered communism just another form of democracy—perhaps a little better than our form of democracy. Harry Hopkins the president's adviser on foreign affairs, was extremely friendly to the communist regime."

Today, Taft added, although communist influence has declined "there seems to be curious areas in some of the bureaus where opposition to Russia is still deplored."

American policy in Germany has been "of infinite assistance to the Communists," he said. "The policy of unconditional surrender destroyed the German state and left a vacuum in Europe into which Russia has successfully moved."

Taft said that "in economic confusion, the communist philosophy thrives, and the tremendous expense of the Marshall plan is necessary to make good our own mistakes."

The "one way in which we can finally prevail," Taft said, was to "crusade for the principles of free government throughout the world as the Communists crusade for communism."

The senator said that "to regain the respect of the world" the U. S. should show leadership in a revision of the United Nations charter.

"I believe our foreign policy should be built as far as possible around the United Nations," Taft said, adding that he believed the charter could be rewritten so that "we can establish a world in which the great majority of nations will abide by a rule of law to which they have all agreed.

"I believe there can be established an international force backed by public opinion and the armed forces of individual states which will punish any violation of that law."

U.S., BRITIAN

Britain against British aid to the Arab states.

These informants said Britain earlier had replied somewhat sharply that preservation of Arab friendship was essential to safeguard the middle east against Soviet expansion. Britain was said to have reminded the United States that it should recognize it now shares responsibility for "protecting" the middle east, and in any event present British relations with her "Arab allies" must be maintained as a "great barrier against the flow of communism to the south.

The British were understood to have stood pat on their repeated public declarations that they would continue to honor their treaty obligations with the Arabs regarding arms "unless and until" the United Nations decides the Arab states are taking illegal action in Palestine.

The disclosure of some impending joint British-American action came after Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin called in the U. S. Ambassador Lewis Douglas this morning. The conference followed one in Washington yesterday between Undersecretary of State Robert Lovett and British Minister John Balfour.

British-American differences over Palestine go back to the Britain's mandate days when President Truman declared for the immediate immigration of 100,000 European Jews to Palestine. Britain refused to enforce the U. N. partition plan, which the United States supported originally, or any other scheme which did not have Arab as well as Jewish consent. The British have expressed surprise at President Truman's speedy recognition of the new Jewish state of Israel, and have indicated they have no immediate intention of following suit.

Britain has openly favored watering down the proposed American resolution before the U. N. to declare a breach of the peace in Palestine, order a cease fire and possibly invoke sanctions up to armed force is either side refuses to obey.

Resentment was stirred here by the Senate Appropriations committee's projected inquiry into whether Britain's aid to Arab states was being paid for by American dollars indirectly through the Marshall Plan. This reaction was vitriolic in private, but temperate in public.

The foreign office said Britain's aid to the Arab states had been going on before any loans had been received from the United States, and came from the British taxpayers' pocket. In private, other officials said the proposed Senate inquiry was "fantastic."

In Cairo today S. Pinckney Tuck, U. S. Ambassador to Turkey, refused to discuss the "compelling reasons of a personal nature" for his resignation which he sent to President Truman.

The Egyptian newspaper Al Misri said the resignation had "some relation to Truman's recognition of the so-called Jewish state because this recognition angered the ambassador, two American universities in Cairo and Beirut and many American business men who have interests in the Middle East."

Tuck said however, he had not talked to any representative of Al Misri.

The American mission in Egypt, a member of the foreign missions conference of North America which operates several educational and cultural institutions in Egypt, said it had sent a message to President Truman urging him not to lift the arms embargo to the Middle East.

OREGON

double our efforts to gain support for a sound liberal program in the Republican party and for victory in November," he said at Minneapolis.

If the trend in Oregon continued, Dewey would be able to chalk up by a margin of around 10,000 votes his first primary victory since March. In New Hampshire that month, he set Stassen down with two delegates and took six himself.

Oregon's 12 convention nominating votes would give Dewey a total of 146 publicly pledged or uncontested delegates toward the 548 needed for nomination at the Philadelphia convention. His nearest rival is Stassen with 76. Senator Edward Martin of Pennsylvania is third with 73 and Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio fourth with 51.

All except Martin, strictly a favorite son, claim many more delegates.

Stassen has said he will have 340 on the first ballot. Taft repeated in a New York news conference today that he will have in the neighborhood of 300, or more than any other candidate on the test of convention sentiment.

By the nature of politics, the Oregon victory for Dewey seemed likely to prove a jolt for Stassen far stiffer than the loss of the 12 delegates involved.

The former Minnesota governor's enemies will doubtless contend that Stassen is the popular choice of the rank and file only in the midwest, which most Republicans think will go their way anyhow.

On the other hand, a Dewey victory stands to regain for the New Yorker much—but not all—of the prestige he lost in absorbing ballot beatings from Stassen in Wisconsin and Nebraska. Most of the Dewey backers conceded privately that a defeat in Oregon largely would have washed up his chance to get the nomination himself.

Realizing that his political future was at stake, Dewey put on a down to earth campaign that paid off in a reversal of what many had said was an earlier trend in Oregon toward Stassen. The Dewey people now are certain to point out forcefully that he is a vote getter when he really gets to work at it.

Taft said in New York that he doesn't think the Oregon results will affect his position.

"I will have more delegates on the first ballot than any other candidate at the Republican national convention," he said flatly.

Taft commented that he doesn't believe there will be much difference in what the Republicans and Democrats "promise to do" during the campaign in the field of foreign affairs.

"The strong issue will be what has been done."

In Philadelphia, the Pennsylvania state GOP committee unanimously endorsed Senator Martin as the favorite son of the state's 73-vote convention delegation.

That action, however, did not block out a possible breakaway from Martin, even during the early balloting. Gov. James H. Duff has made no bones about the fact that he favors Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan for the nomination. Duff heads the state delegation.

Martin, who addressed the state committee meeting, called for a firm, unified foreign policy, coupled with a closer and stronger alliance with western nations for mutual protection and world peace.

This is in line with a resolution Vandenberg has pending before the Senate to pave the way for United States participation in regional defense agreements with countries trying to ward off Communism.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 22.—(AP)—Mrs. Dorothy McCullough Lee, attractive 46-year-old lawyer, will become Portland's first woman mayor next January. But politics is nothing new to her.

She has held public office for 19 years, either as a state legislator or as a Portland city commissioner.

Mrs. Lee is the only woman who ever served in the state senate. In 1943 she came within one vote of being elected president of the senate.

She and her husband, W. Scott Lee, a sales representative for Standard Oil Co., work as a team. He does a lot of her campaign work. Her political career began in 1929 with her election as state representative. She served two sessions, and then was elected as state senator, serving until 1943, when she became public utility commissioner of Portland. She still has that job.

Mrs. Lee obtained her law degree from the University of California in 1923, and practiced law in Portland from that time until she became a city commissioner.

Her vote-getting ability was proved in Friday's election when she received almost two-thirds of the total vote for the seven candidates for mayor. The incumbent, Earl Riley, was a poor second.

The Lees have two adopted children, David 12, and Priscilla, 11. Mrs. Lee is busy in political life, but she says she has time to run a home, too.

Only one other large Pacific coast city has had a woman mayor. She was Mrs. Bertha K. Landon, who was mayor of Seattle in 1928.

MONROE VET

ber of the West Monroe American Legion post. Both organizations had previously favored the bonus provided it could be paid without additional taxes, Cash said.

The Monroe V. F. W. resolution was the first formal statement of policy by any of the organizations. At the state convention in Alexandria last summer, the V. F. W. approved the bonus plan because, the ex-servicemen noted, the state at that time had a surplus which could have been used without additional taxation.

That surplus, said Raleigh Poulos, past commander of the post, was used for a teachers' pay increase, "an act that met with the complete approval of the V. F. W."

Copies of the resolution are being sent personally to Gov. Long, Sen. John McCormick, Reps. Shady Wall and John E. Coon, and Department Commander Judge Cass Moss of Winnfield.

The resolution declares:

"We realize that the proposed increase in taxes is for the purpose of financing benefits to many groups, other than veterans of World War II; we wish to go on record as being willing to forego the benefits proposed for us in order to allow a reduction in the proposed taxes, which reduction will be for the benefit of all the people of our state."

The resolution also relieves the governor . . . and all other officials of the obligation assumed by them during their campaigns for their respective offices to pay said bonus."

Under administation plans, the bonus will be financed by a five cents a bottle tax on beer and wine. Cost of the bonus was estimated by administration spokesman at $60,000,000, one-third more than the amount originally envisioned by Gov. Long.

The bonus would provide payments ranging from $50 to $250 to each veteran, depending upon length and place of service, and would pay $1,000 to dependents of veterans who were killed or died as a result of their service.

Reasons for the American Legion's opposition, Faulk said, are essentially the same as the V. F. W.'s: the undesirability of the extra taxes.

"If these taxes are passed," Faulk declared, "we'll be paying for the bonus a couple of times over in the next few years. Most of the men I've talked to feel it simply isn't worth it."

Faulk said a number of members had expressed disappointment over the size of the bonus. "A lot of them feel it should have been a substantial amount, something more than a hundred dollars or so. They feel the size of the bonus is too small for the trouble and taxes it entails."

Faulk said members of the post had not formally gone on record either for or against the bonus, but had signified their opposition in an informal vote not binding upon the organization as a whole.

Both the West Monroe American Legion and V. F. W. posts are expected to reconsider their original endorsements at meetings this week. Cash said he expected the matter to be put to another vote, and added:

"In view of all these taxes, there's a good chance that many of the boys will change their minds."

at 8 p. m. on Thursday, May 27. Following the processional, "March in C Major" by Carl Schmeidler, and played on the organ by Mrs. Allbritton, Rev. Cadwallader will give the invocation.

This will be followed by a violin solo, "Concerto No. 2 in D Minor (Romance)" by Henri Wieniawski played by Francis H. Burke with James F. Monroe, pianist, accompanying.

Dr. A. L. Crabb, professor of education, George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tenn., will give the commencement address. The college octet will then sing two selections, "The House by the Side of the Road" and "The Battle of Jericho."

After the presentation of candidates by Dean Rodney Cline, diplomas will be conferred by Dr. S. A. Caldwell, dean of the junior division and coordinator of junior colleges, Louisiana State University.

Preceding the benediction by Rev. Cadwallader, the Alma Mater will be sung by the audience. The program is to close with the recessional, Edvard Grieg's "Triumphal March," Opus 56, played by Mrs. Allbritton at the organ.

RUSSIAN

on the part of the present government of the United States.

Responsible authorities agreed that probably the best American counterstroke to Russia's "Olive branch performance" was Secretary Marshall's challenge to Premier Stalin—to prove by its actions that the Soviet union really wants improved relations with the west.

But there was little expectation among Marshall's advisers that his response would bring any concrete results. For amid the mass of words which Moscow and Washington have been hurling at each other, each is standing firm on its basic policies. And the real clash is between those policies.

In the American view, the Soviet union is really asking the United States to give up its established method of operation through the United Nations, cast aside its close contacts with Britain and France, drastically modify its plans for rebuilding western Europe and then sit down with Russia to plan the future of the world.

All these are the things that Marshall now has said specifically the United States will not do. On his own part, he has advised the Russians that if they want to improve conditions in the world and relations with the United States they must use the agencies which have been painstakingly built up since the end of the war for the specific purpose of handling International differences.

The body re-emphasized its refusal to join the World Council of Churches, and turned down an invitation that it send an observer to the council's meeting in Amstedam this summer.

In another resolution, it voiced opposition to "Communism, Fascism, political ecclesiasticism, and anti-semitism."

The convention sessions, which began Wednesday/ were marked by emphasis on separation of Church and State and internal skirmishes centering around Dr. J. Frank Norris of Fort Worth, Tex., frequent critic of convention policies.

Norris never sought the convention floor ,although he was accredited as a messenger (delegate). But associates from his church engaged in occasional parliamentary jousts with convention President, Louis Newton of Atlanta, Ga.

In a move described unofficially as a rebuke to Norris, the convention amended its constitution to ban messengers from churches not sympathetic with its purposes and work. Norris told newsmen the action was "a huge joke."

DEATHS

MRS. ALICE H. DORMAN

BASTROP, La., May 22.—(Special)—Mrs. Alice Harrington Dorman, 79, Bastrop, died early Saturday morning in a Bastrop hospital. The body will remain at the home until time for funeral services Sunday at 3 p. m. at the Bastrop First Baptist Church with the pastor, Rev. M. R. Whitsitt, officiating. U. S. CONSUL

Gannon, a guard, meanwhile was reported out of danger from a wound received May 14. He was shot in the back.

The shootings appeared likely to spur American efforts to stop the Palestine fighting through the United Nations. There was no indication that the state department planned any other action. Representatives of many nations have accepted known risks to remain in Jerusalem and carry out their duties.

The reports on Wasson came from William C. Bullett, Jr., a vice consul who temporarily took over his chief's job.

Secretary of State Marshall quickly responded with a message saying he was "deeply grieved" by the shooting and commending the entire staff for the "courageous and able manner" in which they were carrying out their duties in the midst of the battle.

Known among fellow diplomats for his personal courage, Wasson volunteered last March to transfer to the hazardous Jerusalem post from Athens, where he was embassy counsellor.

A World War I veteran, he was awarded the medal for freedom for his services as consul at the French African port of Dakar where he was under fire in the early stages of World War II.

The state department said that in Jerusalem he has been "daily passing through bullet-swept streets and battle lines, to press Arab and Jewish leaders to accept a truce. The U. N. commission on which he serves includes also the French and Belgian consuls.

Wasson, a native of Great Falls, Mont., is unmarried and lists new York City as his permanent home.

Burdett, who stepped into his shoes, is 29. His home is Macon, Ga. He has served in many posts abroad since entering the foreign service in 1942 soon after graduation from Princeton university.

J. G. DURRETT INJURED IN MISSOURI ACCIDENT

J. G. Durrett, prominent Monroe business man, was injured in an automobile accident near Jefferson City, Mo., yesterday, according to word received here. Mr. Durrett, president of the Monroe Furniture Company and affiliated stores, was en route to Booneville, Mo., with Mrs. Durrett for their son's graduation from Kemper Military Academy.

Mr. Durrett was said to have sustained injuries to four ribs in the accident, the details of which were not known here. He was taken to a hospital where his side was taped and then proceeded to Booneville. The car was damaged but was still in running condition. It was said Mr. and Mrs. Durrett will return here Tuesday.

ALCOHOLICS PLAN PUBLIC MEETING

Anonymous Organization Schedules May 30 Get-To-Gether In School

The Monroe and West Monroe Alcoholics Anonymous organization will hold a public meeting May 30, at 8 p. m., in the Ouachita parish high school auditorium.

The purpose of the meeting is to enlighten the general public as to what an alcoholic really is and at the same time help alcoholics recover their health, if they wish.

One of the south's leading criminal lawyers from Memphis, Tenn., will be guest speaker and a former resident of Monroe will be master of ceremonies. An address will also be given by a prominent woman of the state who is a member of the A. A. group.

Alcoholics Anonymous was first founded by two men in 1933 and up to 1939 the group had enlisted only 100 in their movement. That same year the book "Alcoholics Anonymous" came off the press and the present membership has grown to 63,000 and has spread through 2 countries.

The informal groups from a unique organization in which there are no officers, no dues or rules, their sole purpose is to maintain their own sobriety and assist other drinkers in giving up alcohol, which they believe is an impossibility.

They do no advertising or solociting of funds and their only request is tolerance. The groups are non-denominational, non-controversial, and non-political.

The A. A. is an organization composed of ex-drinkers who have found an inter-peace in life and a new way of living that no longer compels them to rely on alcohol, on which they formerly placed so much dependence.

The organization, as a group, has no opinion on any controversial subject. It is neither for nor against alcohol but has its only purpose the desire to maintain their own sobriety and to help the sick recover if they want to.

The group is composed of members from all stations of life, all faiths and creeds. The only qualification for membership is an honest desire to quit drinking.

The organization was first established in the twin cities two years ago. The local groups can be contacted by writing Alcoholics Anonymous post office box 309 in Monroe or box 3263 in West Monroe.

Alcoholics are cordially invited to attend the meeting to which the entire public is welcomed.

what the army will do to keep its recruiting promises. Here's the letter:

"El Paso, Tex., May 19, 1948

"U. S. Army and Air Force
Recruiting Officer,
101 No. Grand street, Monroe La.,
"Dear Sir:

"I, S. B. Taylor, R. A. 38338094 PFC, want to express my greatest thanks to you and your office for the effort you put forth in my behalf to clarify my enlistment promises. The papers you sent to Camp Stoneman did the work, and I am now assigned to Fort Bliss, Texas. Thanks a million to you sir and to your staff.

"Signed"
"PFC S. B. Taylor."

"Dear Jes' Ramblin': Am sorry that you cut out the name and address of the little afflicted boy. He is D. G. Murphy, Winnsboro road at Marl street. Possibly if you will publish this that someon may go to see him and thereby do him some good.

"Sincerely, T. L. Morris."

"Dear Jes' Ramblin': Finally the city of Monroe has an athletic club. Most cities this size have a Y.M.C.A. or some other sort of institution with a gymnasium to wich citizens can go to keep in trim.

"Mr. Maney, director of the Monroe Athletic club, believes that his club will build stronger, healthier young men for Monroe.

"After having gained in less than a month almost two inches in chest measurements, eight pounds of firm muscles and the will power to lay off tobacco, I am inclined to agree with him.

"Primarily the M. A. C. is interested in the body building field. Better bodies just naturally make for healthier mental outlooks. This means less delinquency in our youth and generally happier lives for our settled oldsters who mightn't otherwise find time to from work for proper exercise.

"So Jes' Ramblin' wont you ambl over to the M. A. C. and see the facts for yourself? See young men in action building better bodies. See over 200 lbs. jerked overhead by a 16-year old!

"For the improvement of our city I am,
"Sincerely, Tom Brulte, Jr."

NORTH CENTRAL LEAGUE

RAMBLERS TIE 'JACKS

CLARKS, La., May 22.—(Special)—The Columbia Ramblers, backed by four-hit pitching from "Lefty" Smith who struck out 14 Lumberjack batters, defeated Clarks, 12 to 5, here Thursday night to go into a tie with the 'Jacks for first place in the North Central Louisiana League standings. It was the first league loss for Clarks who had previously handed the Ramblers their only defeat.

The Ramblers hopped on three Clarks hurlers for 15 hits. "Rip" Hinton was relieved after giving up eight hits and six runs in two and two-thirds innings. Rufus Yossett came in for four and a third innings and was hammered for seven more hits and six more runs. Truman Mayes, pitching the last two frames, shut out the Ramblers the rest of the way.

SPORTS ROUND UP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

ST. LOUIS, May 22.—(AP)—There's been considerable talk around the current P. G. A. tournament about eliminating the qualifying round and tossing all comers right into match play. . . . There has also been talk, mostly by the knockout victims, about eliminating those early 18-hole tests and making all matches 36-hole marathons. . . . The latter suggestion probably won't be heard for awhile after yesterday's run of overtime clashes. . . . There were seven extra-hole matches in the first round and two more in the second. . . . As a grand windup, Chick Harbert had to go 26 holes to dispose of Eddie Burke. . . . The anti-qualifying move seems a bit more serious and Ed Dudley, P. G. A. president, admits "we might give it a try," though he adds, "we get one every year." . . . The United States Golf Association did give it a try for the amateur championship and everybody seems happy. . . . At least the little guys don't make a long trip without one chance at the stars.

Thought for Food

Rotund Ed "Pork Chops" Oliver was wandering down the fairway the other day when a friend offered him some refreshment—a cup of chocolate milk. . . . "No thanks," replied Ed. "That sort of stuff isn't good for your stomach." . . . But apparently the offer gave Porky ideas, for the next time he was sighted, Oliver was leaving a refreshment stand, biting into a king-sized hot dog.

Stay on the Fairway

In their 23-hole first round match yesterday, Ben Hogan and Jock Hutchinson, Jr., halved eleven holes in succession. . . . And Oklahoma City's George Getchell fired 10 straight pars at the end of his morning match and 11 straight at the start of the afternoon round. . . . and he still lost. . . . Leland Gibson probably set another record of some sort when he shot five birdies in a row against Pete Cooper. . . . When Horton Smith fired an iron shot into the wind on a short hole and saw it drop a few yards short of the green he remarked, half to himself, "That puts me in a working class." . . . He didn't know how truthful he was. . . .

Sports Pourri

Frosty Cox, Colorado U. basketball coach, prescribes daily workouts on the handball court for awkward cagers. . . . It's an excellent conditioner and teaches coordination of the hands and feet. . . . Where it interests Cox, of course, is that Rodney Bell, a six-foot-ten lad who couldn't get out of his own way for a while has learned to move around quite well after a few weeks of handball. . . . Villanova College is looking for some good ball carrying from Jack Moran, a lightweight back who looked good in spring scrimmage. . . . What makes Jack a real standout is that he picked his college without encouragement just because Villanova was his brother-in-law's school.

Just a Holdup

Bo McMillin, the Detroit Lions' coach, believed firmedly in discipline in his family as well as on his football club. . . . So when his five-year-old son, Mike, was cutting up recently, Bo admonished: "I'm going to take off my belt and straighten you out, boy." . . . Mike looked at his dad's rounding-out figure and replied impishly: "If you do, pops, you'll lose your pants."

CINDERELLAS PLAY HODGE CLUB TODAY

The Cinderella Sports of Monroe will be host to the Hodge Black Wa-Ha's in a baseball game at Casino Park here this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Cinderellas will be seeking revenge for the 8 to 6 defeat suffered at the hands of the Wa-Ha's earlier in the season, and the vastly improved Cinderellas, who have shown considerable power in their last two battles with Greenville, Miss., and Longview, Tex., are sure to prove a more formidable foe unless the Hodge club has been improving as well.

Purify is scheduled to pitch for the visitors, and Manager Hardy Goins said Carter or Smith will get the nod to start on the mound for the local Negro club.

JONESVILLE GETS SET FOR COLUMBIA

JONESVILLE, La., May 22.—(Special)—The Jonesville Blues plan to send Jim Keeth to the mound Sunday in an effort to knock the Columbia Ramblers out of their second place spot in the North Central Louisiana League and bolster their own dismal standing.

Even if the Blues get by the Ramblers, they'll face even stiffer opposition next Thursday when Clarks Lumberjacks invade Jonesville for the second home game in a row.

With Keeth scheduled to hurl Sunday, Robert Swayze is expected to take the mound against Clarks.

Both games will be played in Jonesville's Municipal park. Jonesville officials hope night games will be possible in June. Most of the electrical equipment for lights has arrived but a shortage of poles has held up installation.

An all-steel grandstand probably will be completed by mid-June.

With the exception of Keeth, the starting lineup for the Sunday tilt will be as follows:

Thomas, catcher; R. Swayze, first base ;White, second base; Kochevair, shortstop; Gregg, third base Aplin, left field; N. Swayze, centerfield; foreman, right field.

Game time will be 3:30 p. m.

M'LANE'S BUDDY LEAGUE DOUBLES '47 MEMBERSHIP

Eight Clubs Ready To Go When Boys' Circuit Opens May 31

RUSTON, La., May 22.—(Special)—The North Louisiana Buddy League, a baseball circuit founded last summer by Eddie McLane, Louisiana Tech professor, is all set for its second annual campaign with twice as many clubs as participated last year. It's a boys' program entirely, catering to youths 16 years old and under.

In 1947 when McLane, former Louisiana Tech football coach, organized the league for which he now serves as secretary, there were only four clubs (Minden, Homer, Haynesville, Ruston), but this year there are eight teams representing West Monroe, Ruston, Minden, Homer, Dubach, Bernice, Farmerville, and Jonesboro-Hodge.

The schedule will open Monday week, May 31, with Minden at Homer, Dubach at Bernice, Farmerville at Jonesboro-Hodge, and Ruston at West Monroe.

Boys who had not reached their fifteenth birthday before last January 1 are eligible to participate in the league, but youths who had not reached their sixteenth birthday last January 1 are eligible provided they do not weigh more than 110 pounds. Boys participating in American Legion Junior baseball are ineligible.

There is a weight limit on pitchers regardless of age. Pitchers can't exceed 135 pounds as of June 1, and if a pitcher starts the season within the weight limit but reach 145 before the season is over he becomes ineligible.

All games will begin at 4 p. m. on Monday and Friday of each week, and each contest will be a seven inning affair.

The league schedule closes July 16, and a Shaughnessy playoff will be conducted between July 19 and July 31 to determine the circuit champion.

DOUBLE MAIN EVENT BILLED FOR MAT PROGRAM TUESDAY

Harrell Battles Rodriguez And George Curtis Faces Carlin

A double main event wrestling show, featuring Carlos Rodriquez, Henry Harrell, Johnny Carlin, and George Curtis, will be served up for his mat customers by Promoter Gus Kallio here Tuesday night.

In announcing his card last night, Kallio said Rodriguez, the burly Mexican round man, will square off against rowdy Henry Harrell, Memphis, Tenn., in one match, and that Carlin, old granite-head Suede, will tackle Curtis, younger brother of Jack Curtis, a foremost contender for the world's light heavyweight championship he has held on three different occasions.

It will mark the first showing here in many months for Curtis, the lanky battler who has come a long way up the wrestling trail under the expert teachings of his big brother. Reports here are that young Curtis has developed extensively since his last Monroe appearance and that Twin City fans should be well pleased with the "new look" George is promising.

In facing Carlin, Curtis will be called upon to match wits with a master of the game whose most devastating weapon is a hard head. With a dome as clean as a billiard ball, the mustachioed Carlin stuns his foes by cracking his skull against that of the opponent. Curtis' job Tuesday will be to keep in the clear when Carlin begins butting.

Harrell and Rodriguez, both of the rough-and-tumble caliber, are due to give the customers a wild match if they follow their usual pattern. The Mexican round man believes in "every-thing-goes" when he has the upper hand, and Harrell likes to travel the same way but gives his foes the right to choose the road.

Both matches will have time limits of an hour and 15 minutes with two falls to win.

Kallio said the order in which the matches appear on the card will not be determined until shortly before ring time Tuesday night at 8 o'clock.

5 REGULARS OUT AS TECH BEGINS NORTHERN TREK

Bulldogs On Seven-Game Baseball Tour Of Iowa, Illinois

RUSTON, La., May 22.—(Special)—Louisiana Tech's baseball squad left Ruston at noon Saturday for Iowa City, Iowa, where the Techmen will meet the Hawkeyes of the University of Iowa on Monday and Tuesday in the first of a series of games scheduled during a northern road trip.

Although the Techmen have won the Louisiana Inter-collegiate Conference championship, the team will be crippled on the northern tour because five regular players were unable to make the trip. The Tech squad has won 17 and lost six games so far this season.

From Iowa City, the Tech squad will go to Champaign, Ill., for an engagement Wednesday with the University of Illinois diamondmen. On Thursday, the Tech nine will meet the Illinois Wesleyan squad at Bloomington, and on Friday and Saturday the Techmen will play the Bradley university team in Peoria. The local Bulldogs will wind up the season against Illinois Southern at Carbondale on Monday, May 31.

A partial list of the players who will start against the Hawkeyes include Tom Herrin or T. L. Smith, pitching; R. A. Holstead, first baseman; Walter Perro ,second baseman; Dick Foster, shortstop; Toby Smith, right field; Bob Brasher, center field; Lester Burks, left field; Ben Carroll, catching. When the team left Ruston, Coach Berry Hinton had not decided CHICAGO, May 22.—(AP)—Although each team made 14 hits, the New York Yankees included three home runs and three triples among their hit total to drub the Chicago White Sox, 10-2 today and win the rubber game of their three-game series.

Joe DiMaggio, Billy Johnson and George McQuinn hit homers for the Yankees while Yogi Berra, Bobby Brown, and George Stirnweiss walloped triples. Taft Wright slammed a four-bagger for the White Sox.

Backed by this heavy bombardment against Rookie Howard Judson and three successors, Red Embree had an easy time subduing the White Sox despite yielding 14 blows. It was his fifth straight win over the pale hose since he reached the majors. He has never lost to them.

Joe Louis, Not Walcott, Needs Build-Up For Return Title Bout

By Harry Grayson

NEW YORK, May 22.—(NEA)—Suddenly it dawns on the old ringworm that he is witnessing the strange spectacle of a heavyweight champion being bally-hooed instead of the challenger.

This is made all the more unusual because the title-holder was such a devastating one as Joe Louis.

It perhaps stresses more than any other one thing the rapid decline of the Brown Bomber.

Jersey Joe Walcott became the forgotten man when Louis returned from Europe, and finally hid away on Roan's Ranch, hard by Bloomingdale, Mich.

The sports pages have been full of a bearded Smoky Joe sawing wood, beheading snakes with one crack of his trusty rifle, under an umbrella, tasting Bill Bottoms' chow, being serenaded on his 34th birthday, riding junior's tricycle, doing everything, in fact, but taking pokes at sparring partners.

The latter is what he needs most, and it is high time he got around to the business at hand.

Louis' second edition with Jersey Joe Walcott is just around the bend, and at Yankee Stadium, June 23, the champion will have to carry the chase in something vastly more formidable than a kiddie car.

A heavyweight champion requiring drum-beating is rare. There hasn't been anything like this since Louis ironed out Jim Braddock, as everybody suspected he would, 11 years ago. Even Primo Carnera didn't require any help from the tub-thumpers when he was knocked out by Maxie Baer in 1934. A lot of people considered Jess Willard too big for Jack Dempsey in 1919, and Jack Johnson was the active head of the division when Jim Jeffries turned out to be the Original Hollow Snell in 1910.

Much is being made of what Louis has done to other opponents in second elections.

Walcott, a man Joe's own age, had to be sold to the public Dec. 5. But now all the publicity bureau has to do to put across the Great Father of Camden is reprint the pictures of Louis on the deck and attempting to bolt from the enclosure with the sound of the final bell.

Editor Nat Fleischer of The Ring magazine, just back from London, reports that they think even less of Louis on the other side than they do here.

The British didn't like his bloated condition and the way he neglected slugging for steaks.

So disgusted were they with his performances in the Health and Strength show that the average attendance was no more than 100 at 50 cents a rattle and there were occasions when he played to less than 50 people. The show lost $750,000, and Louis was the only one who was paid.

Eddie Borden, London's American bookmaker has wagered $7000 on Jersey Joe Walcott at 2 1/2-to-1. The price has dropped on this side.

The British can't see how Joe Louis can possibly get in shape.

Neither can a lot of people in this country.

Morehouse Parish Boys Score 9 To 4 Win In Legion Contest

RAYVILLE, La., May 22 (Special)—A big eighth inning in which they scored five runs brought the Bastrop American Legion Junior baseball club a 9 to 4 triumph over Rayville's Legion club in their season opener here today.

Rayville held a three-run lead until Bastrop tied it up with three runs in the third. Bastrop went ahead with one run in the seventh and iced the game away in the eighth. Rayville scored once in the eighth.

The rival pitchers, Georg Goodwin, Bastrop, and Jrry Meeks, Rayville, both pitched eight-hit ball, but errors spoiled Meeks' efforts.

PITTSBURGH, BROOKLYN PRACTICALLY REVERSING POSITIONS OF YEAR AGO

(By Associated Press)

It's a long jump from the bottom of the heap to the first division, but the Pittsburgh Pirates are trying to prove that it can be done.

Of course, the season has a long way to run and the Pirates may hit a snag when they run into the usual heavy mid-season double headers, but Manager Billy Meyer's crew is in third place today, pressing the St. Louis Cardinals for the lead.

Due to postponements, Meyer has been able to give his veteran pitchers such as Rip Sewell, Elmer Riddle and Fritz Ostermueller plenty of rest and the oldtimers have come through with nine of the Pirates 15 victories.

Very few thought that the Pirates, who finished the 1947 season in a seventh place tie with the Philadelphia Phillies, would be among the upper brackets this year. One who did however, is Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"The Pirates will finish in the first division," Rickey said in spring training. The deacon didn't say exactly where he thought his Dodgers would place and perhaps it's just as well.

Rickey isn't reminding people of his prediction and pointing out how the Pirates are living up to it because his Dodgers, defending National League champions, are in seventh place and threatening to drop lower.

The Pirates paid their first visit to Ebbets Field, home of the Dodgers, Friday, and shot up the place, 8-4, to hand the Brooks their sixth straight loss, and came back yesterday to win, 3-1.

THREE SOUTHERN AMATEUR MARKS BEATEN AT MEET

Paul Bienz, Spencer Johnson set Records In Natchitoches Events

NATCHITOCHES, La., May 22.—(AP)—Three Southern A. A. U. records were broken here today in the regional championship senior track and field meet.

Paul Bienz and Spencer Johnson, both of Tulane University, were the record breakers.

Bienz ran the 100-meter dash in 10.5 seconds, shaving one-tenth of a second off the record held jointly by Arthur Bracey of Rice and Emmet Toppino of Loyola university of the south.

Bienz did better in the 200-meter dash, covering the path in 20.7 to break the 21.2 record held by Toppino.

Johnson ran the 3000-meter event in 9:09, breaking the 9:47.6 record Jim Trout, of the university of Texas has held for 24 years.

Bill Casey, of Southeastern Louisiana College, who yesterday ran that route in 9:36 to set a new junior division record, ran second to Johnson today.

Northwestern State college won the team trophy with 13 points. Southwestern Louisiana institute was second with 11 points. Athletes from Louisiana State University and Tulane competed as unattached independents.

Summaries:

110-meter high hurdles—won by Burge, independent; second, Allen, L. S. U.; third, Waguespack, Loyola. Time: 15.4 second.

REBS OUTLAST HODGE

HODGE, La., May 22—(Special)—The Ruston Rebels won a 12-inning Big Eight League contest from the Hodge Red Sox here Wednesday, 6 to 5.

Racer Holstead drove in the winning run with an outfield fly, stole second and reached third on a fielder's choice. Holstead collected three hits in six trips to pace the Rebel attack.

Griner, of the visitors, and Wimpy Walpool, Hodge, turned in excellent relief performances. Griner replaced Charlie B. Carter on the mound in the seventh and was unscored on in the five and two thirds innings he worked, getting credit for the victory.

Walpole had pitched five scoreless innings for the Sox, after taking over from Ray Anders in the seventh, before the winning run was scored.

Jack Richardson, Hodge center fielder, led the locals at bat and in the field. He collected a double and two singles, and contributed a fine running catch on Billy Davis' blow in the sixth.

Score by innings:

Ruston Rebs	300 002 000 001—6 10 3
Hodge	012 000 200 000—5 11 3

L. A. INVITATIONAL

LOS ANGELES—(NEA)—Arrangements are being made to stage the second annual Los Angeles National College Invitational Basketball Championships, Dec. 28-31.

GRAYSON'S SCOREBOARD

NEW YORK, May 22.—(NEA)—The answer to the Cardinals' early foot, in striking contract to their almost unbelievably bad start last trip, is obvious.

Matchless Stanley Musial has his health, is hitting .350 to be among the leaders in runs-batted in. Howie Pollet throws without wincing is again ready to pace the pitching. The right-hand batting Terry Moore and Ervin Dusak were injured a year ago, enabling the rival managers to pick on the Red Birds with left-hand pitching.

NIPPY JONES

But the best story in connection with the 1948 St. Louis Nations to date is that of Vernal Jones.

Making good at first base, Nippy Jones put Stan Musial and the Cards back on the right track.

There never was any question about young Jones' hitting. The Los Angeles lad topped the International League with .337 in 118 games last year, for example, showed the way in doubles with 36 and triples with 12 batting in 81 runs.

Eddie Dyer's problem was finding Jones' position. He was tried at all infield positions except first base on the Triple A farms, was even shunted to the outfield.

But when Jones was brought in as the injured Al Schoendienst's replacement last fall it was his errors at second that finally knocked the blokes in the red blazers out of the fight with the Dodgers.

Manager Dyer tried Jones, not yet 23, at first this spring in desperation.

Dyer had made up his mind that Dick Sisler would never be anything more than a passable first baseman, although he conceded that the strapping son of the immortal George had a chance to become a tremendous hitter.

Because of Slats Marion's trick knee and Red Schoendienst's shallow arm socket, it was imperative that the Cardinals land a reserve shortstop, preferably one who could also perform at second.

So Sisler went to the Phillies for aggressive Ralph LaPointe and cash.

"Jones is already getting fancy at first base," smiles the personable Dyer, "and he's next to Musial on the club in runs-batted-in."

Jones fitting in so well enabled Musial to return to the outfield, where he can concentrate to a greater extent on his hitting.

The six-foot-one-inch, 190-pound Jones put another strong right-hand hitter into the batting order.

No longer are the Cardinals marks for southpaws.

With all pitchers looking alike to Musial in left field and Country Slaughter in right, Dyer switches only in center, Four Sack Dusak replacing Terry Moore when the captain's aging legs tire.

The Cardinals are last in hitting at the moment, but won't stay there.

Speaking of Pollet's comeback, Harry Brecheen appears on his way to another campaign such as he had when he wound up a three-game World Series winner in 1946.

Three of his first four starts, all winning ones, were shutouts, during the course of which he turned in 32 scoreless innings.

Only a dribbler off the bat of a badly fooled Johnny Blatnik of the Phillies, called safe on a debatable decision at first base, deprived him of the National League's first perfect game in 68 years.

The Cardinals have the left-handers, Pollet, Brecheen and Brazle, and the right-handers, Dickson, Munger and Hearn, with other attempting to break in or ready for relief work.

This is a new year, but they are the old Cardinals.

MONROE LEGION TAKES OPENING RUSTON BATTLE

McCain-Richards Outfit Wins 12-3 Behind Five-Hit Pitching

RUSTON, La., May 22.—(Special)—Getting off to a flying start with six runs in the second inning, the Monroe-West Monroe American Legion baseball team walloped Ruston's Juniors, 12 to 3, here today in their opening battle of the 1940 season.

Jimmy George and Jarrell Matkins, sharing the pitching chores for the McCain-Richards Motor outfit of Monroe, allowed only five hits while the visitors were able to bag only nine safe blows off Douglas Lowery and Louis Pipes.

However, loss of control by the Ruston chunkers at crucial moments filled the base paths with the visitors. Monroe-West Monroe drew eight bases on balls and hit four batters with pitched balls. Monroe hurlers walked nine and hit one batter, but kept them well scattered.

Wayne Moore and Kendall Bailey, Monroe, were the only batters to get more than one hit, and one of Moore's blows went for three bases, the longest hit of the game.

DELHI TRIUMPHS

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., May 22.—(Special)—In a Louisiana Delta League game played here Thursday afternoon, the Delhi Oilers came from behind in the seventh inning, scoring four runs, and going on to nose out Lake Providence, 9 to 8. The victory kept Delhi within one game of the leading Bonita club.

Bonita stayed on top by beating Mangham, 5 to 2. Other results were Archibald 7, Bastrop 5, and Boeuf River 13, Oak Grove 7.

Delhi's pitchers, who gave up 11 hits, also lead their own club's batting attack. Pickering got "two for two," and Raynor collected three hits in as many times at bat. E. Fortenberry was Lake Providence's heavy hitter, getting four for six.

THREE TOP PROS LEAD WAY INTO QUARTER-FINAL

Harbert, Snead, Bulla S Pace In P. G. A. Golf Tournament

By Hugh Fullerton Jr.

ST. LOUIS, May 22.—(AP)—A trio slammers paced by one of the long hitters of them all, Chick Harbert Northville, Mich., led the way in the quarter-finals of the 30th Professional Golfers Association championship today.

Most of the tournament hot shots came successfully thorugh the third round. Harbert ousted the medalist Skip Alexander of Lexington, N. by an 11 and 10 margin. He shot ten-under par 61 for his morning round and finished the 26 holes twelve under perfect figures.

Sammy Snead, the White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., clouter and John Bulla of Phoenix, Ariz., turned in decisive victories. Snead whipped Leland Gibson of Kansas City, 5 and 3, and Bulla routed Ky Laffoon of Andrews, Ill., 6 and 5.

Other survivors of the 36-hole third round matches over the par 71, 6,46 yard Norwood Hills Country Club course were Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck, N. Y., Mike Turnesa of White Plains, N. Y., Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Calif., and George Fazio of Conshohocken, Pa.

Hogan conquered 46-year-old Gene Sarazen, 1-up. Fazio won by the same margin over Ed (Porky) Oliver of Kenmore, Wash. Demaret turned back National Open Champion Lew Worsham of Oakmont, Pa., 3 and 2. Turnesa beat Al Smith of Winston-Salem, N. C., also 3 and 2, and Harmon, winner of the Augusta Masters Tournament this year, beat Henry Ransom of Ravinia, Ill., 2 and 1.

Tomorrow's matches will send Harbert against Hogan, Demaret against Fazio, Snead against Harmon and Bulla against Turnesa.

ATHLETE'S FOOT

Don't Pay Unless Relieved

Or Get 50c Size At Druggist

At least 50% of the adult population of the United States are being attacked by the disease known as Athlete's Foot.

Usually the disease starts between the toes. Little watery blisters form, and the skin cracks and peels. After a while, the itching becomes intense, and you feel as though you would like to scratch off all the skin.

BEWARE OF IT SPREADING

Often the disease travels all over the bottom of the feet. The soles of your feet become red and swollen. The skin also cracks and peels, and the itching becomes worse and worse.

Get relief from this disease as quickly as possible, because it is both contagious and infectious, and it may go to your hands or even to the under arm or crotch of the legs.

DISEASE OFTEN MISUNDERSTOOD

The cause of the disease is not a germ as so many people think, but a vegetable growth that becomes buried beneath the outer tissues of the skin.

To obtain relief the medicine to be used should first gently dissolve or remove the outer skin and then kill the vegetable growth.

This growth is so hard to kill that a test shows it takes 15 minutes of boiling to destroy it; however, laboratory tests also show that H. F. will kill it upon contact in 15 seconds.

DOUBLE ACTION NEEDED

Recently H. F. was developed solely for the purpose of relieving Athlete's Foot. It both gently dissolves the skin and then kills the vegetable growth upon contact. Both actions are necessary for prompt relief.

H. F. is a liquid that doesn't stain. You just paint the infected parts nightly before going to bed. Often the terrible itching is relieved at once.

Just ahead of it came "Nature Boy," ridden by State Rep. Larry Pryor.

As Pryor neared the station a band broke forth with "I've been waiting at the railroad all the livelong day," followed by "nobody knows the trouble IC."

Pryor was garbed in a planter's hat, ten gallon hat, and frock coat. He was greeted at the speaker's stand by Hoop Skirted Margaret Turner who presented him with a stirrup cup—a trainman's oilcan filled with an undivulged liquid.

Mayor George Archer proclaimed May 22 as annual "Mule Express Day" and predicted the newly inaugurated service will give employment to thousands of mules idle because of mechanized agriculture.

Marvin Rosenberg, vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce, said that whereas the race was a gag, "Delta business leaders will continue fighting for adequate passenger, mail and freight service."

SOUNDS LIKE SEASON'S FOREMOST FISH STORY

ST. LOUIS, May 22.—(AP)—Not catching many fish? A government conservationist says the upper Mississippi river is so crowded with them that they're bumping heads and thousands are dying of old age.

H Gordon Hanson, conservationist for the upper Mississippi division of the army engineers, said a survey of the river shows blue gills, wall-eyed pike, crappies and black Bass are jostling each other for fin room.

"About 1,000,000 pounds of crappie alone die of old age every year," he said.

Hanson added that commercial fishermen's annual catch averages about 14,000,000 pounds isn't even making a dent in the river's fish poulation.

Asked what kind of luck he has been having, Hanson said he has not had time to do any fishing recently.

NASHVILLE, NEW ORLEANS NEGRO TEAMS AT CLARKS

CLARKS, La., May 22.—(Special)—New Orleans Creoles and the Nashville Cubs, rival teams of the Negro Southern Baseball League, tangle here Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in an official league contest at the Louisiana Central Lumber company's park.

The Creoles, sporting an almost entirely new lineup, have only Billy Horne and Oliver Andry back from a strong 1947 club, and are traveling under a new manager, Tommy Brown, formerly of the Memphis Red Sox and the New York Black Yanks.

The Cubs will come to town sporting an outstanding sextet of sluggers in "Butch" McCord, Danny Williams, Harvey Young, Johnny Parker, Scott Drake, and Robert "Buddy" Young. The Nashville team also boasts one of Negro baseball's strikeout artists, "Lefty" Derris who whiffed more than 300 batters last year.

TITTLE GETS STATE'S TOP ATHLETIC AWARDS

BATON ROUGE, La., May 22.—(AP)—Two of Louisiana State University's top athletic honors went tonight to Y. A. Tittle, whose quarterbacking sparked the Tiger football squad for three years.

Tittle received the Roberts-Eastland Trophy given annually to Louisiana State University's most valuable football player and the George Wallace trophy for the squadman playing most minutes during the season. The presentations were made at a letterman's banquet tonight.

Jim Cason of Harlingen, Tex., was elected permanent captain of the 1947 Bengal squad.

Bernie Moore, who became commissioner of the Southeastern Conference this year after 13 years coaching at Louisiana State, presided and made the presentations.

MONROE NEGROES VISIT ALEXANDRIA, FERRIDAY

Monroe's traveling Negro baseball clubs, the Sluggers and Red Sox, will be playing at Ferriday and Alexandria today, it was reported last night by Joe Gulledge, booking agent.

The Red Sox will be meeting the Alexandria Black Aces at Alexandria at 3 o'clock, and the Sluggers will engage Fondale on the Ferriday diamond at the same time.

LEAHY, IBA WILL SPARK OLE MISS SPORT CLINIC

UNIVERSITY, Miss., May 22.—(AP)—Head Coach Frank Leahy of Notre Dame and Henry (Hank) Iba of Oklahoma A. &. M. will spark the first Ole Miss (University of Mississippi) football and basketball clinic the first week of June.

Leahy will cover both offensive and defensive "T" system play as well as adaptation of the system to different types of personnel. Iba, who coached Oklahoma A. &. M.'s basketball squad to two national championships, will explain the control of play he favors.

Iba plans to cover individual fundamentals and drills, free throwing, definite types of zone defenses, three types of man-to-man defenses, and five types of offensive play to be used against the defenses he mentioned.

Johnny Vaught, University of Mississippi head caoch, and members of his staff will work with Leahy and Iba in presentation of the program.

The basketball branch is set for June 2-3. The next two days will be devoted to football. Movies of the last four sugar bowl games and other football and basketball tilts will be shown.

C. M. (Tad) Smith, director of athletes at Ole Miss, said inquiries and registrations have been received from six southern states as well as from coaches in other areas.

The clinic will be open to all without tuition.

LEWIS

sions will be a big issue in negotiations, when they get going.

Scheduled negotiations between Lewis and the operators toward a new contract halted abruptly Wednesday because Lewis would not agree to seat the representative of the Southern coal producers association. He called it a "propaganda organization."

Latimer said that miners could be made eligible for retirement at age 60, instead of 62 as agreed to temporarily by Lewis and Senator Bridges (R-NH), the two other trustees of the pension money.

Latimer said that Lewis's original proposal—$100 a month for miners 60 years old with 20 years' service—would cost $26,400,000 a year.

He said the current 10-cent royalty, provided in the one year contract signed last July, would yield $55,710,000 annually. Of this, $710,000 could be used for administration of the fund. He thought 22,000 miners would retire in the first year.

At that rate, Latimer estimated, the income "will pay all pensions due in full and with a balance left over, at the end of ten years of operation, of more than $210,000,000."

"On any basis," he said, "there is no reason for delay in activating the miners pension fund."

Latimer's report was submitted to trustees of the welfare and retirement fund on April 11.

The next day, Lewis and Senator Bridges voted a compromise plan which led to ending the six-week pension strike. Van Horn opposed it. Bridges was chosen as the neutral member of the three-man board at the suggestion of House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, who said he was interested in ending the pension dispute.

The Bridges-Lewis plan was not as liberal as that considered by Latimer in reaching his conclusion. Latimer based his study on Lewis's original demands, first made last summer.

Bridges and Lewis agreed to a temporary plan financed by $5,000,000 from the first year's collection. It would pay $100 a month to 62-year-old members of the United Mine Workers with 20 years service who retire after May 29, 1946.

Van Horn said this would violate the Taft-Hartley act because some miners would share in a fund financed by other employers than their own.

He has asked the federal district court for an injunction to halt any payments under the Bridges-Lewis plan.

Meanwhile the national coal association declared in an industry bulletin that "The law of the land should be that welfare and pension plans have no place in labor contracts."

"Nothing but difficulty and confusion have flowed or can flow from the inclusion of these items in labor contracts," the association declared. "They are matters that present difficult and technical problems and cannot be dealt with in connection with annual or bi-annual wage conferences."

PIROGUE PADDLERS PUT ON ANNUAL SHOW TODAY

BAYOU BARATARIA, La., May 22.—(AP)—Pirogue paddlers for miles for miles around gather here tomorrow for the biggest event of the year among French folk of the bayou country—the annual Pirogue derby.

A Pirogue is a typsy, needle-like swampland craft fashioned from a cypress log. It's so bouyant the bayou folk boast, "man, yo' can paddly thees Piragues over a heavy dew." It's the chief means of transportation here, for this is an area of more water than land.

Between 30 and 40 of South Louisiana's Pirogue pushers will compete in the four mile upstream race starting at 3 p. m.

Along shore some 20,000 spectators, picnicking on this gala day, will cheer their favorites in the gruelling etst.

The perennial "Pirogue champion of the world, "Adam Billot, will not compete this year. The man of the mighty stroke says he has been ill and his strength is not of the best.

But, with the pride of a bayou Frenchman, he is sure the family record will be kept intact by the performance of his 18-year-old nephew, Gilbert Reine.

Herbert Creppel, champion in 1941 and 1946, will be among those skimming their frail crafts over the waters. Creppel seeks a third leg on the Charles Ellis Trophy which would give him permanent ownership.

SENATE

ministration request to set up a separate universal military training program for the nation's youth.

It was to have had separate camps and instructors but senators said this would mean too heavy a burden of cost and manpower at a time when the armed services are to be expanded by the stopgap draft.

The new compromise still left unsettled a touchy question about racial segregation in the armed services.

Senator Russell (D-Ga) and other Southerners say they will insist that any draft or enlisted man shall have the right to ask service in units of his own race. They plan to offer this amendment on the Senate floor. It might stir up the entire controversy over civil rights program of anti-lynch, anti-poll tax and anti-discrimination proposals.

Senator Ball (R-Minn) and other Republicans say they have the votes to defeat the Russell proposal. But they agree it may take a lot of time.

Ora Northeast Trend Halted As Shell Plugs Second Test

Six Field Wells Completed; Two Wildcat Projects Staked Below Rayville

A succession of severe setbacks has checked the development of Union parish's Ora field to the northeast—a trend which only a few weeks ago was regarded as the key to large-scale expansion of the field.

Latest of the reversals was abandonment of Shell Oil company's Frost Lumber F-2, section 12-22-1W. The test was about three-quarters of a mile northeast of Shell's Frost A-37, completed approximately eight weeks ago for a two-mile extension of production.

The failure was Shell's second in the same area. Three weeks ago the company plugged the Frost F-1, also in section 12, about a quarter mile southwest of the F-2.

Meanwhile, C. M. Bagley and Jerry Cararas has suspended all work at their outpost Auger No. 1, section 36-22-1W, about three-quarters of a mile above the Shell abandonment. During the past several weeks, the operators tested the well on a pump, but recovered an preponderant quantity of salt water with only a slight trace of oil.

In Ora field proper, Union parish operators last week brought in a total of six new producers.

In section 34-22-1W, Shell completed the M. S. Futch No. 3 and No. 4 for an output of 185 and 159 barrels a day respectively. In section 9-21-1W, Sam Sklar completed the Dykes No. 11, 97 barrels a day, and the Dykes No. 13, 103 barrels. Carbons Consolidated brought in the Anderson Johnson No. 5, 35-22-1W, with a potential output of 174 barrels a day. In section 27-22-1W, C. H. Murphy's Clyde No. 7 was gauged at 81 barrels a day.

A mile and a half west of production in the Ora southwest extension, Martin and Northsworth of Jackson, Miss., have staked location for a Nacatoch test, on a 20-acre farm-out from Shell on a Frost Lumber lease in the northwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 33-22-1W.

In the southeast section of the parish, Pan-American Production company is drilling below 8,240 feet at the Albritton No. 1, section 10-19-1E, still with no indication of any commercial findings. Contract depth is 8,500, but the operators are reported arranging to probe below that depth as far as the Smackover, around 9,500 feet.

Meanwhile, eight miles to the southeast, Pan-American is preparing to plug the Frost Lumber core hole No. 1, section 9-20-2E.

In Richland parish, two operators have staked locations for wildcat tests, Five miles southeast of Rayville, Glasscock Drilling company has applied for the Roy Burroughs No. 1, section 35-17-7E. Five miles southwest of Rayville, Union Producing company will drill the N. J. McConnell No. 1, section 32-17-7E.

NEW DEVICES AID IN HUNT FOR OIL

'Cat's Whiskers' Tell Shape Of Hole; 'Back Scratcher' Frees Mud

TULSA, Okla., May 22.—(AP)—Among hundreds of new things to get more oil and faster, shown at the International Petroleum Expedition, are the Cat's Whiskers, the Back Scratcher and a dust gun that drives dust through inches of steel or rocks.

The Cat's Whiskers, or hole calipers, are electrical feelers, that tell the shape of an oil well hole. They are long, slender, steel rods, that lie along the sides of a steel barrel that is lowered down to the bottom of a well, like a plumb bob on a line.

At the bottom the steel whiskers are released and raise themselves, to stick out much like whiskers, until they touch the sides of the well. Electrical connections register on a chart at the well-top, how far the arms extend. They are pulled up to measure the hollows along the well walls to the top.

Until this machine was invented oil men had a completely wrong idea of the shape of an oil hole. They thought that where the formation was hard, the drill would make a straight, narrow hole, and a wider, dome-shaped hole in soft formation. Precisely the reverse is the fact.

The back-Scratcher is a ring of rollers with two-inch ends of wire sticking out all over like thorns. They are lowered to the bottom of a well to roll around the back, that is, outside of the oil well pipe. The wires scratch this back free of mud. This bottom pipe has to be cemented in place, by pouring concreate down the hole. If there is too much mud on the outside of the pipes, the concrete does not stick.

The dust gun is shaped like a conial paper drinking cup, and not as large. It shoots out of the wide end. Its ammunition is a thin sheet of metal shaped like the cup, that lines the inside. This cup is filled with explosive.

Firing it makes a jet. In the jet goes the metal liner, reduced to dust, but travelling five miles a second. Glass and sand do just about as well as metal, as gun dusts. The penetration is due to the speed of the dust. This gun, shown by the Byron Jackson Company, of Los Angeles, is used to shoot holes through the steel pipe into the oil sands surrounding.

Much the same as floating concrete ships, the Knox Industries, Inc., of Enid, Okla., are making concrete pipes to "float" in oil wells. The concrete does not float completely, but the water in the well supports so much of the weight that the concrete is strong enough to replace steel. These pipes are used for the first half-mile down, to keep underground water from flowing into an oil well.

Zion War Stalls Arab Oil Output

Major U. S., British Companies Blocked In Plans To Develop Fabulous Fields Near Persian Gulf; Haifa Refinery Shut

NEW YORK, May 22.—(AP)—Arab-Jewish fighting in the Palestine area is jeopardizing Middle East oil production and threatening postwar economic recovery in various parts of the world, particularly Europe.

The situation today as reported to oil experts in New York, is this:

1. The international refinery at Haifa (Palestine) has been shut down for the past five weeks.

2. The Palestine turmoil is retarding efforts of the big oil companies to develop the fabulous Middle East oil fields near the Persian gulf.

This means, experts say, a slowing up of the European recovery plan and world recovery generally.

While the pipe line from the big oil field in Iraq to Haifa still is working, it is a matter of conjecture as to how long the operation can continue.

Currently, the "put through" via this pipe line is 45,000 barrels per day. Another branch of the line runs northward from Iraq to Tripoli and also sends through about 45,000 barrels daily for shipment.

The over-all oil picture, the bad feature of the Palestine crisis, is the adverse effect on the development of the great Middle East oil field in the Persian gulf area.

Located roughly 1000 miles from the southeastern end of the Mediterranean lies these Middle East oil fields with reserves of 26.6 billions of barrels, representing 37.4 per cent of the total known world reserves.

These fields are in the Bahrein Island, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Iraq, Iran and Qatar and are the greatest concentration of known petroleum resources.

The Pan Islamic nations own this oil. They want their oil resources developed, largely by American companies—so that their countries may make progress similar to that made by the United States in its formative years.

The world is in crying need of oil, for this is the "oil age" and will continue to be until atomic energy is harnessed to peacetime activities.

Any situation, such as that in Palestine, which handicaps the Western world from getting access to Middle East oil naturally delays development of the Pan Islamic nations. It also adversely affects European recovery, because the Middle East oil is primarily destined for Europe.

Only a comparatively moderate supply of Middle East oil is destined for consumption in the United States.

This oil is intended for the most part to supply Europe, North Africa and Southeastern Asia, including China and Australia.

If this could be accomplished on a big scale, less American oil would have to be shipped from the United States to Europe, thereby relieving any shortages that might develop in this country.

South American oil, now going to Europe from Venezuela and Colombia, could be diverted to augment the needs of the Western Hemisphere.

In fact, the whole world oil picture would brighten.

If peace could be brought about in the Palestine battleground, European postwar recovery plans could be stepped up. The ambitious plan to put through a big pipe line into the Persian Gulf area would be accelerated.

The Trans-Arabian Pipe Company has a 1200-mile pipe line under construction from the Persian Gulf to the ancient port of Sidon, in Lebanon. (This is an American company composed of various companies interested in the production of Arabian oil.)

Bert E. Hull of Texas, who built the famous "big inch" pipelines from Texas to New York during the war, is building this huge pipe line.

However, at the rate things are going now—what with the steel shortage in the U. S., the trouble in Palestine and other factors—the pipe line to Sidon will not be completed until late in 1949, at which time the refineries under construction in Europe to receive Middle East oil will have been built.

Under the Marshall plan, Europe is to be supplied with oil considerably in excess of the amount Europe used in 1939—just before the war.

Refineries are now being built in Holland, France and Italy, and additional facilities are being provided in Sweden.

The true significance of Middle East oil can best be evaluated by a few simple comparisons

Proved reserve Middle East, 26.6 billion bbls.; United States 21 billion bbls.

Number of producing wells: Middle East, 195; United States 425,650.

Reserves per well: Middle East, 133 million bbls.; United States, 51,500 bbls.

The major part of Middle East oil territory remains unexplored and geological indications point to vastly increased reserves in what may prove to be the world's richest petroleum fields.

Crude oil production currently approximates 700,000 barrels daily. But this is obviously no criterion of the potential output, or the actual production that will begin as soon as transportation facilities have been completed.

American interests, according to Starkweather & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, at present own rights to approximately 30 per cent of Middle east reserves.

The big oil men, looking to the future, have one big hope, It's thus: "Let's have peace in Palestine. Let's go ahead with world economic recovery."

Oil And Gas Industry Faces Heavy Tax Load

Administration Fund-Raising Proposals Will More Than Double Present Revenues Derived From State's Mineral Resources

Louisiana's oil and gas industry, already the heaviest single contributor to the state's coffers, will be assigned an even larger share of the financial load under the administration's proposed revenue-raising program.

Of an estimated $75,000,000 additional funds sought by Governor Long and the legislature, more than $50,000,000, according to present plans, will be derived from increased levies on oil and gas and upon gasoline.

Three measures which already have been accorded house support will account for this figure. These are bills which nearly triple severance taxes, quadruple the "gathering" tax on natural gas and raise the gasoline excise by two cents per gallon.

All of this is in addition to approximately $12,000,000 a year currently derived from leases, rentals and bonuses on state-owned mineral areas, particularly off-shore areas in the Gulf of Mexico.

The old and gas industry now pays taxes of about $20,000,000 a year. The new proposals would increase that amount by at least two and a half times.

The present half-cent "gas-gathering" tax last year yielded revenue of about $2,000,000. The proposed new rate of two cents per thousand cubic feet would raise that sum to about $8,000,000 annually.

Increasing the range of the oil severance tax to 18 and 30 cents, compared with the present level of six to 11 cents, is expected to yield an extra $30,000,000. Of this, $6,000,000 would be distributed among the parishes, and the remainder would be kept by the state in the public school fund. Most of it would be used for teachers' salaries.

However, if this $24,000,000 is dedicated to the school fund, a separate $10,000,000 previously appropriated will probably be lopped off. The net increase to the schools, therefore, would be $14,000,000, about $3,000,000 under the $17,000,000 deficit figure reported by the Louisiana School Boards Association in March.

The severance tax increase has been endorsed by the United School Committee, a legislative steering group of all educational organizations in the state. Previously, that body indicated a preference for dedication to the schools of tidelands revenues which, through a legal complication, are now lying idle. These funds were originally assigned for retirement of the state debt. However, since all debts must be secured by specific tax sources, the tidelands money cannot be used for that purpose.

The gasoline tax has encountered the vigorous opposition of Louisiana service station operators, who will close throughout the state tomorrow as a protest against the measure. Expected to raise approximately $7,500,000, the levy would increase the gasoline tax total to 10 1/2 cents a gallon, and the filling-pump price to 30.5 cents for regular grades and 32.5 cents for ethyl.

Louisiana gasoline taxes are already among the highest in the nation. Only three other states, Tennessee, Florida and Kentucky match the seven-cent levy, while a number of states range as low as two and three cents a gallon.

Not yet introduced, but frequently spoken of as a possible administration measure is a two-cents per barrel refining tax—a revival of the measure which once embroiled Huey Long.

Huey set the tax at five cents and later cut it to one by executive order. It was repealed during the administration of former Governor Sam Jones after Cities Service stipulated removal as a condition to constructing its refinery at Lake Charles.

Another bill reported in the offing is one that would restrict the size of unitization areas to 160 acres, instead of the present 640. Sponsors feel this would step up activity and encourage more drilling.

Tidelands Operations Hitting Rapid Stride; 50 Rigs By Fall Seen

GRAND ISLE, La., May 22.—(AP)—Gulf coast tidelands oil operations are beginning to assume massive proportions.

Expensive drilling platforms now dot the horizon along the Louisiana coast and indications are that by fall there may be 50 or more rigs in operation.

Oil companies, despite the prolonged controversy over federal or state ownership of the submerged lands, are making rapid strides toward producing oil from open, unprotected waters of the gulf.

The latest developments include:

The first commercial oil producer in deepwater, Kerr-McGee's discovery well 10.5 miles off Terrebonne parish on May 4 began flowing regularly at rates as high as 600 barrels daily. The well is in water 17 feet deep.

Magnolia Petroleum on May 13 said its well eight miles off Coon Point showed 1,027,000 cubic feet of gas daily, with a trace of distillate, when tests were made the perforations at 7,268 feet. Other tests now are in progress.

Humble Oil and Refining Company on May 18 announced that its first tidelands project, 7.5 miles on Grand Island, topped salt at 7,607 feet and found an oil sand at 7,094-7,104 feet. The company also said five rigs will be in operation off the Louisiana coast by fall.

A second Kerr-McGee project on May 14 had reached a depth of 12,600 feet and had encountered several minor oil and gas showings.

Texas-Louisiana oil explorations on coastal land have centered around salt deposits in many areas and companies leading current tidelands explorations hope to find a similar number of salt domes in the ocean bed immediately adjoining the two states.

Five such tidelands salt domes have been confirmed to date.

J. Ben Carsey, assistant chief geologist for Humble, last week said recent geophysical information indicates the continental shelf adjacent to Louisiana may not have as many domes as the adjoining land area.

He reported, however, that the survey indicates there are 19 "topographic features" or hills on the ocean bed within 3.5 miles of the Louisiana coastline, 51 within 10.5 miles and 245 within 31.4 miles.

Carsey said any attempt to estimate the ultimate production from the continental shelf by applying the known production of adjacent land areas would be to assume that a similar number of structures would be found in the gulf.

By such an assumption, he said, the continental shelf along Texas and Louisiana might be expected to hold 4 to 5 billion barrels of oil within the 31.4 mile zone, 600 million barrels within the 10 mile zone, and 300 million barrels within the 3.5 mile zone.

DISTRICT QUOTAS HIKED 1,593 BBLS.

All Except Three Areas Show Gains; State Figure Set At 525,855 Barrels

Expanded production in all except three areas has raised the June Monroe district oil allowable by 1,593 barrels a day—more than one-third the entire state-wide increase.

Total allowable for the district during the coming month has been set by Conservation Commissioner S. L. Digby at 86,882 barrels a day, compared with 85,289 in May. The new figure represents the biggest gain of any of the state's six districts.

Greatest increase is in Union parish's Ora field, up 673 barrels to a new high of 11,343. Next largest boosts are in the Tullos-Urania sector, up 300 barrels to 2,200; Delhi, up 264 barrels to 23,203; and Lake St. John, up 227 to 21,761.

Only areas to show decreases are Holly Ridge, down one barrel to 2,983; Big Creek, down six barrels to 5,234; and South Big Creek, down 35 to 561.

Despite several setbacks, notably the abandonment of Bryant and Caraway's Merritt No. 1 several weeks ago, the Franklin parish South Delhi area managed to move ahead by 172 barrels a day, an increase which pushes the field above the 1,000 mark for the first time since it was opened early this year.

A significant addition to the production schedule is the Oakland area in Union parish, where Holloway and Yochum of Arkansas are reworking two of three wells they purchased on the Clark and Hudson leases in section 7-23-1E. The operators have been permitted a daily output of 13 barrels.

The new district schedules are:

	June	May
Ora	11,343	10,723
South Delhi	1,044	872
Delhi, W. Delhi	23,203	22,939
Holly Ridge	2,983	2,984
Lake St. John	21,761	21,534
LaSalle	18,540	18,501
Big Creek	5,234	5,240
South Big Creek	561	596
Tullos-Urania	2,200	1,900
Oakland	13
	86,882	85,289

The increase for all north Louisiana fields is 2,038 barrels a day, or a total allowable of 131,812 barrels daily in June compared with 129,774 barrels in May. The rise was nearly four times the gain between April and May.

The state-wide figure set a new record for the 26th consecutive month and pushed production more than 25,000 barrels over the half-million point. The June allowable was fixed at 525,855 barrels a day, as against 521,317 during May—an increase of 4,538. The rate of increase, however, is 24 barrels under that between April and May.

In South Louisiana, the Lake Charles district shows the largest gain—up 1,015 barrels a day. Houma and New Orleans also reflect increases, but the Lafayette area is off by 101 barrels.

The state allowables by districts are:

North Louisiana:

	June	May
Monroe	86,882	85,289
Shreveport	44,930	44,485
	131,812	129,774

South Louisiana:

Lafayette	135,225	135,326
New Orleans	111,467	111,233
Lake Charles	69,925	68,310
Houma	77,426	76,074
	394,043	391,543

Looking Ahead In Washington

BRITISH CABINET

(By World Staff Of The Associated Press)

LONDON—Britain's labor cabinet is facing one of its most delicate dilemmas. The question involves whether to hang murderers.

The House of Lords is expected to turn down a House of Commons decision to suspend the death penalty for five years as an experiment.

The cabinet was split on the issue, with a majority in favor of keeping the death penalty. But after the elected Commons narrowly decided to do away with the rope, the cabinet took the stand that its decision should not be overturned by the hereditary Lords.

Now if the Lords votes to keep the death penalty the cabinet will be on the spot. It could accept the Lords' decision, thus snubbing its own supporters in Commons—or it could ask Commons to over-ride a House of Lords decision which a majority of cabinet members would actually approve.

NEW OIL SIGNS

WASHINGTON — Government oil experts are vastly more excited about the discovery of indications of "salt domes" in the Gulf of Mexico than coolly-worded press releases indicate. They are particularly worked up over the area extending 75 miles seaward between Sabine Pass, Tex., and Grand Cheniere, La.

Salt domes are geologic formations that sometimes contain oil.

Max W. Ball, director of the Interior department's oil and gas division, is unwilling to discuss the find himself but says the head of one of the most successful geophysical oil exploring companies told him:

"Seismic 'shooting' (to locate oil prospects) off the coast of Louisiana and Texas is a geophysicst's paradise."

DELAY ON AG SECRETARY?

WASHINGTON—President Truman may wait until after his trip to the to the far west to decide on a new secretary of agriculture.

The trip, with its many planned stops in the midwest and far west, would give him opportunity to discuss the matter with local party as well as farm leaders.

Democratic leaders say the president is anxious to find a man who would add strength to his campaign for re-election.

CONGRESS CURTAIN

WASHINGTON—GOP leaders will wait until June 1 to decide whether to try to wind up Congress June 18.

By that time they think they will be able to tell whether they can get the most important bills through before the party conventions.

UN'S HOT POTATO

LAKE SUCCESS—Israel may be the hot potato of security council debates on new United Nations memberships this summer, but the smaller powers—not Russia or the U. S.—can be expected to provide the heat.

The U. S. and the Soviet have already tried to outdo each other in recognizing the new state. But aside from the five major powers the council is made up of Arabic Syria, the Ykraine, Colombia, Argentina, Canada and Belgium.

Syria is certain to vote no, and a four-way combination of negatives and absentions among the other powers could keep Israel out.

OTTAWA—A cabinet informant indicates Canada probably will recognize the new Jewish state after consulting with Britain.

PARIS—Look for France to stall on recognition of Israel because of the tens of millions of Arabs in North Africa and her other colonies.

OLEO

WASHINGTON—If the fight against repeal of oleomargarine taxes is lost in Congress, insiders look for the anti-oleo people to start pressuring state legislatures to preserve state oleo taxes.

OTTAWA—The Canadian Senate will launch a committee investigation at the next session of parliament on whether to establish a margarine industry and whether to legalize importing of margarine.

POLITICAL CALENDAR

MONDAY—North Carolina Republicans choose 11 national convention delegates in state convention.

TUESDAY—Texas conventions pick 33 Republican delegates and 50-vote Democratic delegation. Florida holds run-off primary for governor.

THURSDAY—Illinois Democrats name eight-vote at-large delegation to complete the 60-vote delegation to the national convention.

SATURDAY—Kansas Democrats choose 16-vote delegation. North Carolina Democratic primary to select candidates for U. S. Senate and House, governor and full state ticket. (Republicans named their ticket in North Carolina in a March state convention).

There are five great ocean currents flowing from warm to cold latitudes and affecting the climate of adjacent lands: the Gulf Stream, starting in the Gulf of Mexico, the Japan Current starting in the Western Pacific, the Agulhas Current flowing south along the east coast of Africa, the East Australia Current near Australia and the Brazil Current.

Estimates of the lowering of world ocean levels during the ice ages vary from 300 to 2,300 feet.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

"Soul and Body" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, May 23, 1948.

The Golden Text is: "What agreement hath the temple of God with idols? for ye are the temple of the living God" (II Cor. 6:16).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And I heard a great voice out of heaven saying, Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God" (Rev. 21:3).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Man is the expression of Soul" (p. 477).

Listen in on a 15-minute radio broadcast Sunday at 9:30 a. m. over radio station KNOE.

We often find the failures of human beings leading directly to some wrong emphasis in life. To exalt ourselves or anything of a material brand, leaves us open to grave mistakes and failures. To exalt Christ and all that He has given the world, is man's first duty and privilege and brings peace and satisfaction to our lives. O[ur] theme Sunday morning will be: "T[he] Exaltation of Christ." Sunday nig[ht] the theme will be: "Supernatu[ral] Power for Living." No one must li[ve] a shallow unmeaning life. We inv[ite] all people to worship with us.

Providence is fact, and being fact behooves us to think seriously abo[ut] what Providence reveals. For mont[hs] we have been thinking and talki[ng] about a building program. Now t[he] plans are assuming shape, and if t[he] plans are to be executed it is o[ur] privilege and obligation to provi[de] the means with which to build. "Mu[ch] from Some and Some from All" the financial program, a plan that w[ill] win.

"The Prophet Speaks" is the subj[ect] of the morning message. The peop[le] of Haggai's day were faced by t[he] imperative of building a place of wo[r]ship. Difficulties were in the way. T[he] prophet, God's spokesman, spoke the people. They heard and heede[d] It meant the erection of a buildi[ng] which brought them joy, honored G[od] and resulted in spirituality.

"The Mastery of Fear" is the them[e] of the evening sermon.

A tea will be given for the grad[u]ates of this year's class, who are mem[-]bers of the Church. The hour is six the evening.

A cordial welcome awaits you at [the] hours of worship.

SACRED MUSIC WILL BE GIVE[N]

The adult choir of the First Ba[p]tist Church, Monroe, will give a sp[e]cial musical program in the main a[u]ditorium at the regular worship ho[ur] this evening at 7:45 o'clock. Gues[t] on the program are Miss Gertru[de] Sandrock, voice instructor, Northea[st] Junior College, who will sing, "Co[n]sider the Lilies," by John Prind[le] Scott, and E. L. Hoskins, who w[ill] play several sacred numbers on [the] hand-saw and violin.

The program is as follows:

Organ and piano prelude, "Pastor[al] Symphony," Mrs. B. D. Allbritt[on] and Alta C. Faircloth.

"Come and Worship the Lord" (Schoebel), the choir.

AVERAGE COTTON PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, May 22.—(AP)—The average price of middling 15/16 inch cotton today at ten designated southern spot markets was 20 cents a bale lower at 37.96 cents a pound; average for the past thirty market days 37.71; middling 7/8 inch average 35.23.

New York

NEW YORK, May 22.—(AP)—Trading in cotton futures today was the slowest for a Saturday in more than a month. Following a steady opening, prices drifted lower under week-end realizing. The dearth in dealings was generally attributed by traders to increased belief that export buying by ECA for foreign needs would be slow to keep prices from getting out of line.

Futures closed 15 to 40 cents a bale lower than the previous close.

SCHOOL BOARD FACES LAWSUIT

Catahoula Teacher Alleges Illegal Dismissal Last September

JONESVILLE, La., May 22.—(Special)—Dennis Furr, former instructor at the Boggy Bayou Elementary School, has filed suit against the Catahoula parish school board, asking $2,250 as back pay he claims the board owes him because he alleges he was dismissed last September without proper authority.

Furr also asks five per cent interest on the $2,250 from October 1, 1947, until time of settlement, and payment of costs of court. In addition, he demands reemployment in the Catahoula parish school system.

A. B. Parker is attorney for the suit as a member of the Parker and Parker law firm of Jena. The case will be decided in seventh judicial district court at Harrisonburg. Fifteen days are allowed the school board to answer the suit.

Furr, who graduated from the teachers college at Louisiana State University in 1927, claims he is duly qualified and protected by the Louisiana teacher tenure law.

Under the law, as Furr pointed out, the school board must afford an employe a trial and declare him unqualified before he can be dismissed.

The whole thing started back in July, 1947, when a delegation of parents from the Boggy Bayou area appeared at a meeting of the parish school board and asked that Furr be replaced or they would refuse to send their children to school. They declared Furr an incompetent teacher who was not popular in the community and did not explain subjects sufficiently to pupils.

In September, the school board adopted the state's recommendation for allocation of teachers, based on average daily attendance. The Boggy Bayou school, with an average of less than 31 pupils per day, was allotted only one teacher and Mrs. Dennis Furr, who has been principal, was retained and her husband dismissed.

However, shortly after the 1947-48 term opened, enrollment at Boggy Bayou jumped to over 50 pupils and the school board was forced to overlook the state recommendation and employ another teacher as an emergency measure. Henry Doughty was named assistant to Mrs. Furr.

The plaintiff claims he should have been given the job back. He said he was willing to take a job anywhere in the parish school system where his qualifications were sufficient.

Furr first was employed as an instructor in Catahoula at Manifest in 1935. From 1935 to 1937, he was principal of Larto Elementary School. In 1937, he went to Boggy Bayou school and taught three years. Leaving the parish school system a while, he returned in January, 1944, to the Boggy Bayou position where he assisted Mrs. Furr until his dismissal in September, 1947.

Basis for Furr's $2,250 claim is the ten months of salary at $225 which he claimed he would have earned if the school board had provided employment.

For Want of a Gas Cap
Yes, it was only a missing gas cap. Nothing important. But some dirt got into the gas line. The tractor stalled—and a whole day was lost before the line was cleared. You can avoid such costly delays if you keep an emergency supply of parts on hand. An extra fan belt, spark plug or set of points may turn out to be worth dozens of times what it cost in work saved. See us next time you're in town for necessary Ford parts.

MILLSAPS BAND IN REHEARSAL

Group Surprised By News-Star ---World Photographer Last Week

The members of the Millsaps school band were surprised Monday afternoon, May 17, by having the News-Star photographer come in and take their picture as they sat with tousled heads and bare feet during their regular weekly rehearsal.

These typical American boys and four girls are doing outstanding work under their capable and enthusiastic director, Mr. T. H. McCrea, in spite of the fact that they have only one-half day each week for this work.

Millsaps P.-T. A. was well entertained by the first public appearance of these young musicians, Thursday, May 13. There were many expressions of surprise and appreciation of the progress made by these pupils.

Mr. Roberts and Mr. McCrea urge more parents to plan to make it possible for their children to play in the band next year.

It has been suggested that the Millsaps P.-T. A. take the band as one of its objectives for the ensuing year.

Beavers use their tails to slap out signals on the water surface and to steer themselves while swimming.

Boyle's Notebook

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK, May 22.—(AP)—The most forlorn spectacle of the last century and a half has been the steady defeathering of the human male.

As women pile on more clothes to get the new look, men have less and less to wear. And the way it's going now in America the hefty half of the species will end up looking like a stand-in for Tarzan.

This is only partly because the chivalrous budget of today has as its ruling motto "Women and Children first." Behind it also is the steady growth of an iron femininity which remorselessly requires the defrosting of male vanity. A family can afford only one peacock — and today it's mama.

She gilds the lily. Papa's function is to dig up the gilt.

Man used to be the fashion plate. Now he doesn't even get enough to wear to be a stylish saucer.

Gone are the magnificent furbelows worn by the swaggering, sword-swinging dandy of old—the sweeping crimson and sable cloak, the high-topped hat crowned with a rampant feather, the puffed lace at the throat, the splendid powdered wig, the billowy handkerchief in the sleeve, the velvet britches, the varnished boots for riding, the silver buckled shoes for dancing.

The only buckle remaining to modern man is on his belt—so he can draw it tighter as he foots the bill for his lady of glamor.

Yessir, boys, the old scarlet pimpernel is down to his last petal. Man, in the days of his glory, dressed in every color of his prism. Today he feels lucky if he can afford to be a one-color rainbow.

His finery is going fast; when I was a boy, you could buy a suit and the man would throw in an extra pair of pants, a straw hat and a ticket to the movie or a ball game. If you brought the kids along, they got a free balloon.

Dear dead past! I bought me a post-war suit the other day. Times and money change, so I wasn't naive enough to think I'd still get the extra pants. But I was surprised to find I'd been short-changed a vest.

"You don't want a vest," said the salesman. "Nobody wears vests anymore."

"I wear a vest," I insisted. "My father wore a vest, and my grandfather wore a vest. It's kind of a tradition in our family."

"For $12.50 additional you can have a vest," he said.

I bought the vest and gave up the idea of buying a hat. That's why many men are giving up wearing hats. Even bald-headed men who have to run the risk of sunstroke.

Piece by piece, year by year, man's clothing is vanishing. Some items have disappeared altogether. The vest, the hat and the garter are going—in my lifetime. The cuff went away temporarily during the war. The next time it may never come back.

Soon no man will complain that Sam made the pants too long. The question is whether pants will continue being made at all. And we'll probably lose our shirts, too. Socks also. But the last thing to go will be the necktie. Women like men to wear neckties. It gives them a haltered look.

It won't take the man of the future long to dress for a formal evening out. He'll jump into his sandals, whip on a loin cloth, run a lawnmower across his chest to remove 5 o'clock shadow, slap on a black bowtie—and be ready.

Mama will take longer.

NOT THE CIRCUS, BUT THE COMPETITION SIZE

HOLLYWOOD, May 22.—(AP)—Shirley Temple has nothing against the circus, understand, but her attorney, Grant Cooper, says it's like this:

The Rogers Brothers Circus should "cease and desist from using advertising posters with her name, and we have asked them to."

Cooper said the posters infringe upon Shirley's name, constitute unfair competition and give the impression she is appearing with the show.

The circus' Shirley Temple, said the attorney, is an elephant.

PLAN MEMORIAL SERVICE HERE

Loch Arbor Church Will Have Special Exercises On May 30

Rev. Maynard R. Rogers, pastor, Locharbor Baptist Church announces Memorial Day services to be held Sunday, May 30. Following the Sunday School, 10:00 a . m., and morning worship service, 11:00 a. m., a basket dinner will be served on the church lawn promptly at 12:30.

Memorial services will begin at 2:30 p. m. to which all friends and neighbors of Locharbor Baptist Church and Cemetery are cordially invited. An important phase of the service will be the business meeting called by Rev. Rogers with a view to organizing a Locharbor Cemetery association. Discussion of plans for the future care and maintenance of the cemetery will be another feature. Locharbor Baptist Church is located about 3 miles north of Swartz on the old Bastrop-Monroe highway, now Highway Number 14.

The former pastor, Rev. Winston R. Rogers, brother to present pastor, now pastor of Cherry Ridge Baptist Church, Bastrop, and Rev. C. Roger Johnson, pastor of Central Baptist Church, Monroe, are expected to take part on the program.

Pitted cooked prunes may be cut in slices and added to sweetened whipped cream, then chilled, for a quickly-made dessert.

J. C. GRESHAM IN CHARGE JUNE 1

New L. T. I. Head Has Had 14 Years' Teaching Experience

J. C. Gresham, principal of the Rayville Elementary School, will on June 1 assume the superintendency of the Louisiana Training Institute, having received his appointment from Governor Earl Long on Friday.

Mr. Gresham, native of Bernice, Union parish, received his early education in schools in his native town and upon graduating from Bernice High School he attended Louisiana Tech where he was graduated with the class of 1934.

His first work as teacher was in Union parish and later he taught in a school in Camden, Ark. In 1937 he was named principal of the Rayville Grammar School and has held that position steadily ever since.

He is a member of the Rayville Baptist Church, and of the Masonic Lodge.

His family comprises his wife and one son, J. C. Gresham, Jr., who is a mail carrier in Rayville.

Mr. Gresham states that he has always been interested in boys and in their future and he states he intends to endeavor to perform a constructive work when in charge at the local institute.

25TH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph White held open house at their home, 210 Ludwig Avenue, West Monroe, last Wednesday, and a large number of their friends called during the evening to celebrate with them their 25th wedding anniversary. Shown above are the celebrants, together with their daughters, Glennadora, left, and Mildred and Jackie, right. Another daughter, Mrs. William Redmond of Pittsburgh, Pa., was unable to be present for the occasion.

REV. MITCHELL'S CHURCH 8 YRS. OLD

Ridge Avenue Baptist Church West Monroe will commemorate the eight anniversary of Rev. A. T. Mitchell and Ridge Avenue Church, Sunday at 10:45 a.m.

Great progress has been made the eight years of this church under the leadership of Rev. A. T. Mitchell who has been the only pastor since the church was organized.

From a small tabernacle to seat hundred people the entire church property is now valued at $60,000.00 and is one of the most beautiful and modern churches in the section.

Plans are being made for a larger and more adequate educational building to fit the needs of this fast-growing section of our city. All offerings anniversary day will go into the building fund for this purpose.

Miss Minnie Barr Boughton, lower left, daughter of Mrs. Minnie Boughton, of this city, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Mr. John B. Robinson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Robinson, Sr., of Girard, La., is announced today.

Mrs. Herbert L. Breed, of Piedmont, Calif., lower center, charming visitor in the city, who is being extensively entertained. She is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Robert Dumm.

Mrs. Gladys Broadway Sperry, lower right, newly elected regent of Fort Miro chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

WEDDING IN BATON ROUGE IS ATTENDED BY MANY FRIENDS OF THE GROOM FROM THIS CITY

Miss Carol Lee Cosselman's blonde loveliness was enhanced by a beautiful blush pink satin wedding gown when she walked to the alter of St. James Episcopal church, Baton Rouge, to become the bride of Mr. George Wesley Mouk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Mouk of Monroe.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Cosselman of Baton Rouge, was given in marriage by her father. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Philip Werlein.

Picturesque beauty was lent to the wedding by the soft pastel shades featured in the gowns of the bride's attendants, as well as by the exquisite white lilies and gladioli that formed a bridal setting for the event.

The young couple were honored with a reception at the Woman's clubhouse prior to leaving for a wedding trip to the Gulf Coast. They will return to make their home in Baton Rouge. Beauty of detail marked the bride's wedding gown, the dress featured a soft yoke of imported rosepoint lace outlined with seed pearls. Covered buttons were used down the front of the fitted long bodice, and the sleeves ended in points over the wrists. She wore with her finger-tip veil a caplet of rosepoint lace edged with lily of the valley and seed pearls.

For something old, the bride wore a 75-year-old gold wedding ring fastened on a delicate chain, the ring belonged to the groom's grandmother, Mrs. S. O. Perry of Perryville.

She also wore pearl earrings that were a gift from the groom. Her bouquet was a white orchid on a fan-shaped arrangement of lily of the valley with a cascade of stephanotis.

Mrs. Herman Moulard, was the matron preceding the bride of the altar. Wearing a dress of pale green net, she followed the bridesmaids, Miss Madeleine Pilgreen and Miss Neva Dugue of New Orleans, and the junior bridesmaid, Miss Patti Murphy.

Miss Pilgreen and Miss Dugue were in gowns of orchid net, while Miss Murphy was wearing pale pink net. Their dresses, as well as that of the matron of honor, were fashioned in off-shoulder effect with deep scallops of the net. Dark ribbon belts in shades matching the respective dresses accented the ankle-length skirts. Each of the young women wore long fingerless mitts of net, and they wore scalloped half hats made in poke bonnet effect.

Mrs. Moulard carried a bouquet of lavender gladioli in crescent shape. The bridesmaids had deep orchid gladioli, and Miss Murphy's bouquet was of rose pink gradioli.

Mr. Charles E. McKenzie, Jr., of Monroe served the groom as best man. Ushers were Mr. Wallace Hunter, Mr. Bob C. Wilson of Monroe, Mr. Gordon Surgine of Monroe, and Mr. Lee Herron of Monroe.

Mrs. J. O. Perry was organist for the wedding. Miss Helen Werlein, soloist, sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Green foliage banking the stained glass windows of St. James church formed an interesting background for the ceremony. In front of the altar rail, white gladioli and palms were arranged.

At the Clubhouse

The Woman's clubhouse on East Blvd. was the setting for the bridal reception following the wedding. Highlight of the interesting decor was the bride's table, a circular affair covered with a white net cloth mad with deep flounce to the floor. The three-tiered square wedding cake was surmounted with gardenias.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Cosselman, was wearing pale peach marquisette with graceful full skirt and stole of matching material making a deep V in the front. Her corsage was blue iris with blue cornflowers, Mrs. Mouk, mother of the groom wore a white dinner dress. She wore an original hat of white, and a rose corsage.

The groom's aunt, Mrs. Rupert Perry of Monroe, cut the wedding cake assisted by Mrs. Jim Austin, Mrs. Tom Murphy and Mrs. C. E. McKenzie presided at the punch table, while Mrs. Earl Elliott was at another table.

Guests were welcomed at the door by a group that included Mrs. Zach Taylor, Mrs. L. H. Strickland, Mrs. James Ramsey, and Mrs. Marcel Voorhies, Jr., Mrs. Basil Dodwell and Mrs. L. S. Bridges assisted at the punch tables, and tea girls were Mrs. Charles Atchley, Miss Virginia Werlein, Miss Ann Humphries, Miss Vereker Mais, Mrs. Walter Price, Miss Kathryn Nichols, Mrs. Joe Saunders, Mrs. Hollis Venable of Monroe, and Mrs. Wallace Hunter.

Mrs. Max Schenker presided at the guest register.

Following the reception the couple left for the Gulf coast. For traveling the bride donned a cocoa brown silk dress with a deep neckline and cumberbund of green silk. The full skirt and fitted jacket were of cocoa brown. She wore a green milan straw hat and green kid shoes with matching bag.

The bride and groom both attended the L. S. U., where she was a member of Chi Omega sorority and he was affiliated with Kappa Sigma fraternity.

Mrs. Carey Holmes Reads Excellent Paper On 'Roses'

Valuable information on the successful cultivation of roses was contained in the paper prepared by Mrs. Carey Holmes for members of the Welcome Garden Club in the home of Mrs. W. C. Feazel where the last meeting of the season was held.

Mrs. Holmes said:

"Roses are so closely associated with the painting, literature, music and even the politics of the world that they almost seem to be part of life itself. The rose is the very symbol of beauty and loveliness. Since the dawn of history it has been admired, appreciated, and linked with all kinds of human activities. It would be difficult to find an individual who could not recognize a rose, the best known and most loved of all our cultivated plants, and truly the "queen of flowers." Its majestic form, gorgeous colorings, and delightful perfume are unsurpassed. Even the thorns command respect. It is the standard of perfection by which all other flowers are judged.

Few flowers have received so much attention by plant breeders and few have exhibited such potentialities for development. Contrary to widely held opinions, roses are not difficult to grow. Their presence around long-deserted houses is evidence of the fact.

Roses need at least eight hours of full sunlight per day. While any productive soil can be improved to grow good roses, the ideal type is slightly acid medium heavy loam containing an abundance of organic matter. Roses require good drainage. If water tends to stand around the plants, they should be moved to another location. Roses that grow vigorously are more satisfactory to the grower and are more likely to resist various plant pests than those that are stunted. Proper fertilization is necessary, especially in the south, if best results from roses are expected. The addition of well decomposed barn yard manure is very beneficial. It is a good practice to put some of this material in the holes at the time the bushes are set out as well as to apply it around them and work it into the soil. Manure is mainly a nitrogen fertilizer, and often most of the nitrogen has been leached out before it is applied, but it adds organic matter to the soil and is valuable in a number of ways. In addition to manure, the application of a complete commercial fertilizer will be of great value. Commercial fertilizer must be handled with care, for if excessive amounts are used, it will cause severe injury. The application of 1/4 to 1/2 pound of 4-8-4 start in the spring is recommended. This should be spread in a broad circle from one to two feet from the crown of the plant and worked into the soil. The addition of extra nitrogen during the growing period is usually beneficial. This may be applied in the form of nitrate of soda or sulphate of ammonia, at the rate of about 1/2 pound per bush just prior to the end of a period of blooming. Roses thrive best in soils that are somewhat acid so sulphate of ammonia is the better source of nitrogen on soil that tends to be alkaline. Keeping the surface of the soil stirred by very shallow hoeing is beneficial. Deep cultivation should not be practiced except possibly in the very early spring or late fall. Mulching is preferable because it reduces the amount of labor, helps to retain soil moisture, keeps the soil cool, and does not disturb the roots. Roses like plenty of water. They will make more growth and produce more flowers if thoroughly watered during dry periods.

Leaf spot troubles are very common in Louisiana. While there are really two of these troubles, they are usually classed together by the rose grower, and as the control measures are the same for both, they can readily be considered together. The one commonly called black-spot is the most serious of the leaf diseases. These troubles show in the form of dead spots on the leaves. The spots are usually black or brown and vary in size. As the spots develop, the leaves become light green and then yellowish. Often the leaves die and drop from the plant. Several things should be done in order to keep the plants free from leaf spots. They should be kept vigorous by proper fertilization and drainage and by spraying for rose insects. When the mildew of leaf spot first shows on the leaves, the plants should be dusted with a mixture of finely ground sulphur and dry arsenate of lead. This mixture should consist of nineteen parts sulphur and one part of arsenate of lead.

NO LAGGING footsteps when little feet are clad in those famous BUSTER BROWN summer shoes from the YORK SHOP. First of all, your child's foot is X-rayed and then fitted with the correct size. The faces of children are always wreathed in smiles when they leave the YORK SHOP with their new BUSTER BROWN shoes. Don't run the risk of your children's feet being ruined for life by incorrect shoes. . . . Insist on BUSTER BROWN shoes, especially for children.

MRS. KEITH G. SHUMWAY

Mrs. Shumway, bride of recent date, who will be remembered as Miss Bettie Sue White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. White, of Foules, La.

OUT-OF-TOWN WEDDINGS

The sacred and impressive ritual of the Methodist church was used in the uniting in marriage of Miss Mary Ellen Johnson, youngest daughter of Mayor and Mrs. James Lewis Johnson, and Harry Graham Schneider, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Davis Schneider.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. A. Collins, in the Lake Providence Methodist Church, Wednesday morning, May 19, at 10 a. m.

The church was decorated with baskets of pink and blue hyrangea and the chancel was entrained with ivy and nandina. Seven branched candelabra interspersed the floral setting of the altar.

Mrs. Herman Schwartz organist rendered a prenuptial concert. A vocal solo "Because" was rendered by Miss Vivian Goode, Lohengrin's wedding march marked the entrance of the bridal party, and Mendelsshon's march for the recessional. "Liebestraum" and "Evening Star" were played during the the exchange of vows.

The candles were lighted by Charles Otto Reed, who assisted O. Z. Goode, Jr., in the seating of the guests.

Mrs. E. D. Schneider, Jr., serving her sister as her only attendant, was gowned in beige crepe with matching elbow length gloves. The bodice was high necklined with a shallow V, and the front was yoked with an insert of lace. The full skirt had an overdrape which gathered at the sides and ended in self ties, with the fullness folded front and back into a V shape. Her crownless straw hat was wreathed in pink roses. She carried an arm boquet of pink carnations, double larkspur, and blue Marconi daisies tied with wide pink satin ribbons which fell in graduated lengths.

The bride walking with her father, wore a lovely model of blue with the bodice shirred in panels in front and back. The low rounded neckline was fronted with brilliant rhinestone clips. The full skirt fell in graceful folds.

Matching chiffon mits reached to the elbow. The pink, crownless straw hat, was trimmed with maline and rosebuds. She carried a colonial bouquet of white asters and stephanotis, centered with a purple and white orchid, with satin streamers showered with tube roses and fern.

Mr. Edward Davis Schneider, Jr., served his brother as best man. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride's table was overlaid with linen embroidered in roses and the central idea was the three tiered wedding cake, with festoons and roses of confection, topped with a miniature bride and groom. Corsages of sweetheart roses and Maiden Hair fern were sprayed among the mint trays and crystal candelabra holding white lighted tapers.

Mrs. W. F. Trieschmann presided at the cake service.

Miss Patsy Land, gowned in a navy sheer with pink, off-face floral hat, presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. A. B. Patrick, assisting in the dining room courtesies, wore a spring floral patterned crepe.

Mrs. Johnson, mother of the bride, wore green flowered in yellow and cerise, and her shoulder corsage was a yellow cymbidium.

Mrs. Schneider, mother of the groom, chose grey patterned in orchid, and her corsage was an orchid.

For the motor wedding trip to the Mississippi Gulf Coast the bride changed to a blue and brown checked seersucker with palomino accessories, and her corsage was of orchids.

Mrs. Schneider graduated from the Lake Providence High School, class of 1947 and attended Louisiana Polytechnic Institute at Ruston.

Mr. Schneider attended the Louisiana State University and Louisiana Polytechnic Institute School of Business Administration.

Mr. and Mrs. Schneider will make their home in their new home in the Schneider division on lake "Providence."

PUCKETT-BOOKER

Affectionate interest of friends in this area centers in the marriage of Miss Margaret May Booker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Frederick Booker of El Paso, Texas, and Mr. Fred Puckett, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Puckett, Sr., of East St. Louis, Mo.

The ceremony was performed in Little Rock, Ark., at 3 in the afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Richard M. Mann, the bride's paternal aunt.

The Rev. Marion A. Boggs, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church officiated in the presence of members of the family and intimate friends.

Vows were exchanged before the mantel in the living room, flanked by lighted silver branched candelabra, with pink roses in vases at vantage points.

The bride wore a lovely model of natural linen, banded in wide inserts of lace. She wore a shoulder corsage of gardenias.

For the motor wedding trip the bride changed to a black faille suit, with gardenia corsage.

This was the third wedding in the living room of the Booker home. The two aunts, Misses Margaret and May Booker, for whom the bride was named, were married in the same setting.

Mrs. Puckett is a graduate of the Lake Providence High School, class of 1942, and attended Texas State College for Women, at Denton, Texas, and later specialized in commercial art at the American Academy of art in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Puckett are to be temporarily located in Nashville, and later reside in East St. Louis.

WEDDING IN ALEXANDRIA IS OF INTEREST TO MONROE FRIENDS

A wedding of prominence taking place last week in Alexandria will be of interest to a wide circle of friends in this city where the bridegroom, Dr. Marion Lee Jarrell, has visited on numerous occasions in the home of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rogers. The following account of the wedding appeared in the Alexandria Town Talk:

"The white marquisette of the attendants' gowns effectively complemented the lustrous white satin of Miss Jane Ann Foote's wedding gown as she stood before the altar of the First Methodist Church Saturday evening to exchange marriage vows with Dr. Marion Lee Jarrell. Dr. Guy M. Hicks, pastor of the church, read the double-ring ceremony in the beautifully decorated church at 6 o'clock, as a large number of friends and relatives of the prominent young couple gathered for the occasion.

"The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Henry Dade Foote and the late Mr. Foote, and the groom's parents are Dr. and Mrs. Marion Fahy Jarrell. The wedding is of wide interest in this section, where both families are well known.

"A profusion of graceful evergreens, studded with gardenias, banked the chancel of the church where baskets of white gladioli and creole lilies and floor candelabra holding white tapers, were placed.

"Miss Foote was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Henry Dade Foote, Jr. A marquisette yoke featured the neckline, fashioned in dropped shoulder effect of the bride's stunning gown. Made with molded bodice, the gown had a scalloped draped peplum forming a brief bustle and the full skirt swept into a regal train. The long sleeves tapering to points at the wrists were embellished with satin covered buttons. Her veil of illusion fell from a coronet of tulle and she carried a bouquet of white stock and valley lilies. Her only ornament was a diamond pin, a gift of the groom.

"It was an interesting group of young women who preceded the bride to the altar. Matron of honor was Mrs. George M. Foote, and bridesmaids were Miss Mary Love Thomas, Miss Betty Lou Brooks, Miss Nancy Kelley, Mrs. Chandler Clover, Mrs. Tom P. Singletary, of Baton Rouge, and Mrs. William McCollam, Jr.

"The dresses, worn by the attendants, were of white marquisette made with tucked bodices, full sleeves and bouffant skirts with sashes of grosgrain ribbon. They carried muffs of vari-colored sweetpeas and wore clusters of these blossoms in their hair.

"Dr. Jarrell attended his son as best man. Ushers were Messrs. George M. Foote, brother of the bride; James Eubank and Guthrie Jarrell, of Epps, La., cousins of the groom; Newton Hargis, Dr. Will Palfrey, of Baton Rouge, and Dr. Charles S. Prosser, Jr., of New Orleans.

"Nuptial music was played for the ceremony by Mrs. J. R. Bell. Wagner's 'Bridal Chorus' from 'Lohengrin' announced the entrance of the wedding party and Mendelssohn's 'Wedding March' was played for recessional. The soloist, Mr. Ralph C. Henderson, sang Edvard Greig's 'I Love Thee' and Albert H. Malotte's 'The Lord's Prayer.'

Reception Held

"A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the home of the bride's mother on Elliott Street. Mrs. Foote wore a gray lace dress as she stood to receive the guests with members of the bridal party, and Mrs. Ben Eubank, aunt of the groom. The latter was wearing a dusty rose lace. Each wore a corsage of orchids. Greeting guests at the door were Mrs. Henry Dade Foote, Jr., and Mrs. James Eubank.

"A green and white theme was effected in the decorations of the reception suite with garlands of plumosa fern, magnolia blossoms and Creole lilies. The bride's table overlaid with a cloth of linen and lace held an arrangement of hydrangeas, flanked by silver candelabra holding burning tapers. The double-ring wedding cake, topped with roses and valley lilies, was served by Mesdames Alma Hemenway and Arletta C. Harris. Alternately presiding at the silver punch bowls were Mesdames Jack Rogers, of Monroe, aunt of the groom; King Rand, Richardson Ayres, M. R. Kramer and Harry Brenner. Serving were Misses Minnie O'Shee, Delia Hooe O'Shee, Hannah Curtis, Alice Clark and Mrs. John Charles Burden.

"Later, the young couple left for a bridal trip through the east. Upon their return, the middle of June, they will reside here temporarily before going to New Orleans. For traveling Mrs. Jarrell wore a gray woolen gabardine suit with navy accessories and a corsage of valley lilies.

"The bride is descended maternally from the late Mr. and Mrs. Neil Angus Ray, of Americus, Ga., and paternally from the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dade Foote of Columbus, Miss. She attended Southern Methodist University, Dallas, and is a graduate of the Louisiana State University, where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma, national fraternity.

Dr. Jarrell is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Swords R. Lee and Dr. C. M. Jarrell and the late Mrs. Jarrell of Epps, La. He attended Louisiana College and received the bachelor of science degree from Tulane University and a degree of doctor of medicine from the Tulane School of Medicine. He went on duty with the United States Navy Reserve following his internship at Charity Hospital, New Orleans, and holds the rank of lieutenant junior grade. At present he is a member of the medical staff at the United States Veterans Administration, Pineville. He is a member of Phi Kappa Sigma, national social fraternity, and Nu Sigma Nu, national medical fraternity.

SENIORS AT ST. MATTHEW'S

Miss Monita Ann Ritter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Ritter, was recently elected prefect of St. Matthew's Sodality, and Stanley Hodges, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hodges, Sr., was elected vice-president of the Sodality. They are both great favorites in school circles and have taken a prominent part in all activities.

MARRIAGE OF MISS DAVIS AND MR. EVENICH EVENT OF INTEREST

In a beautiful double-ring ceremony at the Sterlington Methodist Church on Saturday, May 15, Miss Frances Virginia Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Davis, became the bride of M/Sgt. Daniel Joseph Evenich, Jr., of Youngstown, O., with the Rev. R. E. Walter, officiating. The church was decorated with magnolias and southern smilax. Evergreens also banked the chancel railing. The pews reserved for the families and intimate friends were marked with magnolia buds tied with white satin ribbon. After the guests were seated by the ushers, Billy Davis and Bob Horton, the candles were lighted. Preceding the ceremony a prenuptial concert was rendered. Mrs. Tom D. Wafer accompanied the soloist, Miss Patsy Ruth Alexander, who sang "Because," and "I Love You Truly." The "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin" was played as processional, and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" as recessional. Mrs. Eddie Britt, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Carolyn Lea Britt and Carol Faye Bryan were flower girls. Mrs. Britt wore a yellow organdy dress with ruffles around a low neckline, puffed sleeves, full skirt over taffeta. She carried a colonial bouquet of tinted daisies. The flower girls wore blue organdy with puffed sleeves over taffeta. Corporal Howard Hughes was best man.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an Ivory-slipper satin gown, styled on princess lines, with a finger-tip veil of illusion, caught to her face with orange blossoms. She carried a white Bible topped with gardenias and showered with tube roses and satin ribbon. Her only ornament was an antique broach, a gift from the groom. For something borrowed, she carried a handmade handkerchief. Mrs. Davis wore a white crepe dress with gold accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

Following the ceremony, Mrs. Davis was hostess at a reception at her home in the Louisiana Power and Light Plant Village, where magnolias were used on mantle and tables. The bride's table, was covered with cut-work linen. Gardenias were placed at the base of the tapers. At one end of the table was the three-tiered wedding cake embossed in spun-sugar roses and surmounted with a miniature "bride and groom." At the other end of the table was a punch bowl, presided over by Mrs. Eddie Britt. Mrs. Joe Miller presided over the bride's book. Mrs. Johnnie Horton, Miss Mae Breithaupt and Mrs. Carl Brooks assisted.

After a short honeymoon, M/Sgt. and Mrs. Evenich will be at home at 458 Stoner Avenue, Shreveport, Louisiana.

Mrs. Evenich graduated from the Ouachita Parish High School and Monroe Commercial College, and was holding a responsible position at Barksdale Field. M/Sgt. Evenich was born and educated in Youngstown, O.

Out-Of-Town Club Women Meet At La Casa For Luncheon

Members of the Pot-Pourri club motored from Bastrop to this city where they met at the La Casa for their annual luncheon with Mrs. Hadley Leavell, Mrs. Tina Collins, Mrs. Estelle Harris, Mrs. Hoffman Jones, Mrs. E. B. Folse, Mrs. A. C. Folk and Mrs. R. E. Fullenwider, hostesses.

The club colors, purple and gold predominated in every detail of the beautifully appointed luncheon. Nosegays of purple and gold pansies were attached to the place cards.

The invocation was given by Mrs. H. Flood Madison. The retiring president, Mrs. Hoffman Jones, welcomed the members of Pot-Pourri with their guests, and introduced the new officers, Mrs. A. E. Stephenson, president; Mrs. Hadley Leavelle, vice-president; Mrs. Estelle B. Harris, secretary; Mrs. J. C. Young, treasurer.

Mrs. Estelle B. Harris in her usual charming manner gave an original toast to Pot-Pourri, paying tribute to each individual member.

At the conclusion of the delicious three course luncheon the incoming president, Mrs. A. E. Stephenson made an interesting talk giving the high lights of the history of Pot-Pourri.

Those attending the luncheon were: Mrs. P. F. Dunn, Mrs. Salmye McCreight, Mrs. W. T. Smith, Mrs. S. G. Lucky, Mrs. Myrtle Dalton, Mrs. J. B. Spier, Mrs. Joe Schendle, Mrs. Estelle B. Harris, Mrs. Jacob Seligman, Mrs. F. L. Billington, Mrs. David Kaplan Mrs. J. C. Jenkins, Mrs. O. R. Renfron, Mrs. H. Seligman, Mrs. Allen Turpin, Mrs. R. E. Fullenwider, and Miss Loura Volk.

MISS ELIZABETH CROW IS THE BRIDE OF MR. ROSS STANLEY

Claiming the interest of friends is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Crow and Mr. Ross Stanley in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Crowe with Dr. A. M. Serex, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiating.

Prenuptial numbers, "Love Can Be Dreamed" and "Mine Alone" were sung by John Charles Thomas and "Because" by Jan Pearce. Miss Crow's two nieces, Misses Gayle Crow and Pattie Smith, lighted the candles. White lilies decorated the improvised altar. Liebestraum was played softly during the ceremony.

Miss Trula DeBelle was the bride's only attendant. She wore a dusty pink linen model nad carried a lovely bouquet of yellow daisies and yellow roses.

Mr. J. B. Wilhite served as best man.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. W. R. Crow, wore a lovely poudre blue linen ensemble trimmed with Irish lace. Her hat was a halo of delicately colored flowers. She carried a Bible marked with white carnations, with a shower of satin streamers.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held. The bride's table, overlaid with handsome Irish linen was centered with a crystal bowl crystal bowl of magnolia blossoms. On one end of the table was placed a three-tiered wedding cake. Miss Kay Gillum presided at the punch bowl.

Miss Crow is a graduate of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute and Mr. Stanley attended Louisiana Polytechnic Institute and Louisiana State University.

The out-of-town guests included: Dr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Smith and daughters of Austin, Tex., Mrs. J. G. Stanley, Mrs. L. E. Farmer and Mrs. R. L. Mashburn of Lake Providence, La., Miss Ayleen Stanley of Shreveport, La., Miss Macel Adams of Ruston, La., and Mr. Howard Stanley of Shreveport.

Y. W. C. A. Scene Of B And P Girls' Supper Party

The Business and Professional Girls met at the Y. W. C. A. Wednesday, May 19, at 6:30 p. m. for its regular supper meeting and election of officers.

Miss Lester Will Be A June Bride

Announcement Of Engagement Foretells A Wedding Of Prominence During June

Foretelling a wedding of prominence during the month of June is the announcement made today by Mr. and Mrs. George William Lester of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Marness, to John Junius Bacot, son of Mrs. Carrie Bacot and the late Junius Bacot, of Osyka, Mississippi. The marriage ceremony is to be held at Grace Episcopal Church at 7:30 p. m., June 13.

Mr. Bacot served four years in World War II, is a member of the Mississippi State Legislature, and is now a student in the Graduate School of Louisiana State University.

Miss Lester is a member of the Delta Beta Sigma and Sigma Kappa sororities. She is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School, received a B. A. degree from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute and will receive a Masters degree from Louisiana State University on May 29, 1948.

Two Outstanding Speakers Address Cosmopolitan Club

Members of the Magnolia Study club were privileged to have two outstanding speakers on their program held in the home of Mrs. A. T. White, with Mrs. J. E. Nelson, co-hostess.

Mrs. H. S. Chilton, one of their own members, review Louis Adamic's "Dinner At The White House," and Rev. C. S. Cadwallader, Jr., pastor of the College Place Baptist church, spoke on "The Christian Homes of America."

Mrs. W. L. Jones, Jr., program chairman, presented Mrs. Chilton, who said in part:

"Dinner At the White House" is an account of the author, Louis Adamic and his wife, Stella, dining at the White House one evening in January, 1942. Present at this historic dinner, besides the Adamics, were Prime Minister Churchill, the Roosevelts, Mrs. Roosevelt's cousin lately returned from Peru, Mrs. Roosevelt's secretary, and two young English girls. During the dinner, Roosevelt touched on such important issues as the problem of aliens in wartime America, the Argentine situation, visiting royalty, and the inception of the United Nations.

Mr. Adamic, inspired by this intimate glimpse of these two dynamic personalities, seeks to examine the entire relationship between Franklin Roosevelt and Winston Churchill.

At the table, Mr. Roosevelt observed to Mr. Adamic, whose book "Two Way Passage," dealing with the post war world had been under discussion. "You know, my friend over there doesn't understand how most of our people feel about Britain and her role in the life of other people, etc.

Even after Mrs. Roosevelt and the Adamics go to the opera, Louis Adamic continues to ponder on such questions as 'Does President Roosevelt play second fiddle to Winston Churchill?' 'How well does Churchill understand America?' 'And above all, will America and England see eye to eye in the post war world?"

In the light of what really happened, Roosevelt's death and Churchill's defeat as prime minister, it seems a shame that Mr. Adamic didn't enjoy 'Toscanini' that night".

Mrs. Jones introduced Rev. Cadwallader, who introduced his subject by reading Edgar A. Guest's poem, "It Takes a Heap of Living in a House to Make It Home."

In substance the speaker stated that "the home is the basic unit in society and not the individual mother, father, or child. As the home fits itself into our society, it is made up of relationships. First, Rev. Cadwallader said, "It is a social relationship, then it has psychological relationship. This includes the emotional, mental and behaviour patterns of all members of the family. But, most important in all the relationships is the spiritual and religious fellowship. Character can be much easier caught than taught. The great need of the day is for parents to live for Christ and live exemplary lives before their children, thus guaranteeing strong Christian homes for America in the future."

Those present were Mrs. J. V. Russell, Mrs. R. P. McKay, Mrs. J. F. Smith, Mrs. A. C. Smith, Mrs. Carey Kirkland, Mrs. L. G. Corley, Mrs. A. T. White, Mrs. J. E. Nelson, Mrs. E. L. Hochenedel, Mrs. H. C. Miller, Mrs. A. K. Crow, Hrs. E. E. Conner, Mrs. W. L. Jones, Jr., Mrs. H. S. Chilton, Mrs. F. L. Tucker, and two guests, Rev. C. S. Cadwallader, and Mrs. Banister.

LUNCHEON IN JOHN BREARD HOME HONORING BRIDES-TO-BE IS AN EVENT OF DISTINCTION

Waxen magnolia buds festooned a massive silver candelabra supporting tall white tapers placed in the center of the beautifully appointed luncheon table in the hospitable home of Mrs. John Bread when she and her daughter, Mrs. Scott Hamilton entertained for Miss Dean McKoin and Miss Dorothea Girault, two attractive brides-to-be whose wedding dates fall on the same day, June 12.

Lillies and gardenias were also employed with artistry for the floral decorations of the silver serviced table. Corsages of blue for-get-me-nots, pink sweetheart roses and gardenias marked the covers reserved for the two honor guests.

During the conversational hour in the drawing room before luncheon, cocktails and hors d'oeuvres were served. Both brides-to-be received exquisite Dresden figurines from their hostesses.

Four delicious courses were served to Mrs. Breard, Mrs. Hamilton, Miss McKoin, Miss Girault, Mrs. Shep Girault, Mrs. B. M. McKoin, Mrs. David Garrett, Mrs. William Ober, Mrs. Fred Petty, Mrs. George Miller, Mrs. J.W. Cummins, Mrs. T. W. YWCA ACTIVITIES

"What does Y-Teen mean to me?" At a recent rally of Y-Teens of the Y. W. C. A., a Red Feather Service of your Community Chest, this question was asked the girls who attended.

Some of the girls stated the answers: "Y-Teens is a wonderful organization. It is a group where girls get together and really learn to enjoy life." "Y-Teens have meant a lot to me. I have learned to mix and to please people; it shows you that you can't always have your way; it has shown me how law in club is carried on." "Being a Y-Teen has meant a chance to develop my character and my personality. Y-Teens have filled my time which would have been wasted. Because I have been a Y-Teen I have changed from a shy girl with a dreadful inferiority complex to someone as sure of herself as anyone else. I have learned to be at ease among strangers and make the most of my personality." "Y-Teens has meant fun, fellowship, and the making of new friends. I have seen how girls can live together, work together, and play together in a friendly manner through the facilities of the Y. W. C. A." "Y-Teens means a place to go where friendship and friends and loveable people have been." "a place for fun and entertainment, a place to learn how to hold an office in a club." "Y-Teens means a group of girls who try to do the right things in the right way."

"Y-Teens have helped me to look at life and my standards of life at a much higher standard." "Through Y-Teens I have learned some good songs and learned how to associate with lots of other people." "Y-Teens has been fun and an inspiration to me." "Y-Teens have helped me through its religious part for my own religion." "Y-Teens have helped me in many ways. I have gained so much that will help me be a better person." "Y-Teens have helped me understand the future and what I must do."

HISTORIC FACTS CONTAINED IN SPLENDID PAPER READ BY MRS. LAYTON AT D. A. R. MEETING

One of the most successful years in the history of Fort Miro chapter Daughters of the American Revolution has just come to an end under the regime of Mrs. James Conway Liner, regent. Many national and state honors have come to Fort Miro chapter during the past year. A great increase in membership was also noted.

Many valuable papers of historic interest were prepared by chapter members during the year and one in particular, "Daughters of the White House," presented by Mrs. Robert Layton, claimed prominence. Addressing members of Fort Miro chapter, she said in part:

"Daughters of presidents have woven youth, beauty, and graciousness into the history of the White House. From early days of its establishment as the residence of the first family of the nation to the present time. These daughters of presidents have not only embellished the youthful theme in every chapter of the White House but have also written their names brilliantly in the social chronicles of the old mansion.

Although they were at the White House only on rare occasions to play hostesses for their widowed father, the two daughters of Thomas Jefferson, Martha, (Mrs. Thomas Mann Randolph), and Maria, or Polly (Mrs. John Eppes) added to the luster of the daughters of the presidents. They both had the advantage of continental life and the social life of the early capital cities of the new nation, New York and Philadelphia.

One of the brightest stars in the firmament of these daughters was Hester Maris, the youngest daughter of President and Mrs. James Monroe. She charmed all with her youth and beauty and became the first daughter of the president to be married in the White House. Her marriage to Samuel Lawrence Gouverneur of New York in the East room is high on the social accounts of the White House.

During the time when James Monroe was minister to France, the oldest daughter Eliza was a pupil of the celebrated Madam Campan's School, where Hortence Beauharnais, daughter of Josephine Bonaparte and stepdaughter of Napoleon and who later became queen of Holland, were very close friends.

Eliza (Mrs. George Hay) had a gay time during their father's term of office, an important part socially because their mother was in frail health, in fact, Mrs. Hay caused quite a furor as she felt the ladies of the diplomatic corp should pay their first calls on her. So can you but wonder that Eliza when she came to the White House felt her superior learning.

When President and Mrs. Monroe moved to the White House, they found that the British troops had burned all the furnishings in their raid during the War of 1812; flames had blackened the walls, so when Congress saw the stained and scarred buildings that had been the President's home, it ordered the structure to be painted white, and almost over night the mansion became the White House. Mr. and Mrs. Monroe installed their own French furniture, silver, china, which later the government bought from them for permanent use in the White House. Mrs. Monroe's father, Mr. Kortright, prominent and successful in business, was one of the founders of the New York Chamber of Commerce.

The fair Tyler sisters, daughters of President John Tyler and his first wife, Lititia Christian Tyler, were regarded as belles in Washington and their native Virginia. Lititia, the second daughter, presisded gracefully as her father's hostess on many occasions after the death of her mother and until his marriage to Miss Julia Gardiner.

Then there was the White House bride, Elizabeth Tyler, who was married to William Waller of Williamsburg, Virginia, in the East room of the White House when she was but nineteen. History relates that this bride of that long ago 1842 was a noted beauty. Mary, the oldest daughter, had married at an early age Henry Lightfoot Jones of Charles City Virginia.

"Miss Betty," as the youngest daughter of President and Mrs. Zachary Taylor, was affectionately called, had only been the wife of gallant Colonel Bliss for a short time, when her father became president. The simple charm and sterling character of this twenty-two year old girl has given her a niche of her own in the Hall of Fame of Daughters of Presidents.

Many of the social duties of those difficult days of the Andrew Johnsons administration fell on the shoulders of his two daughters, Martha, who had married Judge David T. Patterson of Tennessee, and Mary, the second daughter, who had married Daniel Stover of Carter County, Tennessee, in April, 1852.

All the world loves romance and that of the daughter of President and Mrs. U. S. Grant and the Englishman, Algernon Sartoris, was the center of attraction. From the early days of the courtship, the announcement of the engagement and the brilliant seventh wedding to be held in the White House, public attention was focused on Nellie Grant. It had been thirty years since Miss Elizabeth Tyler, daughter of President Tyler, had been married and this wedding of a daughter of a president in 1874, was of burning and unusual interest.

Nellie Arthur, daughter of President Chester Arthur, was eight years old when her father became president and only twelve when his administration ended. But this pretty, motherless child had her place in the parade of Daughters of Presidents.

It would never do to write about daughters of the White House without mentioning the trio of pretty and tiny daughters of President and Mrs. Grover Cleveland, Ruthe, Esther and Marian, who played so hard in the nursery and on the White House lawns to the delight of the adoring public.

The dignity and grace of Mrs. Robert McKee, daughter of President and Mrs. Benjamin Harrison and the mother of the nation's pet, Baby McKee, has an important place in the White House history as well as that of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The eldest daughter of President Theodore Roosevelt and his first wife, Alice Lee Roosevelt, now Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, has written her name in the Hall of Fame as a White House debutante and belle.

Miss Ethel Roosevelt, the younger daughter by the second wife of President Theodore Roosevelt, now Mrs. Richard Derby of New York, was also a White House debutante but did not marry until after her father retired from the office of president.

Miss Helen Taft, daughter of President and Mrs. William Howard Taft, now Mrs. Frederick Manning, was a White House debutante. She was more interested in her studies. She only came home from college to take her place in the social scheme of things because her mother needed her.

The administration of President Wilson brought three daughters to the White House. Tall, slender, serious-minded Jessie Wilson became the thirteenth White House bride at a brilliant wedding in the East room when Francis Bowes Sayre was the bridegroom.

Gay Miss Eleanor Wilson was the fourteenth White House bride at a wedding in the Blue room.

Anna Eleanor, daughter of President and Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, before her father became president was married to Curtis Dall. Before her second marriage, to John Boettiger, she lived at the White House where she acted as hostess for her father during the absences of Mrs. Roosevelt. This slender, fair-haired daughter was a favorite of the late president. Before her death, she accompanied him on trips and acted in a confidential capacity in his office. She was Woman's Page editor of a western newspaper and wrote children's books and also for magazines.

Thus we come to Margaret Truman, the current White House daughter in whose singing career the whole nation is interested. Miss Truman and her parents are close and companionable. Her father usually calls her "Baby" and is quite properly inordinately proud of her accomplishments and takes a great interest not only in her career but in her pleasures.

It brings us to my living memory of Margaret Truman in New Orleans last winter at the Mystic Ball, during Carnival season. She, with her lovely blond hair, dressed in long flowing deep blue chiffon evening gown, and her escort the tall, handsome Duke of the Mystic Ball, dressed in costume to carry out the theme of the ball. He presented her to the King and Queen, then the orchestra played a waltz and they danced, it being the first call out for the debutantes of New Orleans, all dressed in beautiful evening gowns, with spot lights turned on them from the galleries. It was a magnificent sight. I was overly thrilled as my daughter Carol was chosen, being one of the Newcomb College girls, to be in the tableaux. So as time goes on, Daughters of the White House will not only live in history, but in our memories, also.

MRS. W. M. HARPER ADDRESSES MEMBERS OF DELTA RHO DELTA

Hightlighting the month of May for the members of Delta Rho Delta Business Girls Sorority was the review by Mrs. W. M. Harper of the currently popular "East River" by Sholem Asch. Mrs. Harper presented this outstanding work to a most appreciative audience in the assembly room at the Frances Hotel.

She said: Sholem Asch was born in Poland in 1880 and had no formal edua on except at church schools conducted by the Rabbi. He went to Warsaw at the age of 16 and while here he wrote a boume of novelettes n Yiddish (mixed German and Hebrew dialect influenced by Polish and Russian.) In 1908, he was living in Switzerland, having married, and it was then that he first became acquainted with American literature. In 910 he came to America with his wife, three sons and a daughter. They now live in Stanford Connecticut.

Among his works are "The Nazarene" and "The Apostle." All his writing is done in Yiddish, then translated. This is true of "East River."

The story of "East River" is laid in the section of New York City on 48th street from First Avenue to the river, tenement section wherein resided a mixture of all peoples and religions, living closely and intimately while at the same time being separated by vast differences of origin and mountains of prejudices. There are numerous characters in the book but the principle ones are the Worlffs and the McCarthy's who are closely involved through the romance of their children.

The second lecture enjoyed by the members of Delta Rho Delta was given by Mrs. John Lewis on "Flowers, How and Where to Use Them." Mrs. Lewis displayed several beautiful arrangements in a variety of containers and explained the various requirements for flower combinations. Mrs. Lewis is a popular lecturer and she is in great demand as a speaker on flower arrangement. She loves to tell about how her interest in flower arrangement began as a hobby and has now become an important factor in her life.

The following members were present to hear Mrs. Lewis' lecture at the Frances Hotel.

SECRETARIES ELECT NEW OFFICERS

The Monroe chapter of Secretaries International held an interesting business meeting at the home of Marguerite Lindle in West Monroe.

The meeting was opened with the reading of the minutes by Helen McDaniel, recording secretary, followed by a discussion of the chapter's new project, the adoption of an English family. A letter to Jeanne Harden from an English friend describing the family was read to the group. A list of food such as tea, lard, sugar, et cetera, was made up and Jeanne Harden appointed as chairman of a committee to purchase the items. Clothing will be sent to them as soon as measurements are received.

Pictures taken at the Southwest Regional meeting in Little Rock last month, which was attended by five members from Monroe, were passed around. Many of the snapshots were unposed and very interested indeed!

The names of guests for the dinner meeting to be held at the La Casa Tearoom May 25 weretaken by Helen McDaniel. Further plans were made for entertainment.

The feature of the business session was the annual election of officers. Overriding many protests, the chapter elected the following officials for the coming year: Lois Hollingsworth, president; Marguerite Lindle, first vice-president; Grace King, second vice-president; Juanita George, recording secretary; Helen McDaniel, corresponding secretary; Helen Youngblood, treasurer; Lena Wallace, Mae Modes, and Vicci Bennett, board of directors, with Vicci Bennett serving as chairman. The duties of each office were reviewed for the benefit of the newly elected.

A delicious salad course and cold drinks were served by the hostess, Marguerite Lindle, to the following: Lois Hollingsworth, Mae Modes, Helen McDaniel, Lena Wallace, Alice Chilton, Vicci Bennett, Helen Youngblood, Mrs. Ethel Newport, Jeanne Harden, Marion Tetreau, and Johnetta Willhite.

MR. AND MRS. E. G. BROWN

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Graves Brown are seen leaving the church following their marriage, an event of social prominence in New Orleans. The bride was formerly Miss Bethia Liddell McCay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy McCay, of New Orleans, and the bridegroom is a nephew of Mr. Wilson Ewing, of this city.

WELCOME GARDEN CLUB GUESTS IN HOME OF MRS. W. C. FEAZEL FOR LAST MEETING OF THE YEAR

A year of outstanding achievement for members of the Welcome Garden Club of the Twin Cities has just been completed. Members in retrospective mood recounted the delightful hours spent during the past year in the gardens of their homes and in attendance at the lectures delivered from time to time.

The last meeting of the year was held in the beautiful home of Mrs. W. C. Feazel with Mrs. I. W. Rodgers, Mrs. Carley Holmes and Mrs. A. B. Colmer, co-hostesses.

The drawing room was adorned with Madonna lilies and in the dining room gardenias were used exclusively. These fragrant flowers, preferred by hostesses at this particular time of the year, were arranged in a pyramid for the central decor of the lace covered refreshment table. Trays were laden with open-faced sandwiches, beautifully embossed cakes and other confections. Mrs. V. S. Garnett, club president, presided at the punch bowl.

As an introduction to the afternoon's program, Mrs. Wesley Walters read an original poem, "A Yard Man's Prayer."

Mrs. John Lewis gave a report on the state convention. Mrs. Carey Holmes' talk on "Roses," was the highlight of the program.

Mrs. W. C. Anders gave a splendid talk on making corsages, and displayed several lovely corsages she had fashioned from flowers grown in her garden. Members present were: Mrs. W. S. Smith, Mrs. P. E. Massey, Mrs. Joe Williamson, Mrs. Tom Leos, Mrs. H. E. Downing, Mrs. W. B. Wheelis, Mrs. Oscar Johnson, Mrs. H. S. Coon, Mrs. John P. Lewis, Mrs. J. A. Reed, Mrs. C. L. Wright, Mrs. A. R. Butler, Mrs. M. W. Montgomery, Mrs. L. J. Hulin, Mrs. Wesley Walters, Mrs. John Atkinson, Mrs. C. T. Johnson, Mrs. H. A. McDonald, Mrs. E. L. Page, Mrs. E. E. Eaves, Mrs. R. B. Henry, Mrs. W. L. Mitchell, Mrs. Gus Swayze, Mrs. E. A. Porter, Mrs. B. E. Gambrell, Mrs. C. C. Lucky, Mrs. T. S. Mangham, Mrs. I. W. Rogers, Mrs. D. L. Nicol, Mrs. W. R. Gates, Mrs. O. R. Brauer, Mrs. J. C. Anders, Mrs. W. N. Reynolds, Mrs. C. B. Akin, Mrs. E. B. Johnson, Mrs. A. B. Colmer, W. C. Feazel, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. Carey Holmes, Mrs. N. Jardine. Three guests, Mrs. F. C. Eason, Mrs. B. Easton, and Mrs. Gilbert B. Findlay.

Miss Volk Will Wed Mr. Reech Last Day Of May

A late May wedding is foretold in the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Claude Volk of the engagement of their daughter, Launa Valerie, to Van Reech, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Reech, of Farmerville. The marriage will be solemnized on Monday, May 31, at 7:30 in the evening.

Miss Volk will have as her matron or honor, her sister, Mrs. Ray Locke Day of Baton Rouge. Bridesmaids will be Mrs. William C. Grobe, another sister of the bride-elect, Mrs. R. A. Smith of Mobile, Ala., and Miss Evelyn Reech of Farmerville. Mrs. Smith and Miss Reech are sisters of the bridegroom.

Miss Susie Jo Ludlum and Miss Martha Ann Ludlum will light the candles before the ceremony. Three little flower girls will be Miss Florette Snyder, Miss Mary Cecilia Grobe, niece of the bride, and Miss Sandra Smith of Mobile, niece of the bridegroom.

Mrs. J. A. Wyatt left today via airways for Fort Worth and Dallas on a buying trip.

Gary Vaughan Smith has been removed from Riverside sanitarium to the home of his parents on Lee avenue and will be glad to have his friends call as he will be confined to his bed indefinitely.

Mr. and Mrs. Sigmund Masur left Friday night on a two week's business trip to New York City where they will be guests at the Waldorf Astoria.

A clever caricature in Gay Nineties mode, done by Miss Rupert Perry of this city, proved a delightful bit of entertainment at the rehearsal party in Baton Rouge honoring Miss Carol Cosselman and Mr. George W. Mouk and members of their wedding party. Miss Perry acompanied Mr. Mouk's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mouk to Baton Rouge.

Miss Cosselman and Mr. Mouk were the protagonists in the colorful cartoon that was a satire on the traditional old pictures of brides and grooms—stiffly posed with the groom standing behind his seated bride. In the caricature the features of the young bride-elect and her fiance were seen on the faces in the picture.

Mr. and Mrs. Branch Isbell and daughter, Susan, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Roy and Mrs. J. M. Brandao motored to Memphis to attend the cotton carnival. While there, they were guests in the home of D. C. Appersons.

George Lester, Jr., will arrive home next week from Roswell Military College and will leave during the month of June for Annapolis Naval Academy. He received the congressional appointment from this parish.

Immediately following her graduation from the Enterprise High School, Miss Inez Mason, class valedictorian, will become the bride of Mr. Luther Sanson. Rev. James Achard, pastor of the New Ouachita Baptist Church, will perform the ceremony. Miss Mason is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Mason of Enterprise. She is president of her class.

Mr. Sanson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sanson of Jonesville. He attended Northwestern State College at Natchitoches. He was with the U. S. Army overseas for 33 months.

MRS. SPERRY ELECTED REGENT OF FORT MIRO CHAPTER D. A. R.

Mrs. Gladys Broadway Sperry will guide the destiny of Fort Miro chapter Daughters of the American Revolution for the ensuing year. She was elected to this important office at the last meeting of the year at the chapter house with the regent, Mrs. James C. Liner, presiding.

Mrs. Sperry is the daughter of the late Mrs. Sallie Ruffin and Mr. Thomas James Broadway, and the granddaughter of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Parker Richardson, pioneer settlers of Ouachita Parish. Mrs. Sperry has been active in D.A.R. work for many years.

Other officers elected to serve with Mrs. Sperry are:

First Vice-Regent, Mrs. Courtney Oliver; Second Vice-Regent, Mrs. Thomas Leigh; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Duncan Cook; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Shelby Meek; Librarian, Miss Francis Flanders Treasurer, Mrs. Stanley Blower; Chaplain, Mrs. H. A. Miller; Registrar, Mrs. E. G. Calvert; Historian, Mrs. Milling Bernstein; Councilors, Mrs. Clarence E. Faulk and Mrs. Hy Bernstein.

PIPE ORGAN CONCERT WILL BE PRESENTED BY THOMAS WEBBER, JR.

One of the most outstanding musical events of the year will take place Tuesday evening, May 25, 8 p. m., at the First Baptist Church in Bastrop, when Mr. Thomas H. Webber, Jr., A. A. G. O. of Memphis, Tennessee will be presented in an organ recital. His concert will include numbers to show the range and quality of the new instrument recently installed. The program is designed to please all persons who appreciate organ music. The public will be welcome.

Mr. Webber is organist and choir master of the Idlewild Presbyterian Church in Memphis. He is in great demand for concerts in large cities.

The program will include the following selections:

Toccata and Fugue in D Minor—Bach.

Chorale Prelude, "O Man Bemoan Thy Sins"—Bach.

Allegretto—Clereambault.

Melody for the Bells of Berghall Church—Sibelius.

Le Bonheur—Hyde.

The Little Red Lark—Clokey.

Scherzo—Whitlock.

Bells of Ste. Anne de Beaupre—Russell.

Minuet—Boccherini.

Prelude Moderne—Warde.

Clair de Lune—Debussy.

Toccata (Fifth Symphony)—Widor.

According to the pastor, Rev. E. G. Whitsitt, the organ, ordered by the church in April, 1947, cost applximately $9,000.00. It was built and installed by the Wicks Organ Company of Highland, Illinois. The walnut finish console is detached. There are two grilles in walnut finish, each having seven display pipes in gilt. The organ pipes are installed in the room to the north and above the choir loft. In all there are forty-two stops, eighteen of them on the great organ, fourteen on the swell organ and ten on the pedal organ. Each of the three organs have five pistons and there are five master pistons. The organ includes a set of Deagan chimes. Mrs. Earl C. Whitsitt is regular organist of First Baptist Church and she suggested the specifications for the organ in collaboration with Mr. Webber and Mr. R. F. Smith, representative of the Wicks Organ Company.

WILL BE MAY BRIDE

Miss Billie Jean Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Carter, of Jonesboro, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Mr. Walter Lovelle Salley, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Salley, of this city, was recently announced. The wedding will take place Sunday, May 23.

MARRIAGE OF MISS PADGETT IS CLIMAX TO WEEKS OF ENTERTAINING

Prominent among last week's busy hours were the prenuptial courtesies extended Miss Patricia Padgett whose marriage to Mr. Dan Cox on Saturday climaxed several weeks of entertaining.

One of the most enjoyable affairs of the week was the buffet supper given by Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Montgomery and Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Raby in the gardens of the Montgomery home. Miss Padgett, the central figure, wore a summery gown of Wedgwood blue chambray and a corsage of pink sweet peas presented by her hostess. She also received from her hostesses a gift of sterling silver.

The tables in the patio were linen covered, silver serviced and flower adorned. A delicious chicken supper was served to: Miss Padgett and Mr. Cox, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Padgett, Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Ware, Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Easterling, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Powless, Miss Jean Kennedy and Mr. Clark Raby, Miss Sally Ware and Mr. Welzie Garrett, Miss June Shultz and Mr. Thomas Easterling, Miss Frances Raby and Mr. George Whitmeyer.

MRS. DANA HOSTESS

Informality was the keynote of the happy hours spent by Miss Padgett and a few intimates in the home of Mrs. James Dana who entertained with a linen shower.

Pink roses, white asters and gardenias created a note of festivity in the living room where the beautiful gifts were presented. A chenille bedspread was the gift of the hostess.

A variety of delicious sandwiches, individual cakes and other confections were served from a flower banked, candlelit table in the dining room. The central decor was a bride and groom figurine.

Guests were: Miss Padgett, Mrs. Bill Bolton, Miss Frances Stevenson, Miss Annie Mae Wall, Miss Barbara Hulin, Miss Adine Wheeler, Miss Sally Ware, Miss Joyce Litton, Miss Jean Kennedy, Miss June Shultz, Mrs. H. J. Smith, Mrs. H. Cline Clark, Miss Joy Bernhardt, Miss Vettye Bernhardt, Miss Betty Sue Jones, Miss Martha Roddy, Mrs. J. H. Dana, and Mrs. F. R. Holden.

Lake Providence

At 4 p. m., May 1, Miss Charlotte Jean Shows, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Shows of Transylvania, and Mr. James Arthur Culberson, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Culberson, of Karnes City, Texas, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents.

Rev. A. B. Odom, pastor of the Transylvania Baptist church, performed the ceremony.

Mrs. Culberson was graduated from the Lake Providence High School and is a junior at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute at Ruston, where she is majoring in Sociology, a member of the French Club, and a representative to the Women's League.

Mr. Culberson will graduate this spring from Tech., majoring in mathematics and English. He is a member of the Tech Theatre Players, and is announcer at radio station KRUS at Ruston.

He served three years in the U. S. Navy.

Mr. and Mrs. Culberson's present plans are to locate in Ruston.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hammack and daughters, Carol Kay and Mary Ann, of Jackson, Miss., visited in Lake Providence last week-end with Mr. Hammack's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Hammack.

Mrs. J. H. Gilfoil, Jr., frequent guest of the first bridge club to be organized in Lake Providence, entertained the club members Thursday afternoon.

Guests other than club members were Mrs. W. R. Gilfoil, of Omega, and Mrs. Bessie B. Powell.

Guests from the club were Mrs. W. D. Brown, Mrs. N. K. Delony, Mrs. J. M. Hamley, Mrs. S. E. Hart, Mrs. W. H. Maben, Mrs. F. X. Ransdell, Mrs. F. P. Regenold, Mrs. F. H. Schneider, and Mrs. J. N. Turner.

High score prize was won by Mrs. Powell and second by Mrs. Delony.

A delicious salad course and dessert were served following the games.

Mrs. Alton B. Hull is custodial worker at the East Carroll Parish Health Unit, replacing Miss Betty Lois Dunn, who accepted a secretarial placement with the department of Public Welfare.

Mrs. Prince Gill, Miss Marguerite LaBat. and Miss Lela Fleming spent Thursday in Monroe.

Mrs. Hugh Pitts motored to Baton Rouge last week to bring Mr. Pitts home after the completion of a five weeks' training at the V. A. center. She was accompanied by sisters, Peggy and Pansy Mitchell, and Mrs. H. T. Van Fossen.

Mrs. Kelzo McClendon spent the week in Meridian, Miss., because of the illness of her father, Mr. Pickford.

A. D. Fitzgerald, L. S. U. Extension swine specialist, visited in East Carroll parish during the week with Associate County Agent, A. P. Parham, to advise on the 4-H pig projects and confer with farmers on feeding out on soy beans and corn.

John Cox, pecan horticulturist from the State Extension department, visited the pecan orchards of East Carroll parish during the week, and made recommendations on spraying.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Horne, attending the compress meeting in Memphis stopped in Wynne to leave their children, Mary Elise and David, with their grandmother, Mrs. B. A. Horne, for a visit.

Literary Guild Hears Book Review By Mrs. Garrett

Mrs. David Garrett's interesting review of "Human Destiny" by Le comte du Novy, was the highlight of the meeting of the Literary Guild in the home of Mrs. Nathan Gaston. Mrs. Thomas Sandridge was co-hostess at this time.

Mrs. P. L. Perot, president, presided over the brief business meeting, and introduced Mrs. Garrett. She said:

"Dr. du Novy is an internationally known French scientist and was the first of an artistic family to be attracted to science. His mother was the author of numerous novels, of which one was translated into 16 languages, and ran into six editions in French. His father was an architect who designed the principal Cathedrals of Roumania, and his grandfather was the last of the great stained glass painters.

"Dr. du Novy was born in Paris in 1883. He was educated at the Sorbonne and the Faculty of Law. In 1915 Dr. du Novy, then an officer in the French Army, met Dr. Alexis Carrell and through him became interested in certain problems that appeared to have no solution. In 1917 he succeeded in working out a mathematical problem that had baffled scientists for a long time, namely, the mathematical expression of the process of healing wounds. This brought him to the attention of the Rockefeller Institute of New York. His works were published in France, London, and New York, and he carried on his research as an associate member of the Rockefeller Institute from 1920 to 1927.

"He married an American, Mary Bishop Harrison, in 1923. They returned to Paris in 1927, and lived in Paris under Nazi domination but escaped to the United States in 1942.

"He made tours in this country in 1944 and 1945 under sponsorship of the Army and Navy departments. He was awarded the Arnold Reymond Prize for three of his books as the most important contribution to scientific philosophy in the past ten years."

After the book review, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, who has just returned from the District Convention of the Louisiana State Federation of Women's Clubs, told of the convention and announced to the Literary Guild that their 1947-48 Year Book had won first place at the convention.

At the close of the meeting, the hostesses served a salad course with cake and coffee to their guest and members of the Guild:

Mrs. David Garrett, Mrs. A. Milling Bernstein, Mrs. J. P. Brown, Mrs. Duncan Cook, Mrs. W. M. Harper, Mrs. E. D. Holloway, Mrs. C. W. Johnson, Mrs. J. B. Keigler, Mrs. George Lester, Mrs. B. M. McKoin, Mrs. D. T. Milam, Mrs. P. L. Perot, Mrs. Leo Terzia, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale.

Marion

Mrs. Fleming Moore, Misses Annie Laura Cook, Elizabeth Brown, Reppy Rhodes and Thelma Powell of Shreveport were the week-end guests of Miss Mary Hopkins and Mrs. Alice Hopkins.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Griggs and daughter, Mary Margaret, spent Sunday with relatives at Indian Village.

Mrs. Thornton Andrews of McLean, Texas visited relatives here last week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Prophet, Jr., and children of Monroe spent Sunday with relatives here.

Miss Sue Lyn Tucker, who works in Shreveport, was at home for the week-end.

Miss Bessie Smith of Monroe spent Sunday here with her mother, Mrs. Lizzie Smith.

Miss Nell Maroney of Shreveport spent the week-end here with her parents.

Sherrouse P.-T. A. Installs Officers For New Year

"Recreation Means Planned Fu was the title of an inspirational a instructive paper given by Mr. A. Huffman, director of Physical Edu tion at Northeast Junior college. M Huffman said in part: "Recreation, itself, to be true recreation, for people concerned cannot be bound any particular plan or fashioned the point where deviation is impo sible. Nor can we, who plan recre tional programs confine ourselves the usual plays and games, to the e clusion of impromptu programs a spontaneous play. This broad view recreation is necessary because depend upon a very unstable ite human desires, which most empha cally, is not a standardized quality.

Planning for any contemplated pr gram, recreational or physical, c serves quite a bit of thinking if program is to be successful. By bei successful we mean embodying tivities that afford emjoyment to ea and every individual as well as t group as a unit.

The average home of today does n and cannot afford the types of recre tion necessary to keep the children home after school is over. Commerc recreation is being made more attra tive, drawing young people from m wholesome activities. The problem recreation is not just a family situ tion, but is the responsibility of t entire community. Opportunities worthwhile activities allowing for dividual differences should be ma available to all citizens, young a old, at all times."

The President's Message was giv by Mrs. Henry Williams.

Another highlight of the afternoo program was the installation of of cers by Mrs. Claude Dillingham. T incoming officers for 1948-49 are M W. O. Webb, president; Mrs. Hen Williams, vice-president; Mrs. Loc hart, secretary; Mrs. Telden Aust treasurer.

At the conclusion of the progr a social hour was enjoyed by me bers and visitors.

SWIMMIN' HOLE AGAIN LURES

Will Be One Of Chief Attractions Of Boy Scouts At Ki-Ro-Li

The old swimming hole has always had a great appeal for a boy and has been of eminent importance in his summertime activities. In the Boy Scouts a boy has the opportunity of joining his pals to have fun swimming, but emphasis in the Scout swimming program is placed on water safety and life saving.

A large portion of the time at Camp Ki-Ro-Li, Ouachita Valley Council's summer camp, will be devoted to swimming and life saving activities. "Every Scout a Swimmer" will be the slogan of the entire camp staff, and, while this goal is being accomplished, life saving instructions will be given to those who already know how to swim.

The camp schedule will call for two swim periods for every Scout each day. Boys will swim only with those of their own swimming ability. They will be classified as to their ability upon their arrival at camp into the following groups: non-swimmers, beginners, and swimmers. The "buddy" system, long used by the Boy Scouts as a special water safety feature, will be used. In the "buddy" system, every Scout swims with his buddy and he can be accounted for at any time during the swim period, as a buddy check-up is called frequently.

Another feature of the Camp Ki-Ro-Li aquatics program will be the opportunity for troops to receive instruction with their troop leaders on the Boy Scouts Eight Defense Program. This instruction will enable a troop to carry on their own swimming program with adequate safety measures. It is hoped that all troops attending camp will participate in this program feature. A special water carnival will also be held during each of the five camp periods.

The camp swimming pool and aquatics program will be under the direction of Hal Bynum, of Rayville. Bynum is an assistant scoutmaster, an Eagle Scout, and has held the position of life guard on the camp staff for several years. He is one of the most capable life guards and swimming instructors in the area. He is to attend a special National Boy Scouts Aquatics School early in June, where he will receive one week of specialized instruction for his position at Camp Ki-Ro-Li. He will be assisted in his waterfront program by several outstanding Senior Scouts in the Ouachita Valley Council.

Work on the camp swimming pool, which was given to the camp by S. K. Henninger in 1937, is now underway, so that everything will be in top condition when camp opens June 20.

Several hundred Scouts will attend Camp Ki-Ro-Li this season to participate in this swimming program and the other Scout craft features of the camp. Many troops in the area have already made reservations. The camp periods are as follows: First Period, June 20-June 26; Second Period, June 27-July 3; Third Period, July 4-July 10; Fourth Period, July 11-July 17; Fifth Period, July 18-July 24. The Central Camp staff will participate in an intensified training program for about ten days before the camp opens.

GETS P.-T. A. LIFE MEMBERSHIP

GEORGIA TUCKER P.-T. A. ELECTS

Mrs. R. M. Troy, President; Other Officers Named For Ensuing Year

Officers for the coming year were installed by Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, past president, at the meeting of the Georgia Tucker P.-T. A. held the past week. They are as follows: Mrs. R. M. Troy, president; Mrs. Thomas Davenport, first vice-president; Mrs. Albin P. Lassiter, second vice-president; Mrs. C. E. Slade, Jr., secretary; Mrs. Ray Updegraff, treasurer and Mrs. Henry Mayo, historian.

A musical program, under the direction of Mrs. F. O. Seymour and John Cannon was the feature of the Dad's night meeting of Georgia Tucker P.-T. A. Thursday. Mrs. Seymour presented pupils of the 4th and 5th grades in two-part choruses, and pupils of the sixth grade in three-part choruses, with Linda Hornbeck and Fran Guthrie as soloists, and Frankie Bruscato, accompanist. The enthusiastic applause of both parents and children indicated the continuance of Mrs. Seymour's training for Georgia Tucker children next year. The Georgia Tucker band, under the direction of Mr. Cannon, concluded the program.

Miss Myrtle Rodgers, principal of Georgia Tucker, expressed the appreciation of the Georgia Tucker Parent Teacher Association to Mrs. F. W. Dawson, retiring president, for her guidance and untiring effort in the past two years. A crystal punch-bowl and cups were presented to Mrs. Dawson by Mrs. T. H. Scott on behalf of the association.

An exhibit of art work of the Georgia Tucker pupils was on display, and at the conclusion of the meeting, the new ground floor cafeteria was open for inspection.

PICK PELICAN STATE MEMBERS

Catahoula Parish Legion Posts Make Selections For Annual Session

JONESVILLE, La., May 22.—(Special)—Three of Catahoula parish's four American Legion posts have selected representatives for the ninth annual session of Pelican Boys' State to be held August 9-17 on the Louisiana State University campus.

Also selected is the representative of the only Legion auxiliary post to Pelican Girls' State which will be held August 18-27 at the university.

Boyd-Mann Post 163 of Jonesville will send Densil Humble, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hoover Humble, to Boys' State, with Robert Freeman, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Freeman, as alternate. Both are juniors at Block High School, played on Block's football team the past season and are members of the 1948 American Legion junior baseball squad.

Trichel-Lee Post 223 of Harrisonburg has announced Clarence F. Routon, Jr., as its representative, with David M. Hailey as alternate.

Larry Barron of Foules will be the representative of Sicily Island Post 257. He is a junior in high school and participates in basketball and softball at Sicily Island High School.

Named to represent the Boyd-Mann auxiliary, the only Legion auxiliary in the parish, was Iris McClure, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey McClure. Velda Fairbanks will be the alternate. Both are juniors at Block High School.

Delegates were chosen for leadership, character, cooperativeness and scholarship.

Igloo, constant companion of Admiral Byrd, was the only dog that ever traveled to both of the earth's poles.

GOOD NIGHT, VAN GOBLIN. TRUST YOUR DAUGHTER HAS RECOVERED BY MORNING... GOOD NIGHT, CHARLES.
GOOD NIGHT, SIR.
DOGGONE IT! WONDER WHAT'S HAPPENED TO TERRY? HE WANDERED OFF DOWN THIS WAY HOURS AGO...
WHAT TH— ? FOR THE LUVVA PETE!
GOOD NIGHT, MADEMOISELLE CHARTREUSE.
GOOD NIGHT, M'SIEU LEE.
I BOW IN HUMBLE ADMIRATION! I'M SPEECHLESS! THIS LEE CHARACTER EVEN FINDS PURTY GERTIES IN THIS SPOOK HOTEL! WHO WAS THAT?
OH! HI, CHAZZ...
THAT WAS THE NATIVE DANCER WHO PUSHED MOTLEY INTO THE POOL.
WHA...? PUSHED!...BUT THEY BOTH SAID IT WAS AN ACCIDENT...
MOTLEY TRIED TO GET ME TO HELP HER LIFT OLD MAN BRONZ'S ORIGINAL OF HER STATUETTE. CHARTREUSE OVERHEARD AND LAUNCHED HER... MOTLEY'S STORY OF AN ACCIDENT WAS JUST A DESPERATE ATTEMPT TO BRAZEN IT OUT...
CHARTREUSE COVERED UP FOR HER BECAUSE BRONZ WOULD HAVE KILLED US ALL IF HE'D LEARNED THE TRUTH — AND SHE LIKES HAVING, AHEM, ELIGIBLE MALES AROUND.
WHEW! THERE I WAS WITH MY NECK IN JEOPARDY, AND NOT EVEN KNOWING ABOUT IT. BLESSINGS ON YOUR BOYISH CHARMS, TERENCE.
YEAH! UNLESS CHARTREUSE GETS A FEMININE INTUITION THAT MY BOYISH CHARMS ARE APPEALING TOO MUCH TO MOTLEY. IN WHICH CASE — QUOTE "ALL BETTINGS ARE OFF," UNQUOTE!
MEANWHILE
BUT, MOTLEY, I DON'T UNDERSTAND. WHY DIDN'T THIS DANCING GIRL TELL BRONZ THE TRUTH?
I DON'T KNOW, FATHER, BUT IT GIVES US ONE LAST CHANCE — IF WE ACT BEFORE SHE CHANGES HER MIND... WAIT HERE!

CLOVER CAB. THAT'S A DRIVER-OWNED OUTFIT.
WELL, BOYS, IT SEEMS WE'RE ON ANOTHER GOOSE CHASE — HEL-LO.
AND TO WHOM AM I INDEBTED FOR THIS FORMAL CALL, MAY I ASK?
YOU LIVE HERE?
I THOUGHT I LIVED HERE. HOWEVER, THESE FACES SEEM COMPLETELY UNFAMILIAR TO ME. I'M A CAB DRIVER. MY NAME IS ACRES O'RILEY.
EXCUSE THE INTRUSION, ACRES, BUT —
GENTLEMEN, SEEING YOU'RE OFFICERS OF THE LAW I HAVE SOMETHING TO TELL YOU — A VERY ODD EXPERIENCE.
YEAH? A FEW MINUTES AGO I CAME IN FROM MY NIGHT RUN AND PARKED MY CAB IN FRONT. AS I ENTERED THE HALL, AN EXCITED YOUNG MAN CAME TOWARD ME —
HEY, THE DAME'S PASSING OUT —
CATCH HER!

NO, DEAR, I'M JUST GOING TO KEEP ONE OF THEM
NOW, DAGWOOD, I WANT YOU TO TELL ME WHICH OF THESE HATS YOU LIKE BEST QUICK, COOKIE--TELL ME THE PRICE OF THOSE HATS
THE ONE WITH THE FEATHER COSTS TWELVE DOLLARS AND THE OTHER ONE COSTS FOUR DOLLARS
COOKIE, ARE YOU POSITIVE ABOUT THOSE PRICES? I CAN SAVE MYSELF EIGHT BUCKS! NOW, MAKE SURE
YES, DADDY, I'M POSITIVE THAT I'M RIGHT ABOUT IT
I'VE DECIDED I LIKE THE ONE WITH THE BOW
OH, GOODIE
YOU HAVE GOOD TASTE, DEAR---YOU PICKED THE MOST EXPENSIVE ONE--I LIKE IT BEST, TOO
COOKIE, HOW COULD YOU? HOW COULD YOU LET YOUR OLD FATHER DOWN LIKE THAT?
I'M SORRY, DADDY--I REALLY THOUGHT I WAS RIGHT
MY OWN FLESH AND BLOOD, MAKING A BLUNDER LIKE THAT---DO YOU REALIZE YOU COST ME EIGHT DOLLARS?
I'M SO SORRY, DADDY. BOO-HOO HOO
NOW, DEAR, WILL YOU PLEASE TAKE THIS HAT BACK AND PAY THE LADY THE TWELVE DOLLARS FOR THE ONE I'M KEEPING?
OH, COOKIE, HOW COULD YOU?
YOUR WIFE WAS WRONG, MR. BUMSTEAD--THIS IS THE TWELVE-DOLLAR HAT--THE ONE SHE'S KEEPING IS ONLY FOUR DOLLARS
YOU MEAN COOKIE WAS RIGHT, AFTER ALL?

WE GOT MR. SNICKERSQUE T'HELP US.
WHO'S HE, HUMPHREY?
HE'S THE FELLA WHICH WON THE CHAMPEENSHIP IN THE NASH'NUL JIG-SAW CONTES'. WE NEED 'IM BECUZ ALL THE CHALK NUMBERS WAS WASHED OFF.
HERE'S YOUR OTHER PIE AN' A BASKET T'CARRY BACK T'WORK.
HOW WE COMIN', MR. SNICKERSQUE?
IT'S A MORE DIFFICULT JOB THAN I EXPECTED. I'LL HAVE T'LOOK AT IT FROM UP ABOVE SOMEHOW.
LATER
WE GOT'CHOOR CABLE-CAR ALL SET, READY?
YUP.
THIS IS FINE. I CAN FIGURE IT OUT FROM UP HERE.
HE'S WAVIN' T'COME DOWN.
START THE ENGINE, VIRGIL.
MOVE THAT ONE OVER THERE T'THERE... UH... THEN... SHUCKS, I FERGOT... I KNOW WHEN I'M UP ON TOP... BUT I LOSE PERSPECTIVE DOWN HERE.
WE'LL HAFTA RIG UP A TELEEPHONE SO HE KIN GIVE D'RECTIONS.
THAT WON'T BE NO GOOD. WE GOTTA KEEP MOVIN'. SAY, I GOTTA IDEE!
SEVERAL HOURS LATER
THE PLANE ARRIVED FROM CLEVELAND WITH YOUR PACKAGE. IT'S IN THE SHACK.
OH, THAT'S JIST FINE. I'LL SEND MR. SNICKERSQUE HIS RIGHT AWAY.
MOVE THAT THERE ONE NEXT TO THE ONE OVER ON THE EXTREME RIGHT.
I GOTCHA... UGH ... THIS'N'S KINDA HEAVY... MUST WEIGH TEN TON... BETTER USE THE CRANE.
CALLING BELOW... HULLO, HUMPHREY... OVER ON YOUR LEFT... THAT'S IT... KNOBBY'S CIGAR... SEND IT UP AND I'LL TELL 'EM WHERE TO PUT THE CEMENT ON THE HILL.
IT'S THE GREATEST THING I EVER HEARD OF. WE'RE IN HISTRY NOW LIKE THE SPINX AN' THE PYRA-MIDS!
HA HA... IT'S A SCREAM. THE PAPER CALLS IT THE BIGGEST JIG-SAW PUZZLE EVER CONSTRUCTED.
SAY, JOE... WE'RE READY TO SCREEN THE SECOND SEQUENCE.

SURE, JACK... WHERE ARE WE GOING?
HELLO? CINDY? WHAT'S YOUR PROBLEM?
WELL, IT'S REALLY CHERRY'S PROBLEM BUT IT'S VERY SERIOUS!
...A VICIOUS LITTLE JEZEBEL BY THE NAME OF JATO HAS A RIFT BETWEEN THEM...
HAS STRETCH SOLD ON THE IDEA THAT SHE'S TRYING TO BEFRIEND HIM AND CHERRY!
THE DUMB BOY IS COMPLETELY BLIND TO THE FACT THAT SHE'S A HOME-WRECKER!
WHERE ARE CHERRY AND LIL' MELODY, NOW?
WE HAVEN'T LOCATED THEM YET... BUT WHEN WE DO, CHERRY WOULD THINK AS LONG AS JATO IS STILL AT LARGE!
...I THINK YOU ARE JUST THE MAN TO TAKE THAT LIL' VIXEN FOR A HELL-BREAKIN' SLEIGH RIDE!
BUT, CINDY... WHAT MAKES YOU THINK I COULD CAUSE THIS JATO GAL TO FALL FOR ME?
WELL... ER... THIS IS A PERSONAL MATTER, SABLE/ I HAVE TO GO ALONE!
YEAH! IT MUST BE PERSONAL! WHO IS THIS JATO WOMAN YOU WERE TALKING ABOUT?
LATER} SAY... DON'T YOU GO OVERBOARD FOR ANY GOOD LOOKING SAILFISH WHILE I'M GONE, SABLE! HA-HA!
IF THAT JATO WOMAN IS PRETTY... YOU COME RIGHT BACK HERE... DO YOU HEAR ME, JACK? SO LONG, BIG LUG!
